FUNGO BAT AND BILLIARD CUE BEAT GOLF CLUBS IN FREAK MATCH PLAYED HERE TODAY

The combination of a fungo bat and a billiard cue proved good enough to make a better score than a set of golf club in the hands of two local golfers today when H. E. Hitt and J. O. Felthouse played their freak match on the Hermiston course.

Hitt, using a willow fungo bat for drives and approaches and a billiard cue for his putting, made a 52 on nine holes. Felthouse shot a 56. The match was the result of a wager made a fortnight ago. A large audience witnessed the match.

was attained by using a small May pole as a decoration for the table with colorful pin dolls to represent dancing children. The color scheme was delicate shades of pink and blue. The salad, sandwiches and cookies were delicious served with tea.

MORCROP

Fertilizers Increase Yield Per Acre and Per Man--Improve Quality, Save Labor and Make Bigger Profits.

Every progressive farmer is interested in bigger and better crops provided they can be produced at a profit. Every bushel, pound or ton of product sold off the farm, whether it be grain, vegetables, fruit, milk or meat, contains elements of plant food; and sooner or later every soil will show the effect of this constant drain on its resources in decreased yields. Fertilizers supply the crops with those elements of plant food which the soil, unaided, cannot supply, or those which are not supplied in manure or by the growth of legumes.

The labor required to produce high acre yields is little more than in the case of low acre yields; but the high yields are produced with less labor per bushel, pound or ton. By increasing the yield, fertilizers reduce the labor cost per unit of production.

Average yields just about pay the cost of production. The use of fertilizers in connection with other good farm practices points the way to more satisfactory profits and to higher income.
