

SOUND JUDGMENT

Is a result of experience.
Experience is the fruit of action. It may be pleasant or unpleasant. In the gaining of experience the individual makes profits and takes losses.
A bank is able to know the experience of the citizens of a community in fuller measure than any other agency.
The experience we have gained in handling business under local conditions during the 20 years since Hermiston became a town is at the service of every customer.

"Debasing" of Metals

Adds to Their Value

The fact that certain metals will mix to form alloys with a greater variety of properties than either of the original metals is of great importance to industry.

Usually, an alloy will melt at a much lower temperature than either of the metals of which it is composed. Solder, a mixture of tin and lead, is an example.

Alloys can be produced to suit circumstances in which plain metals would fail. Brass is hard, yet easily turned, and so is adapted to purposes for which its components, zinc and copper, would be unsuitable. By mixing nine parts of copper with one of tin, the very tough, hard alloy known as gun-metal is produced. The increase of bell-metal is obtained by mixing tin and copper in certain proportions.

Even our coinage is made up of alloys, the gold and silver being mixed with small proportions of other metals, chiefly for the sake of giving greater durability to the coins.

Alloys, too, call into use metals that are of no great value by themselves. Antimony is of little use in itself, but it is of great use in hardening other metals and enters into the composition of type-metal and Britannia-ware.

Great Express Lines

Had Humble Beginning

The first express company in the United States was launched about 88 years ago, when the following "ad" appeared in the New York and Boston papers announcing its inception: "William F. Hamden has made arrangements with the Providence railroad and the New York Boat company to run a car through from Boston to New York and vice versa, four times weekly. He will accompany the car himself, take care of all packages that may be entrusted to him and see same safely delivered."

Evidently Hamden would be the ideal promoter if he were alive today, for his car was purely a fragment of the imagination. He carried the packages himself in a valise, and as he had formerly been a conductor on the railroad his old associates permitted him to travel free. Hamden's first real competitor was Alvin Adams, who founded the Adams Express company.

"Shook Up" Officeholders

President Andrew Jackson was among the first Presidents to recognize the power of the press and the value of its support in a political campaign. Not long after his inauguration some of his advisers decided that it was highly important to have a newspaper in Washington.

They organized the Washington Globe and started it on an immediate paying basis by the simple procedure of making a subscriber of every federal officeholder whose salary was more than $1,000 a year. The hand-picked subscribers were sent the paper and a bill for a year's subscription. Most of them paid promptly and with as good grace as they could summon. A few balked, and these were told they could either pay up or get another job. They paid.—Kansas City Times.

Early Caterpillar

A Hampstead correspondent recalls that nearly seventy years ago he saw in Hyde park a trial of a military train of wagons loaded with soldiers dressed in fatigue jackets and drawn by a steam engine bearing the name India. This engine, he says, laid and raised its own track, each "slipper" being apparently about four feet long, mounted, and revolving on rollers much like the modern caterpillar movement. The experiment, according to the London Post, appeared to aim at improved military transport, and the men hauled would probably number about 200 in eight wagons.

Record Gold Nugget

The largest gold nugget in the world is the Welcome nugget, from Australia. This was found in Bakery Hill, Ballarat, Victoria, Australia, June 11, 1858, at a depth of 180 feet. It weighs 2,155 troy ounces and is probably one of the purest and largest masses of gold ever recorded. It is approximately 90 per cent. One of the largest masses of gold (by some called nugget) in California was found in 1850 in the Monumental mine, in the Buttes of Sierra County, Calif. It weighs 1,500 troy ounces and has an approximate value of $20,000.

Term of Opprobrium

Fakir is a word that has come to us from the Far East where it literally means a poor man, a Mohammedan religious mendicant, who espouses poverty as being in harmony with his sense of spiritual insignificance. The life is one of inactivity. Many of these ascetics are sincere, but many were humbugs and so in the West the word "fakir" has come to mean much the same as mountebank, an impostor, especially in matters relating to religion.

Yeoman Farmers

Yeoman is a small farmer or countryman, but it is used generally to indicate a landowner working his own farm. A military corps known as Yeomen of the Guards was formed in England by Henry VII. The Yeomanry was a body of volunteers formed during the wars with Napoleon, and organized according to counties. Yeomanry regiments were also raised during the South African war.

Their Omission

Andrey's mamma had taken her to the picture show, and as the preliminary explanations began to enroll the child evidenced increasing interest. After she had read, "Story by Pendlay, directed by Puffer, photographed by Snapp, assisted by Shott, titles by Begad and Begash, criticisms by Grimm, costumes by Scant and Short, passed by the national board of censorship," she began to laugh. "Mamma," she gaily said, "they haven't told me who removed the gentleman's appointment, or why."—Kansas City Star.

Her Punishment

Dora had been a bad girl, and her mother decided that a lecture would do a deal of good. Accordingly, she called her daughter on one side and the lecture took place.

"Dora," admonished the girl's mother, "you must stop this abominable flirting. Remember, you'll be punished in the end!"

"But, mother," protested the girl, "I have heard that you flirted, yourself, and you've never been punished."

The older woman frowned. "Child," she returned with great solemnity, "some day I want you to make a close study of your father."—London Answers.
