Nine University Students Visit Newspaper Office In Honolulu

Journalism students of the University of Oregon summer session in Hawaii had the unique experience recently of visiting in one morning the plant of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, one of the most modern and up to date publishing houses in Hawaii, and the stone house where back in 1823 the first printing was done in the islands. It is also claimed that this was the first press to be established west of the Rocky mountains.

Those in the class who visited the two plants were Katrina Jacobson, Eureka, Nev.; Albert Young, Baker; Isabelle Nofstker, Redmond; Katherine Galbraith, Portland; Helen Barney, Spokane; Alice Rudd, Hilo, Hawaii; Wenona Dyer, Longview; Rebecca Megown, Sheridan; Isabelle Thomas, Dayton, Ohio.

At the Star-Bulletin, under the guidance of J. R. Farrington, editor, the students saw the modern city and telegraph rooms, where newspapermen and women prepare the copy for the paper each day. The intricacies of the linotype, make-up of the paper and finally the huge press that turns out 30,000 complete papers an hour were all fully explained.

From the paper the class went to the old island printing house, which was built of coral rock in 1823 by the early missionaries. Although but little of the original equipment is left, many specimens of early printing, which include newspapers, books and periodicals in the Hawaiian language are on display. One of the early presses from here was sent back to Portland, Oregon, about 80 years ago, to be used there to print books and papers. It is now in a museum in Portland, the students were told.

The class in journalism not only puts out the school paper, the "Oregon Aloha" but many of the students have contributed articles to Honolulu and mainland papers. Hawaii is an excellent field for journalistic writing, and the students are enthusiastic over this line of work.

C. S. McNAUGHT WINS GOLD TOURNAMENT AT PENDLETON

Local Man Wins Prizes at Country Club Tournament With a Net Score of 66.

C. S. McNaught topped the list and put the Hermiston Golf club on the map when he won the prize for the out-of-town golfer at the Country Club tournament held at Pendleton, Sunday, August 17. He also won the prize competed for by the local Pendleton golfers and out-of-town players, with a gross score of 86 and a net score of 66.

Luncheon was enjoyed at the clubhouse by the golfers. There were 28 out-of-town guests among them C. S. McNaught, A. H. Norton, A. A. Little, M. F. Clark, V. E. Hiatt, George Wagner and Ralph Richards of Hermiston.

Sixty-eight played in the tourney.

HERMISTONIANS TO HOLD PICNIC IN PORTLAND AUG. 24

Former Hermistonians living in or near Portland and present Hermistonians who can attend are invited to a get-together picnic party to be held Sunday, August 24, in Mount Tabor park at Portland.

Tentative arrangements are for the people attending to meet at from 1 to 2 o'clock on the above mentioned date when a basket lunch will be spread for everybody at a huge table. Ice cream and lemonade will be served free by the committee in charge. A sports program including races for the youngsters, fat men and women and everything has been arranged by John Young of Hood River.

All former Hermistonians and present residents are urged to attend this picnic. Plans are being worked out to make this a permanent organization so that the annual get-together may function more regularly and more easily. A directory is also being worked out.

PRACTICE JUDGING TRIP MADE SUNDAY TO STATE HOSPITAL

A trip for the purpose of practicing judging was made on Sunday to the Eastern Oregon State hospital by twenty-four members of the livestock clubs of Hermiston and Stanfield.

The group met in Hermiston and Stanfield where transportation was furnished by local club leaders. On arriving at the hospital two classes of dairy cattle, one of hogs and one of Hampshire sheep were judged and discussed.

With a greater knowledge of both judging and of good livestock, the group returned home Sunday evening well pleased.

HERMISTON MAN NAMED LEGION HEAD

J. S. MORELAND OF ESTACADA
WILL BE VICE-COMMANDER

J. M. Biggs is Elected Commander by Oregon Veterans; Portland Man Loses Vote.

(By JERROLD OWEN)
Baker, Oregon, Aug. 16—(To Hermiston Herald)—J. M. Biggs, publisher of the Hermiston Herald, first sergeant in the world war, and for three years the representative of his district on the department executive committee of the American Legion, was the choice of the Legion convention closing at Baker Saturday, for state commander.

Biggs was nominated by Francis Galloway of The Dalles, who declared eastern Oregon was entitled to the recognition and that it had a candidate worthy of it. Biggs' supporters made a stirring demonstration when Galloway concluded.

Harry Dorman, ex-commander of Portland post, who was drafted as a candidate during closing hours of the convention was buried under gathering landslide of votes for the popular eastern Oregonian and moved that the selection of "Jack" Biggs be made unanimous after hearing from only 17 of the 88 posts represented.

