Picture Writing Led to Modern Alphabet

Writing in its earliest development was ideography or picture writing. It comprised a series of pictures representing first a thing and secondly an idea. In the next stage of progress most of the lines of a recurring picture would be left out, until one stroke might at last come to represent perhaps a lion or the idea of hunting. The writing of some of the peoples of today is merely a continuation of such picture writing. Among other races the picture writing gradually developed into a combination of sounds to form the alphabet, and this type of writing has been set down in all sorts of ways. Each people developed its own alphabet, Eastern people for the most part writing, as we would say, backwards, i. e., from right to left; or downward; while our own branch of the human race which has developed the "cursive" style of writing in which each letter can be joined to the next without lifting the pen, find writing from left to right the most convenient method.

Toad's Eggs Hatched on Back of Mother

Among the 80 species of toads known there is one, the water toad of Central America, which presents many curious and interesting features. These toads employ a strange way of hatching their eggs. Most species lay their eggs in the creeks or ponds and leave them there until they are hatched. The pupa of Central America lay theirs in the water the same as the other species, but as soon as they are laid, the father lifts them up and literally plants them in the back of the mother toad. There they remain until they hatch. The skin of the mother toad becomes unusually thick and soft at this season of the year. Each egg occupies a separate round cell chamber, which later, by the pressure of each cell against the other, takes the shape of a honeycomb cell. Eighty-two days elapse before the hatching of the eggs. They remain in the back of the mother toad during this entire period. When they begin to hatch, they present a curious sight.

Long Term of Darkness

In the Arctic region on March 21 the sun is just visible on the horizon and appears to circle about it. From this day onward the sun continues to circle around in the sky, each day at a greater elevation until on June 21 an altitude of 23 1/2 degrees is reached. After this date the circling is at a lower elevation and is again on the horizon on September 23; thus the sun is visible for six months. After September 23 the sun circles below the horizon, gradually descending until December 22, and then gradually ascending until it reappears on March 21; thus there is a period of six months of darkness.

Its essential purpose is to promote fundamental research in the fields of physical and biological sciences. The National Academy of Sciences was founded in 1803 and consists of members elected from among the most distinguished scientific men of the United States.

Earth's Big Bulge

As the earth's crust is by no means rigid it rises and falls under the gravitational attraction of the moon and sun in a manner similar to that of the ocean's tide. Various difficulties have so far prevented exact measurements. The pressure exerted on spots of the earth's crust by the rising tide of the ocean is another thing that makes it heave and fall. Atlantic tides have caused an observed earth bulge 800 miles away, and it is thought probable that this influence girdles the world.

SENATOR CURTIS IS FORMALLY NOTIFIED

Non-Partisan Disposition of Farm Problem Advocated in Acceptance Speech.

Topeka, Kan.—Nonpartisan disposition of the vexing agricultural problem through a joint congressional committee was advocated here by Senator Curtis of Kansas in his address formally accepting the republican vice-presidential nomination.

Tariff revision and development of inland waterways were other suggestions for relief of the farmer by the Kansas senator, who gave first attention and greatest space in his address to a discussion of the agricultural situation.

Speaking from a temporary stand shielded from the setting sun on the south steps of the majestic Kansas statehouse, Senator Curtis was given an ovation by the crowd before him on the lawn. Kansans who have sent him to congress for 33 years made up most of the throng, which also included national party leaders and a representative from each state.

Senator Fess of Ohio, temporary chairman of the republican convention, notified Senator Curtis of his nomination and in declaring his choice a "wise decision" related the legislative record of the nominee, culminating in his advancement to the post of leader of his party in the senate three years ago.
