Our box wood is easy for the wife to split, nice for the kids to make toys and burns hot.

Foreman: We don't need any more men on this job.
Job Hunter: Can't you use just one more. I'll do just a little bit of work.

These cold nights make one think about winter and that supply of fuel that should be put in now. Both wood and coal are at our yard.

Somebody has discovered that the woman buys and the man pays. Well, you can't expect the woman to do both.

A home of your own for this winter. Or remodel the old home and insulate it with Celotex or one of our other insulators and it will pay for itself in the fuel it will save. Ask us for plans and costs.
