This is General Motors Proving Ground

A birdseye view of the 1245-acre Proving Ground maintained by General Motors to assure the quality and value of its cars and trucks.

1. Entrance to the Proving Ground. The group of buildings includes complete experimental and service shops, engineering offices and comfortable living quarters for resident and visiting engineers and for the driving crews. The Proving Ground personnel numbers more than 200 men.
2. The 4-mile high-speed loop. The largest in America, made of concrete, with turns banked to permit continuous high-speed operation. In addition, the Proving Ground has two concrete straight-aways 1 1/2 miles long, as level as a billiard table, and miles of brick, tar, gravel and dirt roads which reproduce every driving and weather condition.
3. The hill-test road. Test hill grades at the Proving Ground range from 7.26 per cent to 24 per cent. The grades on public highways seldom exceed 7 per cent.
4. The "bath-tub." A depressed concrete roadway which is filled with water at varying depths to reproduce flooded roadway conditions.

Here each General Motors car must prove its value

ON a 1245-acre tract near Milford, Michigan, convenient to all its car and truck divisions, General Motors has the first and largest proving ground for automobiles.

Here tests are made and facts determined to a degree impossible when cars and trucks are tested on the public highways. Here each new model of General Motors must prove itself, point by point, before it is produced for sale to the public.

More than 135 different tests are applied to each car tested at the Proving Ground.

They involve every phase of construction and performance: power, speed, endurance, acceleration, braking, steering, handling, riding comfort, fuel economy and so on. In three months a car or truck covers more miles than you would drive it in three years.

The Proving Ground is another example of how General Motors is serving the public. It is also your assurance that when you buy a General Motors product you are getting all possible quality and value at its price and the advantages of a policy of continuous improvement.

Look at these values—then clip the coupon

The current models of General Motors cars are briefly described below. Never before in the history of the automobile industry have such performance, such quality, such comfort and such beauty been offered in their respective price classes. They have been proved at the Proving Ground!

See which car or cars interest you most, then check and mail the coupon below. You will receive complete, illustrated information, together with two interesting little books telling all about General Motors Proving Ground and just what General Motors policies are.
