Sheepdog in Marvel of Canine Sagacity

It is only recently that attention has been drawn to the wonderful brain capacity of the working sheepdog. Dogs trained for special sheepdog trials have given extraordinary demonstrations of how a dog can think and reason for himself.

Many people are under the impression that this is quite a new development in sheepdog training, but it is not so. From time immemorial shepherds have had a wonderful understanding between themselves and their dogs. In the real sheepdogs there seems to be an inbred instinct which enables them to do the work that is expected of them. It is a natural gift, which is developed when brought into companionship with the shepherd.

James Hogg, the Ettrick shepherd, wrote much regarding the sagacity of his dogs. In his day the shepherds had more difficult tasks to accomplish than they have today. They had to bring their flocks long distances to fairs and markets, and had to keep their own lots separate from the others—a task in itself, as the sheep had to be tended night and day.

The working collie has a great capacity for understanding each sound and gesture made by its master. The dogs enjoy their work, and seem to delight in anticipating the wishes of the shepherds.

Arm Round Waist Illegal

A young man who puts his arm around the waist of the girl with whom he is walking, commits a technical assault, according to the law in England. This was brought out in a case where a youth who had put his arm around the waist of a conductress of an omnibus at Stirling was charged with assault. At the trial the sheriff, agreeing that the young man was legally guilty of assault, caused laughter when he said, "But if the girl immediately condones the act, it is not assault." The young man, however, escaped with nothing more serious than a judicial warning.

Uncertain About Thunder

John, the three-year-old son of a North side family, is very fond of Sunday school. His teacher had told the children that Jesus sends the sunshine and the rain. One evening John sat very quietly watching a thunder storm. Finally he said: "Say, mother, Jesus sends the rain, doesn't He?" Mother answered: "Yes, John, and the sunshine."

All was quiet for a few minutes, then an unusually hard clap of thunder came, and John said: "Say, mother, what do you suppose He is a pound or two low?"—Indianapolis News.
