HERMISTON, UMATILLA COUNTY, OREGON, THURSDAY, APRIL 3, 1930

SUBSCRIPTION, $2.00 PER YEAR

CONTAGIOUS ABORTION PROGRAM WILL BE HELD HERE

UMATILLA PROJECT FARM BUREAU SPONSORING PROGRAM

Veterinarians From the State College and State Veterinarian's Office To do the Testing.

Veterinarians from the state college and probably one from the state veterinarian's office will start testing cattle in this section for contagious abortion on Monday, April 7. An attempt will be made at this time to test all dairy cattle in this end of Umatilla county.

Each dairyman will be notified through the mail of the time the veterinarians will appear at his farm to test his herd. It is desired that all cattle be in stanchions or tied and each person is requested to cooperate by having cattle ready at the time mentioned in the notice. All cattle of breeding age should be tested.

Since many of the cattle in this district were not tested last fall because of lack of time on the part of the veterinarian, it is hoped that a complete program may be carried out this spring. No charge is made for the work and a report on the test will be sent to each dairyman about a week after the test is made.

The work is sponsored by the Umatilla Project Farm Bureau and any one interested in having cattle tested who has not been on the list when previous tests were made, should communicate with P. P. Sullivan who is in charge of the work for the Farm Bureau, or the assistant county agent.

Those attending then went to Mrs. Kingsley's home where a short business meeting was held after which they made trays of cloths for the veteran's hospital in Portland. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

Development Problems of Northwest Discussed

New Zealand, where he studied thoroughly the methods used there so successfully. With a market half a world away, and only one principal product—grass—New Zealand leads the nations in dairy industry. New Zealand producers control the production, manufacture, exporting, merchandizing, advertising and selling of dairy products, and thereby have made themselves the richest people in the world. Such a future awaits Oregon, Mr. Dana believes, if she will but inaugurate a program embracing the organization of dairymen, standardization of production, manufacture and selling, the enactment of a compulsory cream grading law, weeding out of unprofitable cows, and supplementary irrigation in the Willamette valley.

A combination between Oregon and Washington in marketing products and in advertising was urged by A. S. Dudley, secretary of the Sacramento chamber of commerce, and president of the National association. The two states are so similar in products, tourist attractions and many other features, that the California man believes such a program would be effective.

Development problems of the Northwest were attacked at the University of Oregon March 24, 25 and 26 when chamber of commerce secretaries of Oregon and Washington convened at the tenth annual short course. The session was sponsored by the two state commercial organizations and the university school of business administration.

William North, Corvallis, was named head of the State Association of chamber of commerce secretaries for the coming year. Leonard Gilky, Albany, was named vice-president, while E. G. Harlan, Portland, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. The board of directors were named as follows: E. C. Reynolds, Klamath Falls; Mrs. Charles N. Bilyeu, Dallas; Kent Shoemaker, Hood River and C. T. Baker, Medford.

Co-operative farming, state wide advertising and the relation of the chamber of commerce with such organizations as service clubs, and with the bank, received a large share of the secretaries attention.

Oregon is ripe for an enormous development in dairying, declared Marshall N. Dana, associate editor of the Oregon Journal, who has just returned from a three months' trip to

George Jenkins Promoted to Coos Co. While E. N. Hauser Takes Assistant Co. Agent's Job Here.

The announcement of the promotion of George H. Jenkins from the position of Assistant County Agent of Coos county, with offices at Coquille where he will make his home, has just been received from F. L. Ballard, county agent leader for Oregon. This announcement also advised of the appointment of E. N. Hauser to succeed Mr. Jenkins in Umatilla county. Mr. Hauser has for 2 years past had charge of the cow testing association in Umatilla and Morrow counties and was a graduate of the Oregon State college in 1927 in dairy husbandry. As Mr. Hauser is well known in this county on account of his work in the testing association, it is thought that he will be in a better position to serve the community as assistant county agent.

