Thanksgiving in the Holy Land

The average American has an idea that Thanksgiving is a national holiday peculiar to his country and celebrated because of proclamations issued by the President and by governors of states, whereas the feast of Thanksgiving is observed in many other countries. One of the most interesting observances of this feast is held by the Jews in Jerusalem, though it is celebrated in a very different manner from that we are accustomed to think of as Thanksgiving, says a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

While we here celebrate the day by discontinuing all business and giving up ourselves mostly to the Thanksgiving dinner, in the Far East the Thanksgiving is continued as a religious service for several days, though accompanied by much merry-making, during which all business is suspended. This ancient Hebrew people, clinging to the memory of their glorious past, drawn near to each other because of their common love for their peculiar traditions and for their "To-rah"—their solace through the ages—gather in colonies at sites theirs by right through inheritance, though not granted them by the members of their land. Driven through the centuries from country to country, persecuted for their religion and massacred by the injustice of radical prejudice, they now flock to their own country, selling all they possess to pay the voyage, and come, to look upon the land where they lived their patriarchs and prophets and to die and be buried on holy soil.

Three Great Festivities.
The three greatest feasts in which the Jew remembers his past and fulfills in all the details possible the old Mosaic law in the land promised to Moses so many centuries ago, are the Passover, Tabernacles and Pentecost. It is at the Feast of Passover that he offers the Paschal sacrifice in the temple on Mount Sinai, since upon its site stands a gorgeous mosque where only Islam bends the knee and bows the head in adoration to Allah and Mohammed. Yet there are times when the Jew in his own ancient land rejoices and is glad. With thanks to his God for the existence today of his race—still set apart—and with great festivity he commemorates God's wonderful preservation of this people and celebrates the remarkable events in their history. He is elated at the privilege of being able to celebrate his own feasts in the place where they were instituted, and this is entirely possible at the Feast of Thanksgiving, for it is a festival for the synagogue and the home, and there are no obstacles in the Holy Land to the fulfilling of every letter of the law in regard to this celebration. Setting care and business aside, he dons his handsomest gowns and goes to the synagogue, which has also been decorated in festive attire, and with a thankful heart he enters into a service which is all joyousness.

Celebrate in "Tabernacles."
The principal feature of this Feast of Thanksgiving is the dwelling in "tabernacles" or booths for seven days. Under a perfect blue sky, surrounded by the eternal "hills round about Jerusalem," amid ancient olive trees, or in desolate stony fields of ruin stand the little Jewish colonies, and by each house its little "sucen" for celebrating the feast. Each colony has its own synagogue, and here the rabbi leads the congregation in the songs of thanksgiving, while the women prepare the festive meal to be served within the green booth. Here the family meet in deep happiness because they have been able to fulfill the command of Moses their "law giver" once again, and in the Holy Land. The Feast of Thanksgiving commemorates God's goodness in the past to the Israelites in the wilderness. Their long wandering in the journey to the Promised Land is symbolized by their residence by day in these booths for the space of a week. This festival is also called the Feast of Ingathering. This thought is illustrated by the plants in the "sucen" and by the branch with which it is built; also by the palms and willows and lemons which are brought into the synagogues and rejoiced over.

Picturesque Services.
All the services are exceedingly picturesque and all the customs are surrounded by symbolical tokens and figurative acts and parabolic speech. For this ancient people belong to a past age when man clung to symbols,

His Fiery Steed

and to an oriental clime where all speech is flowery and filled with imagery. In this land, sacred by its wonderful history, mystic by its strange traditions, ancient, because the birthplace of venerable religions, where the city walls inclose beloved ruins, and the barren stony hills speak sorrowfully of what has been and is no more, there is something peculiarly touching and appropriate in the continuance of these old-time customs. The construction of these "tabernacles" furnishes a time of great amusement to young and old, for all members of the family take part in the rearing and decorating of this airy home within which the feast is to be celebrated. Some choose the large, open courtyard of the house for the site of this temporary residence, while others prefer to build it on the flat roof of the house.

Time for Neighborliness
The charities of the rich are indeed widespread, and to the heart really attuned to the spirit of Thanksgiving it seems a far more lovely thing to read of their gifts of clothing and food, at their sitting at the bedside of the sick and sorrowing, than to pore through their fine social doings in the society column. Although the Bible tells us it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than a rich man to enter heaven, one feels inclined to believe that exceptions will be made. In truth, the rich and poor are very close at Thanksgiving time, and all the rest of us who can just scrape along try to do our level best by the friends and neighbors who are less well off.—Chicago Daily News.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 7:30 P. M.

The rapid change of government among the nations, seem only to check temporarily their steady approach to utter collapse.

Thrones are toppled over to make way for military dictators. Officials of republics serve only the selfish interests of big business; and instead of an improvement of affairs, each new move leaves the nations weaker. Suffering is increased; lawlessness becomes rampant and hopelessness is followed by despair.

This march of the nations toward destruction and anarchy moves onward relentlessly. Armageddon, which nations seek to avert by their union, leagues, associations and federations, looms up threateningly.

Yet man need not entirely despair. This troublous period of earth's history was foretold as immediately preceding the new order—a righteous world wide government.
