THANKSGIVING

Why should I be thankful?
 That is a question which some persons may ask of themselves with the return of another anniversary of the national day of thanks.
 For many things, indeed. For that multitude of blessings mutually enjoyed by all of us—friends, a home, good health, work to do, loved ones, faith, hope, happiness.
 To be sure, the above may not belong to all of us in the fullest measure, but to each of us is given the greater part of these common blessings.
 We should be grateful that we are living in this present age, without any doubt the greatest, most interesting age of our present civilization. In a material way, our opportunities for enjoyment and service and profit are the greatest of any age to this present day. Inventions has made, dreams come true in such great measure as make commonplaces for us those things that were merely the dreams of so called visionaries a short decade or so ago.
 By radio we are in communication with a score of the big cities of the western hemisphere every evening if we wish. By motor we may travel at a speed undreamed of only a yesterday or so ago. In our metropolitan newspapers we know of news of world events as it happens, and often those events are forehadowed for us before they happen. We may see pictures that were taken on the other side of the world and have them transmitted to our eyes by means of new and wonderful inventions within a few hours after being taken. Judged even by the experiences of men not yet middle aged, how many miracles have been performed for us!
 We may be thankful for citizenship in a great commonwealth, a country magnificent in the record it has made during the brief time it has existed. How far it has traveled! What a vast service it has rendered! And while it is good that we should revere the record of the past we may also look forward to a field of future accomplishment which is our duty to perform.
 We have much to be thankful for.

SWEET CLOVER SEED IS BEING SOLD RAPIDLY
 Government Reports Indicates Crop Moves Faster Than Last Year At Higher Price.
 Sweet Clover Seed movement has been more rapid than last year or the year before. The United States department of agriculture estimates that by November 2, 70 per cent had left growers' hands, compared with 45 per cent a month ago, 40-45 per cent last year, and 50 per cent two years ago.
 The movement has been more rapid in northern Wyoming, southeastern Kansas, northeastern South Dakota, western Iowa and Colorado, where from 80-85 per cent of the crop has moved, and slowest in central Illinois. In the heaviest producing districts of the Dakotas and Minnesota, 60-75 per cent has moved, compared with 40-50 per cent on October 5, and 30-45 per cent last year. From October 5 to November 2 the heaviest movements occurred in South Dakota and Minnesota.
 Reports on quality confirm earlier ones to the effect that it averages somewhat better than last year.
 Prices paid growers advanced during October 5-November 2 about 70 cents per 100 pounds, compared with $1.05 during the previous three weeks. On November 2 prices in 17 states and districts averaged $9.10 per 100 pounds, basis clean, compared with $8.40 on October 5 and $5.85 a year ago. In the main producing sections of Minnesota and the Dakotas the average was $9.30 compared with $8.70 on October 5, $7.25 on September 11, and $5.25 a year ago.
 Carryover of old seed by growers was indicated to be about the same or slightly smaller than that of a year ago.
 Imports of white clover seed during October amounted to 456,300 pounds. None was received in October, 1925. For the period July 1-October 31, 757,900 pounds was imported, compared with 134,100 last year. For the same period 24,400 pounds of Yellow Blossom was imported in 1926 and 71,800 in 1925.

Florence Crittenton Homes
 Charles Nelson Crittenton was an American philanthropist, born in Adams, Jefferson county, N. Y. He went into the drug business in New York City in 1861; but after 1882, when his five-year-old daughter Florence died, he devoted his time and wealth to the establishment of Florence Crittenton homes for homeless and unfortunate girls and their infant children. In 1885 the National Florence Crittenton mission was incorporated to carry on this work. Of these mission homes more than 70 were organized in Mr. Crittenton's lifetime in all the larger cities of the United States and in Manilla, Tokyo, Shanghai, the City of Mexico, etc.

VETERANS STILL NEED RED CROSS

Aid to Disabled Men Increases as Problems and Legislation Bring Complications.

20,000 MEN DIE EACH YEAR

Many Entitled to Benefits Still Uninformed of Just Claims to Compensation.

