Occurrences of Interest Gleaned Here and There About the City and Neighborhood

Mrs. H. E. Hitt and Mrs. C. M. Jackson were joint hostesses Saturday at a bridge luncheon at the Hitt home. Guests to make up four tables of cards were invited for the afternoon. Mrs. F. B. Swayze won high score, Mrs. C. J. Bielman second prize and Mrs. Ed. Jackson, the consolation.

F. C. George, prominent Echo merchant, was here Saturday.

W. A. Hoobler, special agent with the Union Fire insurance company, was a business visitor in Hermiston Monday.

Guests at the H. E. Hitt home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Kern, Mr. Keiser and Mrs. Patterson, all of Pendleton.

W. G. Keyes of Mayville was in Hermiston on business Saturday afternoon.

E. P. Dodd, former Hermiston resident, was back in town over the week-end looking after business interests. He and his family are now living in Walla Walla.

Mrs. C. L. Upham is in Monmouth this week attending commencement at the Normal school. Helen Upham is a graduate of the March class.

Frank Arnold and family have recently moved into the Crandall house on the west side of town.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Pearson have returned from a motor trip to Portland, Kelso and Leavenworth. Mr. Pearson was looking after business interests in the Washington towns.

C. O. Johnson, an inspector with the State Bureau of Labor at Salem, was in Hermiston Tuesday on business connected with his department.

According to Saturday's East Oregonian, Geo. H. Jenkins, assistant county agent, was in Weston that day tagging a carload of certified seed potatoes for W. L. Rayborn, president of the newly formed Weston Mountain Potato Grower's association. The seed potatoes were to be sold to the Farm Bureau Co-operative at Hermiston.

B. S. Kingsley, who has been in St. Anthony's hospital at Pendleton for some three weeks, underwent a second operation early last week. According to reports, he is getting along as well as can be expected.

According to word received in Hermiston, Mrs. C. D. Kelley underwent an operation in Portland Monday of this week at the Emanuel hospital. She and Mr. Kelley recently visited at the home of Mr. Kelley's mother, Mrs. F. L. Kelley of Hermiston.

Stated communication of Queen Esther chapter O. E. S. next Tuesday at 8 P. M. Social, cards and refreshments.

NEW PATTERNS TABLE OIL-CLOTH, 39c YARD

SHELF OILCLOTH, 10c YARD

The tunnel being planned from the Detroit river to the Rogue plant of the Ford Motor company will permit 1,000,000,000 gallons of water to flow into the power house of the Ford plant daily.

HOME POINTERS

When preparing fresh crabs for the table an unusual flavor may be obtained by cooking them in a gallon of salt water to which has been added one cup of vinegar and whole spices to taste.

In the preparation of hash something to give a distinct flavor is needed. With veal, add bacon fat; with beef or lamb, liver is best. Liver added to corned beef hash is good.

A different flavor may be given to roast lamb if the meat is pierced in a number of places with a sharp knife and a bit of onion and green chilli pepper crowded into each incision, and then roasted as usual or the onions may be rolled in red pepper and the green pepper omitted.

Celery leaves are especially good in dressing to be served with roast veal. Sausage meat adds a spicy flavor and green pepper and parsley are also good in this dressing.

Poisoning caused by botulinus bacteria in home canned meat and vegetables in the northwest could be prevented if the foods were boiled vigorously for 10 to 15 minutes after taking from the cans, according to J. E. Simmons, associate professor of bacteriology. Experiments show that animals fed with unheated portions of inoculated foods, soon develop symptoms of botulinus and they eventually die, while infected foods, which have been boiled to destroy the toxin, cause no ill effects.

It's rather discouraging that so many bad habits should be so old. One would think we would have outgrown many things that are almost as old as history and which we show no signs of outgrowing. It is said dice throwing was so popular in India centuries ago that two kings, who had unpronounceable names, staked and lost their kingdoms on the spotted cubes.

As far back as history goes there has been too much of something or other of which there is still too much. All of which calls for a sense of humor and much patience.—Grove Patterson, in the Mobile Register.

Farther Still
An Irishman and a Scot found themselves seated side by side at a certain Christmas club dinner and each tried to impress the other with the distance he had traveled.

After much discussion the Irishman admitted that he had sailed the Seven seas amongst other trifles, and that he had been to the end of the world.

"An' what did ye see there?" asked the Scot.
"Sure, and there was a great big wall reaching to the sky, me boy," replied the other.
"Ah, weel," said the Scot, "it's a peety ye didna look owre yon wall, for I was behind it fishin' ve ken."

Skyscrapers' Value
The Greeks probably were the first to build roofed structures of extensive area, for they are credited with the first use of wooden beams. The Romans made the erection of buildings with even greater area possible by use of the arch and dome. The development of the steel I-beam made really high buildings possible. Our present-day builders have developed skyscraper construction to a degree where valuable ground space can be completely utilized by the erection of a tall building of extensive floor space.

Eskimo Children Have Toys of Rare Beauty

Eskimo youngsters possess tiny spears and fish hooks cut from walrus bones, small crossbows with ivory-tipped arrows, beautiful little kayaks about a foot long, cleverly fashioned from skins and manned with carved ivory hunters. Each one holds a paddle of bone, a bone harpoon, a wee float of seal skin and delicate hide lariats.

Little sleds of ivory, only a few inches long, yet perfectly formed, with several ivory dogs hitched with reindeer hide harness, are treasured possessions of Eskimo boys. Deer, whales, bears, seals—all sorts of queer fish and birds—are carved from pure ivory and given to the children at Yuletide. Beautiful little ivory birds of the Far North, penguin and the murre, are cut so delicately from ivory as to astonish the examiner.

There are ivory thimbles for the girls, tiny ivory pins for their coarse, black hair, toggles or clasps for fur belts, shopping bags of white fur from the Arctic hare.

Some boys have a marvelous drum made of a thin strip of whalebone bent to form a circle. Both sides are covered with tightly stretched shark skin. Two little walrus bones are drum sticks and no snow igloo can contain the noise that radiates from the instrument.
Many of these toys reach American cities but are sold in curio shops and are far too expensive for Santa Claus to distribute.—Boston Herald.

HERMISTON BAKERY

Lest You Forget

We are still ready and willing to save you at least 10 per cent on your gross monthly purchases. Is this worth while? No baits are offered. This saving is in all the items that make up your monthly living expenses.

The only requirement to make this saving is to pay cash and take your purchases with you. This is where the cost of selling mounts up.

You must pay for losses in bad accounts and bookkeeping expense and delivery service. No doubt about this. If not the merchant or distributor must go broke. We know, we have tried it. Think it over.
