PENDLETON PREPARES FOR BIG ROUND-UP

The Round-Up, Pendleton's big community show, is kept in the minds of people of the eastern Oregon city all the year long, but the months of July and August find them particularly busy in preparation for the Western exhibition August 28, 29 and 30.

Just now there is a bustle of preparation for everything is being put into tip-top shape for the coming show. The grounds are being made ready, the track is being worked over; barns are awaiting the arrival of stock here August 1.

Besides the barns to make the Texas steers, the buckers, etc., comfortable, there must be plenty of hay for the stock; those big brutes have never heard of the eighteen day diet and they feast on an unlimited quantity of Round-Up hay.

Mail orders for Round-Up tickets are coming in to the Pendleton office and the twenty-first annual show gives promise of a record breaking attendance. The local office will open August 16.

Besides the Round-Up daytime hours, the evenings are filled with entertainment for there is offered to the visitors the famed Happy Canyon show. This is the most unique of western pageants and besides its show features which depict a typical town of early frontier days, there are the Happy Canyon dances with which the evenings' program close. Music for the dances this year will be by Cole McElroy's orchestra.
