WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY SUGGESTIONS

To apply George Washington's principals in our daily lives, we shall find it necessary to imitate the following among many traits of his lofty character:

1. Do our daily work with the utmost fidelity. Washington's thoroughness in every detail was a leading reason for his great success.

2. Cultivate enthusiasm. Washington was a wonderful leader of men, and it was his gift for inspiring his soldiers and countrymen with the enthusiasm for the patriotic cause that won success.

3. Rise above discouragements. No situation ever so bad could baffle the immortal father of his country. He saw in the darkest of hours the promise of dawn. People with such traits cannot be beaten down. When we cultivate these characteristics in the service of our country and home community, we follow some distance along the path of the principal creator of our government.

A grain fixture recommended by the Oregon experiment station for dairy bulls is three parts of ground oats, two parts wheat bran, one part ground barley and one part linseed oilmeal.

A dairyman cannot afford to discontinue testing his herd for disease, warns the experiment station. Although little tuberculosis now remains in Oregon, abortion is still heading the causes of loss of production. Testing for abortion is advisable for all dairy herds in the state.

Fuel system of the new Ford has been designed for reliability and long service

THE practical value of Ford simplicity of design is especially apparent in the fuel system.

The gasoline tank is built integral with the cowl and is unusually sturdy because it is made of heavy sheet steel,terne plated to prevent rust or corrosion. An additional factor of strength is the fact that it is composed of only two pieces, instead of three or four, and is electrically welded—not soldered.

Because of the location of the tank, the entire flow of gasoline is an even, natural flow—following the natural law of gravity. This is the simplest and most direct way of supplying gasoline to the carburetor without variations in pressure. The gasoline feed pipe of the new Ford is only 18 inches long and is easily accessible all the way.

The gasoline passes from the tank to the carburetor through a filter or sediment bulb mounted on the steel dash which separates the gasoline tank from the engine.

The carburetor is specially designed and has been built to deliver many thousands of miles of good service.

Since all adjustments are fixed except the needle valve and idler, there is practically nothing to get out of order.

The choke rod on the dash acts as a primer and also as a regulator of your gasoline mixture. The new hot spot manifold insures complete vaporization of the gasoline before it enters the combustion chamber of the engine.

As a matter of fact, the fuel system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little service attention.

The filter or sediment bulb should be cleaned at regular intervals and the carburetor screen removed and washed in gasoline. Occasionally the drain plug at the bottom of the carburetor should be removed and the carburetor drained for a few seconds.

Have your Ford dealer look after these important little details for you when you have the car oiled and greased. A thorough, periodic checking-up costs little, but it has a great deal to do with long life and continuously good performance.
