LIFE SKETCH OF SENATOR HALL

Republican Candidate Well Qualified for Position of Governor.

A quarter of a century ago, a young man, lured to Oregon by the call of the west, was swinging a shovel in a Portland sewer. As each day ended he would climb steep stairs to the fifth floor of the Tremont hotel—there was no elevator—to his $1 a week room.

Today, with a fiction-like record of success behind him, the man—Charles Hall—stands before the public as a candidate for the republican nomination for governor. In 1922 he barely missed the nomination, losing by 596 votes.

He taught school three terms in Pennsylvania after completing his elementary education in a little red school house near his father's farm. When he stepped from the Portland sewer ditch, he taught a term at Clatskanie. This teaching experience gave him an intimate knowledge of educational problems in which he, as a state senator and leader in public life has been actively concerned.

Hall, after leaving school work, was employed by an uncle in a drug store at Clatskanie. He saved systematically during his early years, and then engaged in timber cruising. He was successful, and made enough to attend the University of Michigan 1903-05. In 1906, he returned to Oregon, where he acquired a drug store at Hood River. There he was active in the work of the Chamber of Commerce. For a time he was the organization's president. This gave him a vision of the possibilities of united effort. He was one of the leaders in organization of the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce for more comprehensive efforts in behalf of the state, and was the first state president.

Going to Coos county, he took over a struggling rural telephone system which was undercapitalized and facing the problem of serving a rapidly growing but widely scattered area. He built and strengthened it until it was known for its efficiency, its friendly relationship with its customers, and its low rates.

A determined organizer and builder, he founded the Bank of Southwestern Oregon and later the American Bank of Marshfield.

He was among the first leaders to see the commercial value of the Columbia river highway, and interested many influential men to join the drive to put the project across. As chairman of the senate highway committee, he fostered much of the legislation for better highways.

If nominated and elected, he says, one of his first moves will be to start his "Industrialize Oregon" program by calling a meeting of representative citizens from each county in the state.

TAKES COUNTY AGENT POSITION OF COOS BAY

& Co., of Portland. He graduated from the Oregon State college in 1926.

The appointment to county agent of Coos county places Mr. Jenkins in charge of extension work in both Coos and Curry counties. An assistant county agent also works out of this office.

Mr. Jenkins took over the duties of his office here under Walter Holt while the work was absolutely new and unorganized and has built it up in the last 2 years to a point of business basis. He leaves his office in number one shape for his successor who will carry the work on. Both the farmers and business men of this community are very grateful to Mr. Jenkins for the work which has been carried on for the last two years and in as much as his loss will be felt very deeply it has been realized that it would be only a matter of time until he would be promoted.

In regard to the Jenkins family leaving the community and going to Coos county Mr. Jenkins is quoted as saying: "While we appreciate opportunity afforded through our transfer to Coos county, we regret leaving this community. My work here for the past 2 1-2 years has been very pleasant and I appreciate the very fine cooperation received at all times from local people. Anything which may have been accomplished during this time has been largely due to cooperative efforts. In leaving Hermiston we feel that we are being carried away from a host of good friends and shall look forward to meeting them all again at some future time."

Our memory goes back to the time when, if a neighbor woman told how many quarts and pints she had put up, you knew she meant fruit.

A salesman stood poised on the bridge ready to end everything in the swirling water below. A policeman came along and induced the man to talk things over. Shortly after both returned to the bridge and jumped off together.

Fishing season starts in April, on the first in some counties. Wonder if it has anything to do with April Fool day?

The young man said he knew his girl could keep a secret, because they had been engaged for weeks before he knew anything about it.

"Bredern, we must do something to remedy de status quo," said the negro preacher.

Brudder Jones, what am dis status quo?" asked a member. "Dat, my brudder," said the preacher, "am Latin for de mess we's in."

"Save the surface and you save all." Keep up the appearance of your home. Is your home smiling or frowning? A smiling home means happy families. We have some ideas along this line. Drop in or call 331 for remodeling, building, and good ideas.

Say, did you see page 36 of the April issue of the Sunset magazine. Just the kind of a kitchen a woman wants. New built-in cupboards and conveniences—just like we will show you.

Mothers day is only a few weeks off. How about fixing up the place for her? The kitchen, bedroom, or some other remodeling. Or a piece of lawn furniture for her garden.

Dad had his day on the fifteenth of March when he paid income tax.
