

A Real Acrobat

Some one has said that the politician is a real acrobat, because he can have his ears to the ground, his feet in his mouth, his eyes on his job, and his hands in the pork barrel—all at the same time.

Possibly true of some politicians, but not all. However, there is no politics at our bank. We are simply here for business, trying to meet the needs of this community for an up-to-date bank. One man's money looks as good as another's here, and we try to be courteous to all.

IRRIGON NEWS ITEMS

Robert Smith is convalescing and hopes to be able to return to school after the Xmas vacation.

Supt. Sturgill, Mrs. Sturgill, Miss Marthaler, Miss Reeves and Mr. Harry Duckworth, motored to Pendleton Saturday last. The young ladies forgot their cases of class room long enough to do a little Xmas shopping.

Mrs. C. E. Glasco was home to spend Christmas after a serious operation at a hospital in Seattle. She will return to Seattle after the holiday vacation.

Jack Kelso of Walla Walla, an old friend of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Benefiel visited at the Benefiel home one day last week.

Mrs. Earl Rand returned to her home in Portland Sunday last after a two weeks' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Walpole.

The services at the church Sunday night was well attended by Irrigon, Hermiston and Stanfield people. These services will continue throughout the week.

Mr. Howard drove to Walla Walla Saturday to take his father and mother home. Mrs. Wisdom also went with them to make a short visit.

Chas. Peters has started to drill a well for J. W. Warner. Mr. Warner moved the outfit down from Mr. Newton's place a short distance this side of Umatilla.

Seed Growing Explained
The latest in growing Oregon farm crops—preparation of ground, selection treatment and planting of seed, cultivation and harvesting—will be explained to farmers in the short course at O. A. C. beginning January 2. This applies to general and special grain and seed crops, to forage and other special feed produce. Emphasis is placed on legume forage and other pasture crops, and on the new and fast growing seed production business.

Good Animals Recognized
In the process of getting good animals out of a poorer foundation selection of breeding mates plays so important a part that the principles of stock judging will have a big place in the short course at O. A. C. beginning January 2. Thorough drill in picking out the good ones in cattle, sheep, horses and hogs will be provided under men who coached winning teams in the state and regional fairs.

Managing Dairy Herd Told
Dairying seems slated to be the hub around which the wheel of Oregon diversified agriculture is to be built, and how to manage the herd most effectively in such situation, will be told at the short course at the college January 2 to March 19. Breed types, dairy types, testing and marketing milk and cream will be stressed.

Tea of Evergreen Leaves.
In Paraguay, Uruguay, Argentina, the Brazilian states, and to a less extent in Chile, a peculiar kind of tea is largely used by the native population. It is obtained from the roasted and pulverized leaves of an evergreen forest tree, the Ilex Paraguayensis. The outer branches of the tree are cut off and passed rapidly through the flames of a large fire, which with the leaves and tender stems, which are afterward dried and thoroughly smoked over a slow fire. Then they are ground to powder, and thus prepared for the making of tea. The beverage is said to be more gently stimulating than either coffee or ordinary tea, but it has a smoky flavor, disagreeable to the unaccustomed palate.—Detroit News.

Pretty Poor Nourishment.
An old negro from the back country, who was unused to modern methods in medicine, was sent to a hospital in Charleston. One of the nurses put a thermometer into his mouth to take his temperature. Presently when one of the doctors made his rounds he asked: "Well, Nathan, how do you feel?" "I feel right 'ol' boss." "Have you had any nourishment?" "Yassir." "What did you have?" "The patient grinned. "A lady done gimme a piece of glass to suck, boss."—Everybody's Magazine.

TURBOT IS ALWAYS THERE

Permanent Fixture Found in the Menu of an English Dining Car.

One of the first truths to be learned from the study of esthetics is that the nature of the material, the existing cause, of pleasure goes for very little in the composition of that pleasure. It is what we bring, not what we receive, which makes us glad or sorry.

An instance of this great philosophical truth is within easy reach of every traveler.

No one, not even the master caterers of the great railway companies, whose new names are still as strange to us, would lay hand on heart and swear that in respect to quality the meals served in the luncheon cars of our long-distance trains were choice food. Considering the difficulties, they are surprisingly dished, and deftly served by the obliging waiters.

But there is nearly always turbot, or cod—fishes that, when they take the train or stay in a hotel, become as uninteresting, as reserved, as flatly respectable as English travelers themselves.

The choice between roast joint hot and pressed beef or ham cold seems no choice at all, but a double compulsion, as of pistols or swords to a timid duelist. And the meal, unlike all other meals, be it luncheon or be it dinner, strikes one as drawing slowly crescendo to a climax of sweetish biscuits and gorgonzola cheese. Why is there nearly always gorgonzola cheese in the train, and why does one always eat and enjoy it there, and rarely anywhere else?—London Times.

Wishing you all

New Year