Eight years after the World War finds service to disabled veterans still a major responsibility of the American Red Cross.
 This situation is due to the increasing problems involved and the complex character of veteran legislation. There is also an increase in numbers of "death cases" handled, as compared with claims for living veterans, though the work for the latter remains heavy. About 20,000 ex-service men are dying each year, a considerable percentage of these having service-connected disabilities.
 In a majority of cases, Red Cross Chapters find their assistance is needed in helping dependents present their claims for death compensation, insurance payments, bonus, burial allowances, and other government benefits due them. An episode of the past year illustrates the difficulties frequently encountered by the Red Cross experts in rendering such assistance. A veteran dying from service-connected disease, was lying from his bedside to establish at that late time his claim for Government aid to his family, and the necessary proofs were in a physician's records across the continent from him. To obtain the needed affidavits before it was too late, a cross-continent airplane flight was necessary, then a Red Cross Chapter in Pennsylvania hurried the investigation, sending the papers back to the veteran and his Red Cross helpers in Oregon, by air-mail.
 Another discovery in Red Cross assistance to veterans and their families is that many dependents of these men unquestionably entitled to Government aid, have struggled along, ignorant of their rights.
 Approximately 2,686 Red Cross Chapters carry on Home Service work, in assistance to veterans and their families. The Chapters also conduct campaign among veterans for re-insurance and conversion of their term insurance. Among its other duties, the Red Cross assumed at the request of the Canadian Government the administration of a fund allotted to the care of Canadian disabled veterans living in the United States.
 In the United States the Red Cross assisted an average of about 80,000 disabled veterans and their families every month in the past fiscal year. Indicating the size of this undertaking, National Headquarters of the Red Cross expended $1,641,178.18 on disabled veterans alone, and $509,451.72 on assistance to men on active duty with the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, while Red Cross local Chapters expended a total of $1,987,000. Red Cross assistance to service men overshadowed every other phase of its program, even its disaster relief, until the Florida hurricane.
 Help for veterans covers many demands, from temporary aid until Government claims are adjusted or until the ex-soldier is properly hospitalized, to extending capital loans to rehabilitated veterans endeavoring to become self-supporting in business. Several such capital loans were to blind veterans.
 Contact with veterans in hospitals is maintained by Red Cross personnel which doctors agree influences the veteran's welfare and improvement. The Veterans' Bureau was planned to carry on social work in its hospitals for mental cases, and in many cases the Government and the Red Cross are co-operating for the welfare of the men suffering war disabilities. The public is invited to assist this work by joining the Red Cross during the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 25.

Red Cross Volunteer Workers Ever on Duty

Claim for the oldest volunteer knitter in the country is advanced by the Lincoln County Chapter of the American Red Cross at Wiscasset, Maine. She is Mrs. L. A. W. Jackson, who keeps busy knitting stockings for the Red Cross to send to destitute children abroad. The San Pedro, Calif. Chapter has a close second in a volunteer knitter 85 years old.
 The annual report of the American Red Cross stresses the service of volunteers. In more than 3,000 Red Cross Chapters the officers and workers are volunteers.
 They will act as solicitors in the Tenth Annual Roll Call for members, which the Red Cross will conduct from November 11 to 25.

Red Cross Life-Saving Service Is Nation-Wide

Scarcity of water apparently has no effect on interest in water rescue. Arizona, popularly associated with wide desert stretches and cactus, has gone in with enthusiasm for the Red Cross Life-Saving program.
 The building of new irrigation dams is rapidly transforming Arizona into a swimming State despite popular conception of that country.
 In more than 800 swimming institutes conducted by the Red Cross the last summer, life-saving instruction was given by the Red Cross.
 During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, 7,145 men, 5,408 women, and 16,713 juniors passed the rigid tests of the Red Cross Life-Saving Service, and were awarded insignia. The total for the year of 29,266 represents an increase of 5,374 over the previous year. The total membership of this corps at the close of the year was 102,976.
 The Tenth Annual Roll Call from November 11 to 25 is an opportunity to encourage these efforts through membership in the Red Cross.

The Tenth Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross is held this year from November 11 to 25. It is an invitation to you to endorse with your membership its wide reaching service to humanity.
