LOCAL PEOPLE ATTEND CONFERENCE AT SAN FRANCISCO

The North Pacific Union conference of the Seventh-day Adventists which includes Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington in its territory, will be more largely represented at the quadrennial convention of the general conference which will be held in San Francisco May 24 to June 12, than at any such convention ever held before in the history of the denomination. Several families will attend from Walla Walla, College Place, Pendleton and Hermiston.

There are 224 churches in these four states and members from many of them will greatly augment the official delegation. There will be representatives present from 135 nations of the world where the church is being promoted. The city auditorium, the largest assembly hall in the state, has been secured for this convention, which will attract between 8,000 and 10,000 members of the denomination from practically every state in the Union.

There are more than 13,000 members of the faith in the North Pacific union conference, who make one of the largest groups in a single union conference in the world, and also contributes more into the treasury of the church for its advancement both at home and abroad, last year than at any time previous.

The delegates from the North Pacific union conference will be under the leadership of Elder Morris Lukens, the president, who will officially represent the churches of the territory. The denominational sanitariums, educational institutions and publishing houses will also send delegates. The local conference presidents that will attend as delegates include Elders W. A. Gosmer, Idaho; I. J. Woodman, Oregon; T. B. Westbrook, Southern Oregon; E. F. Peterson, Upper Columbia; B. M. Grandy, Montana; E. L. Neff, Western Washington.

Many families will meet friends and members who will be present from numerous foreign fields.

Officers for the parent body of the denomination—the general conference—will be elected for the coming four years, including the president, nine vice-presidents, the secretary and his associate, the treasurer and his assistants, six traveling secretaries, several auditors, secretaries and their associates for ten separate departments of the church and other officials which with these various officers and departmental secretaries for the executive committee, administering the affairs of the entire denomination.

Dewey Payne, pastor of the church here, also expects to attend the conference, leaving Hermiston for San Francisco Friday, May 30. Approximately 2,000 members of the church from California will attend.

SERVING MANY BUSINESSES

Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford

A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter and Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, these ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four fluidless double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.
