4TH ANNUAL FARM BUREAU AND GRANGE PICNIC ON JULY FOURTH

Picnic to be Held in Columbia Park
With Committee Appointed in Charge.

Arrangements are being rapidly planned for the fourth annual Grange and Farm Bureau picnic to be an event of July 4 at the Columbia park, a few miles from Hermiston. Hermiston and Stanfield alternate in acting as host to the picnickers, the affair last year having been held at the Stanfield auto park. The two organizations, the Grange of Stanfield and the Umatilla Farm Bureau of Hermiston, co-operate in the celebration and previous picnics have been particularly noteworthy for their unqualified success. Plans for this year's celebration give promise of another equally enjoyable time for all who take part.

A picnic dinner at noon will be one of the principal events of the day and sports and games are being lined-up for the younger set. In the afternoon a program of speaking and singing will be held, the principal speaker of the day not having been announced yet.

Everyone in the Hermiston, Stanfield and surrounding communities is cordially invited to attend the picnic and participate in all of the activities of the day. Last year picnic was a great success and those in charge this year are striving to make it more successful if possible.

Joint committees from the Stanfield Grange and from the Farm Bureau are being appointed to be in charge of details of the picnic.

Rural Districts Can Control Surplus Of Dairy Products

There are, of course, no statistics which give the per capita consumption of butter in cities as compared with rural districts, but careful observation, backed up by some recent surveys, indicates that the per capita city consumption is 20 pounds at least, while rural consumption probably does not exceed 12 to 14 pounds. Therefore, the present butter campaign should be carried on principally in the rural districts, at least until the per capita consumption in such districts can be brought up to the same rate as city consumption. This may require plans for a rather long-time campaign, if permanent results are to be realized. The expected improvement in industry conditions has not materialized. It seems evident that industrial and commercial conditions will not show any substantial advance until next year. This means that the buying power of the city people cannot expand in the immediate future.

We are entering upon a new storage season with a carry-over on May 1 of 22,948,000 pounds of last year's butter. This is nearly 16,000,000 pounds more than the five-year average on that date. In addition to this there is a considerable surplus of frozen sweet cream on hand.

The current make of butter is slightly less than it was last year, but, on the other hand, there is a great lack of confidence in the storing situation. This is occasioned by the hesitancy of speculators who lost money heavily on last year's operations, and by the attitude of the banks, which is ultra-conservative regarding loans on butter. Moreover, there is a sizeable surplus of canned milk, milk powder and cheese. There is also an unusual surplus of market milk at all metropolitan cities. It may be that the make of butter will be augmented from these sources and therefore we will have an increase in the make without actual increase of production in the permanent churning cream areas.

The surpluses are not the result of any marked increase in production. They have come about because of the curtailed buying power of our people. When this buying power returns to normal we may confidently expect a rate of consumption that will take care of production and avoid the creation of surpluses.

Fortunately, the present excess of supplies is so small that the situation can continue to remain under the control of the farmers themselves. That is to say, if farmers will patronize their own industry and use as much butter as they really should, they can take care of the excess and a large margin besides.

Sales of oleomargarine in the rural counties indicate that a good many farmers are not buying any butter at all. So far as they are concerned, their 10 pounds will not have to be thrown away. They and their families will enjoy their meals more, their health will be better, and they will aid in bringing about a improvement in the butter market.

Wales Must Be Babied When Sick, Says Nurse

London, England.—The prince of Wales is just like any man when it comes to being babied when he is sick, according to Miss Grace Fuller, one of the nurses who attended him when he was ill recently in South Africa with malarial fever. "He was a splendid patient," said Miss Fuller in a letter to friends in London, "but he was a real babe when it came to swallowing pills. Eskimo Spitz Decides Own Case in Court

Cambridge, Mass.—An Eskimo spitz, beribboned and perfumed for the occasion, appeared in District court here and decided its own case.

Joseph J. Clark contended that the spitz was his dog Teddy, Mrs. Annie L. Ward claimed it was her dog Prince.

Judge John M. Maloney ordered three members of the Clark family and three members of the Ward family to line up on opposite sides of the courtroom. Then the fluffy white object of the litigation was turned loose.

The Clarks chorused "come Teddy" and the Wards coaxed with cries of "come Prince."

The dog went first to the Clarks, then to the Wards, then back to the Clarks. Members of the Ward family became hysterical when the judge ordered them to surrender the spitz to Clark and refused to do so until court had threatened to impose heavy fines on them. They said they would carry the case into the civil courts.

"THE ARIZONA KID"

TO BE SHOWN SUNDAY

A price on his head, but reckless enough to ride into town and win the hearts of that sparkling scionita, Lorita the dancer—and Virginia, loveliest blonde of the north.

He was the Arizona Kid, the swiftest Caballero with a six shooter—or a woman's heart in the great, wide canyon country.

And he's none other than Warner Baxter, hailed by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences as the best actor for his "In Old Arizona." And his "The Arizona Kid" which opens next Sunday at the Fox Rivoli theatre in his most important role, despite past glory.

Mona Maris and Carol Lombard are two of the ladies he loves in this Fox Movietone Alfred Santell Production.

From Pendleton.

Roy Hutchison of Pendleton was a Hermiston visitor Sunday.

HERMISTON LEGION POST HAVE CHARGE OF CONCESSIONS

$1000 in Prizes and Five Silver Trophies to be Presented Winners of Races Held June 21-22.

On Saturday and Sunday, June 21 and 22, Pendleton Post No. 1 of the American Legion will enter in thousands of race fans from all over the Northwest at their second Annual Water Regatta and speed boat races at McKay Lake, Pendleton.

Through a knowledge gained by last year's experience, the Legion men are able to make the events this year at McKay Lake the largest and best of their nature in the state of Oregon. This will be the only chance people of the eastern part of the state will have to attend such an event this season, and Legion officials are anxious to have them take advantage of the opportunity.

One thousand dollars in cash prizes and five silver trophies will be awarded the winners of the various events. On the program for the two days meet are races of all classes for outboard motors, special races for outboard runabouts and inboard powered boats, surf boat riding, free board riding, hurdling with speed boats and surf boards, water ski riding, and many other thrilling specialties. The meet will close Sunday afternoon with a twenty-five mile endurance race, which will be open to all types of outboard motors.

Outboard motor manufacturers have followed close upon the footsteps of progress, and today their products have changed from a single cylinder two horse-power motor to a big four cylinder engine which is capable of propelling a racing hull over the water at a speed close to sixty miles per hour. Between forty and fifty contestants are expected to take part in the regatta this year, the large purse having drawn entries from all parts of Oregon, Washington, California and Idaho.

Those who make the trip June 21 and 22 to McKay Lake, which is located four and one-half miles south of Pendleton on the Pilot Rock highway, may be assured of two afternoons of thrills, spills and action. Races start at 1 P. M. of each day and the one mile straightaway trials will start Sunday morning at 8:30 A. M.

Hermiston Post of the American Legion has been granted for the second time, exclusive concession rights for the regatta and plans are going forward rapidly for taking care of this important feature. This is the second regatta held under the auspices of the American Legion and promises to be a bigger and better one than last year.