George Jenkins was appointed assistant county agent in this county August, 1927, coming here from Yamhill county where he had been serving as manager of a poultry and dairy farm owned by F. E. Bowman (Please Turn to Last Page)

HERMISTON MAN CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

LIGHT & POWER COMPANY TO HAVE NEW LOCATION

In a deal completed last week J. H. Williams of Elgarose, Oregon, sold his building on Main street, now occupied by Burk's Inc. to the Hermiston Light & Power Company, which will be the future home of that company. Possession of the building will be taken by the power company May 1 and as soon as alterations to the interior and a repainting job is completed both inside and out the Light and Power office will move to this location. According to Mr. Clark, local manager, it will be about May 15.

It will require about two weeks to remodel and decorate before building will be ready for occupancy, and it is the plan of the company to do electrical merchandising on a large scale. Hot Point appliances, G. E. refrigerators and Thor washing machines will be carried as leaders.

The company has been fortunate securing a limited number of Hot Point ranges and will be able to offer these at a very attractive price as an opening feature.

Watch the paper for further announcement of range campaign and cooking school.

Mr. Burk is yet undecided as to his future location but expects to remain in Hermiston.

Clinics to be Sponsored

By Oregon Tuberculosis Assn.

since mortality from tuberculosis is greatest at age 25 it is obvious that the "seeds" of the disease in many instances are sown very early in life. To bring the "seedling" stage cases of this disease under the medical attention at the earliest possible period will insure the recovery of more cases at an earlier period, it is said.

Clinics will be held in various parts of the state by local tuberculosis specialists, on invitation of county and district medical societies. Admission to these clinics will only be through local physicians and county nurses.

The Oregon Tuberculosis association will meet the expenses of these clinics from its Christmas seal funds secured last December. The clinicians who have accepted the invitation of the association's committee to conduct clinics will volunteer their services. They are: Doctors G. C. Bellinger, Marr Bisailon, William Knox, Ralph C. Matson, Ray W. Matson, P. D. Newmeyer, DeWalt Payne, E. A. Pearce and Charles B. Sears.

Clinics to be Sponsored By Oregon Tuberculosis Assn.

An unposed portrait of a real boy, quizzical, unconscious of self, and fouseled-headed will peer forth from the pages of thousands of pamphlets, from the fronts of billboards and posters, and in various other ways as the symbol of a nation wide health program to be launched shortly by the National Tuberculosis association and its 1500 member groups.

In Oregon the program, known as the Early Diagnosis Campaign, will be sponsored by the Oregon Tuberculosis association and its 26 affiliated county health associations, under the direction of a special medical advisory committee, of which Dr. Ralph C. Matson, Portland physician, is chairman. Local health workers, public health nurses, as well as all local physicians have been invited to participate.

The purpose of the program is to encourage and provide facilities for the earlier diagnosis of and discovery of tuberculosis, particularly in children and young people. It is pointed out by the committee in charge that

LOCAL MAN FILES FOR OFFICE MONDAY, MARCH 31

A. W. Prann Has Served City of Hermiston as Councilman for Three Terms.

A. W. Prann, local business man of Hermiston, filed for Republican nomination for county commissioner at Pendleton Monday morning at about 11 o'clock, March 31. J. A. Hales, the present incumbent, also is a candidate for the same position for another term. Mr. Prann's decision to file for this office came only after his friends and business men of the west end of Umatilla county had prevailed upon him to do so.

He has been a resident of Hermiston for the past 19 years and served the city of Hermiston in the capacity of councilman for three terms, and his ability to fill the office of county commissioner is above reproach.

Mr. Prann, who seeks the nomination, said, "If nominated and elected I will serve the office and carry out its purposes."

CENSUS ARMY GOES INTO ACTION TUESDAY

Doorbells started buzzing and brass knockers clicking throughout the United States Tuesday as Uncle Sam's 15th decennial census enumerators numbering 120,000 swung into action.

The census taking job started Tuesday, the biggest in history, will have highly important results. Upon it depends the reapportionment of the house of representatives, a task which has not been faced since 1910. Congress failed to make the reapportionment following the 1920 census. Since then there has been a great shifting of the population, notably to California, automobile manufacturing centers and other rapidly growing industrial sections.

Mrs. C. S. McNaught is taking the census in the city of Hermiston and J. S. West is working in the Columbia district.
