A. L. Mallery of Tillamook, president of the Oregon State Editorial association, was in Hermiston Wednesday and spent a short time in the Herald office. The association will hold its convention in Roseburg early in August.

Dr. and Mrs. Wm. M. Dale and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wilson of Portland were here the first of the week as guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Dale. They were en route to Wallowa lake on a fishing trip and vacation.

In the evening union services will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church with Rev. S. Hamrick, pastor, preaching.

Hermiston is being represented at the state convention of the American Legion at La Grande this week. Herb Shesely and Lyle Tilden are delegates from the local post. For the auxiliary organization, Mrs. Shesely is delegate and Mrs. J. M. Biggs alternate. Mr. and Mrs. Shesely left Wednesday, and Mr. and Mrs. Biggs left this morning.

A. A. Little went to Spokane Saturday and made the return trip Sunday. He was accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Edna Pugh and her children, who will spend a vacation period here. In honor of their guests Mr. and Mrs. Little entertained informally with a party and dance Tuesday evening. Twelve couples were present for the evening.

The Playhouse theatre has added what it calls its "birthday party" feature. Children have been requested to leave the dates of their birthdays at the office, and on these dates each child who notifies the management will receive a birthday greeting card which will entitle him to attend a show as a guest of the theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ackley (Vivian Nation) were here last week as guests at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Nation. Their marriage was an event of this month. They came here from Seattle where they spent some time visiting Mr. Ackley's parents. They went from here to Tappanish where they will make their home. The bride formerly lived here and has many friends.

N. C. Donaldson is county agent of Walla Walla county, and farmers there are experimenting on the production of seed potatoes, he said while in Hermiston for a few minutes Saturday. He was accompanied by D. E. Stephens, superintendent of Moro experiment station. Mr. Stephens has scores of wheat plots on the big farm, and some experimental work has also been done there with peas and potatoes under dry land conditions. The two men were en route to Moro after having been in the eastern part of the state and at Caldwell, Idaho, where they attended a meeting that was addressed by W. M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dyer are in Powell Butte, Oregon, as guests at the home of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Peterson.

Logan Todd never has attended a department convention of the American Legion. He was in Hermiston Wednesday morning and saw enough of the "gang" driving by on the way to La Grande to get him mightily excited. The upshot of the deal was that he decided the La Grande meeting would be a failure unless he went over to help the boys celebrate these piping days of peace. So he went.

Hermiston was more or less startled early Wednesday morning when a truck trailing a Forty and Eight box car passed through town. The truck's siren was sounded lustily as the apparatus of the fun branch of the American Legion hit the high spots toward La Grande. The apparatus was the property of the Albany chapter. "I wouldn't care about such spectacles so much if folks didn't call the telephone office and ask about the fire," said C. A. Paul.

Little Miss Roenee McFalls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roe McFalls, was hostess at a delightful birthday party given by her mother at their country home last Friday afternoon. The party was in honor of Roenee's seventh birthday anniversary. Sixteen boys and girls about her own age were present between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock. Games were played, and refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served in the lawn.

"Just because we caught very few fish is no reason why folks should consider our trip to the mountains a failure," said J. S. West on Monday, after returning with Floyd Knerr and Otto C. Pierce from the camp of the local men in the mountains. "You see, I wasn't fishing. My chief purpose in making the trip was to inspect some of the stock that we left over in that district last fall for seed. I think it will be a cinch to get deer this fall, but it looks to me as if bear grease will be high." Reports have it that the three men did not bring back a single fish.

Romans First to Make Fine Art of Bathing

Historical writers mention people in early times as bathing and cleansing themselves in some manner or another. Although the time of the first bath tub is fixed on or about 200 B. C., it was not until several centuries later that general use was made of tubs for bathing.

The Greeks are said to have been the first to use what we might term a bathtub, but which was really only a bowl not large enough to hold a bather and which necessitated dipping the water out of the vessel and pouring it over the body. The practice of bathing flourished and the Greeks made luxurious use of it, but it took the early Romans to develop the practice almost into a fine art.

Some of the largest Roman baths covered areas of a square mile and could accommodate over 3,000 people.

For over 600 years Rome used no other medicine than her baths.

The swimming tank in the city of Maccernas was the first to use warm water. No mention is made as to how the water was heated. The earliest method was to place heated stones in the water and later using dracones, or coils of thin brass pipes, which passed through large jars heated by flames of fire.

Bathing spread to the English and in 1127 Henry I included bathing in the initiation ceremony accompanying the knighting of 600 commoners into the "Order of the Bath."

"Moaning Ghost" Said to Have Become Bore

Bermuda would seem to offer an inviting field for the Society of Psychical Research. Several old houses on the islands are reputed to be haunted, and one of them, owned by a well-known American writer, has for its particular writh the ghost of a notorious pirate who frequented the spot in the picturesque olden times. Another specter haunts an ancient mansion now serving as the winter home of a wealthy American family. This is said to be the ghost of Dorothy Tucker, an aged colored woman who toiled on the surrounding estate in slavery days, and who, for some misdemeanor, was locked in a cellar, where she was forgotten and thus starved to death. Since then, as a spook, old Aunt Tucker has often appeared, according to local stories and as she always moves and wrings her hands, she is popularly known as the moaning ghost. She is said to have appeared so often to former tenants of the house that they became accustomed to her presence and were even bored by her repeated visits.

Importance of Oil

Springs of oil were mentioned by a Franciscan missionary writing of a visit to America in 1632, but the real man, when laid low by sickness, skimmed it from the surface of the rivers and drank it as medicine years before the Paleface set foot in the country. Products of petroleum are met with on every hand today, motor cars, motor boats, airplanes, and airplanes all rely for their safety on petrol, for fuel in their engines, ocean liners, the mighty generating machinery, providing electric current for countless purposes, and the driving power for our great industries often depend on "crude oil" for power, either to raise steam or for direct use in internal combustion engines.

Lowden Urged to Be Candidate

Oregon, Ill.—Former Governor Frank O. Lowden, at his country estate, Mississippi farm, was asked to be candidate for president of the United States by a group of Nebraska citizens headed by Governor Adam McMullen, republican, who recently declared himself in favor of Lowden and deserted the camp of President Coolidge.

Calendar Curiosities

The calendar offers certain curiosities which are little known. No century can commence on a Wednesday, Friday or Saturday. The month of October commences always on the same day of the week as the month of January; February, March, and November commence on the same day of the week. May, June and August commence on different days. These rules do not apply to leap years. The ordinary year always finishes on the same day of the week as it commenced.

Information

Mother was asking her son about the fine points of hockey. Question after question she asked him, and he answered glibly, for, like all youths, he was well versed in sports at least. The small youngster was listening round-eyed to all these questions. Finally she said in amazement: "Why do you ask brother all these questions? You're older than he is and you must know more than he does. 'Sides I thought you knew everything anyway.'"—Springfield Union.

AT THE THEATRE

On Friday and Saturday of this week the Playhouse will show Reginald Denny in a knockout comedy, "Where Was I?" which is said to be one of his best pictures.

Sunday and Monday, July 24 and 25, "The Teaser" with an all star cast will be offered. Tuesday and Wednesday, July 26 and 27, "The Man Upstairs" will be the attraction.

Friday and Saturday, July 29 and 30, patrons will have a chance to see a big picture at no increase in prices. "The Country Beyond," based on the novel of the same name by James Oliver Curwood, will be shown.
