WOMAN'S WORLD IS WIDER

Increased Opportunities for Gainful Employment Are Found by the Fair Sex.

Women are now enfranchised and enjoy almost equal educational opportunities with men. They may enter practically all professions and trades, and 21.01 per cent of them are gainfully employed.

The passage by almost every state of married women's property and equal guardianship acts has freed wives and mothers from the medievalism of the common law, says Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale in Current History Magazine.

Prosperity and machinery have given us on the one hand the largest leisure class of women the world has known, while on the other hand modern industries (replacing the old home industries by quantity production in factories), plus the increased cost of living, drives an ever larger proportion of women into extra domestic remunerative work.

Murder Defined.

What is murder in the first degree? In the second degree? These definitions differ with the statutes of the states. In general it may be said that murder in the first degree is confined to homicide committed by poison, lying in wait and other killings committed in pursuance of a deliberate and premeditated design, and to those which accomplish the commission of some of the more atrocious felonies, such as burglary, arson and rape.

Our Currency.

At the present time there are five kinds of paper money or currency issued for circulation purposes. The United States Treasury issues three kinds: (1) United States notes, an authorized issue of about 346 million dollars protected by gold reserve of approximately 152 million dollars; (2) gold certificates issued against an equal amount of gold held in the U. S. Treasury for redemption, and (3) silver certificates issued against an equal amount of standard silver dollars held in the U. S. Treasury. Two kinds of bank currency are issued—national bank notes, secured by deposit of United States bonds, and Federal Reserve notes, secured by commercial paper and gold—Argonaut.

First Engine Used in 1829. The first steam made in the United States to use locomotive engines, otherwise than for mere experiment, was made on the railway from Carbonate to Honesdale, Pa., 16 miles, built by the Delaware and Hudson Canal company. The Stourbridge Lion, a locomotive built in England, was placed upon the road in August, 1829. In 1830, construction was begun on the South Carolina railroad, and the road was designed and built to be operated by steam locomotives. This was the first railway built with the purpose from the beginning of using steam locomotives.

Nothing at All.

"And you'd love me just the same if I hadn't a cent; wouldn't you, dear?" "Don't be foolish, darling! You know, money is nothing to me. But I hope you're been telling me the truth about your prospects, for I never could condone falsehood!"—Judge.

Girls are equivalent to money in Liberia, Sister Jennie Larmouth, who recently returned to Baltimore after five years' missionary work in Liberia, said the other day. She was stationed at Kpopele, a three-day trip in hammocks, borne by negroes, from the coast.

When fathers of Liberia are in need of money they frequently pawn their daughters and sons, and seldom are they redeemed, Sister Jennie said. A girl is also worth a great deal to the native Liberian in the interior because the parents receive a dowry from her husband at her marriage, and even after the wedding they can, at any time, demand more from the husband.

"Girls are married at fourteen or sixteen. I once knew a native king," said Sister Jennie, "who had 150 wives."

"The Liberians have their native schools, where they are taught crafts, such as mat weaving, and where, it is said, they learn also the secret of their medicines and native dyes. The schools are in the 'bush,' as the natives call their forests."—Baltimore Sun.

One-Man Railway for Roof Workers. The Seattle Daily Times has installed on the top of its six-story newspaper building a small "one-man" railway for the convenience of workers on the roof. A little car located on the roof carries a 200-pound counterbalance, which circumnavigates the roof. A man, standing on the platform suspended from the car, can reach all cornice lights on the building.

The Customer Had One.

"Yes, sir," said the barber, "my poor brother, Jim, has been sent to an asylum. He got to broodin' over the hard times, and it finally drove him crazy. He and I worked side by side, and we both brooded a great deal. No money in this business now, you know. Prices too low. Unless a customer has a shampoo, it doesn't pay to shave or hair-cut. I caught Jim trying to cut a chap's throat because he declined a shampoo, so I had to have the poor fellow locked up. Makes me sad. Sometimes I feel sorry I didn't let him slash. It would have been our revenge. Shampoo, sir?"—Sydney (Australia) Sun.

Helen Among the Missing. When Rufus Steel and Dick Hotaling met recently they compared domes. "It seems to me," said Steel, "that the last time I saw you there was a hair still standing, over toward the southwest section. What has become of it?" "Ah, yes," said Hotaling, "that was Helen. Helen is dead. You'll notice I'm naming them now instead of numbering them. It seems more affectionate."

AMAZING FEATS BY WOMAN

Hindu Female's Remarkable Show of Strength Due to Strange Power Taught Her by Fakira.

There have recently come to light some extraordinary feats of strength by a Hindu woman, which should cause men of today to think twice before referring to women as the weaker sex.

The woman in question is Miss Tarabal, born some thirty years ago in a small village in Rajputana.

At the age of seven she was left an orphan and adopted by fakirs (holy men), with whom she remained for several years, disguised as a boy. It was by these men that she was initiated into the mysteries of breath control and the power of commanding her physical and mental forces.

Suspended between two chairs by her head and feet, Miss Tarabal has a large stone placed on her chest, while two men pound upon it with heavy sledge-hammers. But this did not affect her.

Miss Tarabal then laid down upon the ground and a cart laden with men and boys was drawn across her chest and arms. She was protected only by a pad, but she did not flinch. She thinks nothing of raising from the ground a stone weighing 240 pounds by means of ropes tied to her hair.

It is the remarkable power of directing all her energies she possesses to any particular part of her body at will that enables her to lie for several minutes on the sharp points of five spears and to push backward a laden cart by pressing with her head against the sharp point of a spear fastened to its shafts.—Strand Magazine.