J. S. Moreland of Estacada, for two years representative of the first district on the state committee, was the unanimous choice for department vice-commander.

Biggs is the second commander that Eastern Oregon has had in the 12 years existence of the American Legion in this state. Fred E. Kiddle, Island City, was the other, elected eight years ago.

Commander Biggs was escorted to the platform amid an enthusiastic demonstration immediately following his election. He thanked the convention and called a meeting of the old and new executive committee at the Hotel Baker at 5 P. M.

The convention adjourned at 2:30 P. M. and members hurried out to find points from which to view the parade.

Those who attended the convention from Hermiston were: Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Biggs, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Norton, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Todd, Mrs. L. Tilden, Mrs. W. Hamm, H. J. Hallyburton, Logan Todd and R. C. Begg.

Invitation committee: Chairman, Margaret Felthouse; Florence Pearson, Ethel Kennings.

THEATRE NEWS

Enthusiastic throngs are acclaiming Al Jolson's second motion picture, "The Singing Fool" as the greatest of all the vehicles which the world's most famous entertainer, has had in his spectacular career.

In "The Singing Fool" he plays the part of a waiter in a Broadway cabaret—a song writer who helps the woman he loves to a place as a revue star and marries her only to be left with a small son, when the faithless woman deserts him for a richer man.

And he has an all-star supporting cast which includes Betty Bronson, Josephine Dunn, Reed Howes, Ed Martindel, Arthur Housman, David Lee and Robert Emmett O'Connor. "The Singing Fool" is Al Jolson at his glorious best, and comes to the Oasis Theatre in Hermiston Friday and Saturday, August 22 and 23.

Haunting, mystic Chinatown was re-created for one of the important scenes of "Son of the Gods," the current Richard Barthelmess starring feature which comes to the Oasis theatre next Sunday and Monday, August 24 and 25.

Frank Lloyd directed "Son of the Gods," a dramatic screen version of the Rex Beach novel. It is the story of an American youth raised by a Chinese family in the belief that he himself is of Chinese blood. How he discovers his true heritage, his love affair, the dramatic complications which follow—these make what has been generally hailed as the greatest Barthelmess feature since "The Patent Leather Kid." Constance Bennett plays the feminine lead with an excellent supporting cast.

HERMISTON MEDICAL HOSPITAL SOLD TO PORTLAND NURSES

The Hermiston Medical hospital formerly owned and operated by Dr. A. W. Christopherson was sold recently to Miss Ruth Whitney and Miss Gof of Portland. They were formerly employed at the Albertina nursery in Portland and have had six years experience in maternity and pediatric cases.

Dr. Christopherson will still be the physician in charge with Mrs. Dwight McKinney doing special duty work.

HARRY MOORE AND ABE MILLS OF ECHO FINED $30 EACH

A. B. Tillotson, Game Warden, Makes Arrests. Extra Wardens Being Put in Field.

Harry Moore and Abe Mills, two farm laborers from near Echo were in Judge West's court Monday charged with hunting game out of season. Both pleaded guilty and a fine and costs amounting to $30 was paid by each. Deputy Game Warden A. B. Tillotson of Arlington, made the arrests.

The game commission is placing several extra wardens in the field to insure a strict observance of the law. Farmers or anyone seeing or knowing of any violations of this law should report them to the proper officers, so that measures can be taken to stop such actions.

PENDLETON ALL SET FOR TWENTY-FIRST ROUND-UP

It won't be long now! Pendleton is all set for its twenty-first annual Round-Up to be staged August 28, 29 and 30.

The streets are gay with banners and Pendleton's business men are transformed into cowboys in ten-gallon hats, the gaudiest of shirts, brightly beaded vests and cowboy boots. Holding sway over her western monarchy is Queen Lois McIntyre who has as her attendants four charming maids, Virginia Sturges, Muriel Tulloch, and Evelyn Cresswell of Pendleton and Mildred Hansell of Athena.

At the Round-Up grounds is gathered the finest stock; speedy race horses, steers from the Mexican border and the Round-Up buckers. Chief among these is the Roosevelt trophy, who in the six years of his bucking activities here has been ridden but once.

The Indians, by the hundreds are trekking in from the hills and are building their Indian village on the Round-Up grounds. Thousands of Indians appear daily in the Round-Up parades and in the historic Westward-Ho procession. The Westward Ho will be held on Friday this year instead of on Saturday, and will begin its magnificent progress through Pendleton streets at 10 A. M. August 29.

Americans Should Have More Fresh Farm Foods In Daily Diet

If the American people wish to be healthy they should eat more of the protective foods, such as milk, vegetables, fruit and eggs, and cut down on the sugar, says Dr. Henry C. Sherman of Columbia university, an internationally recognized authority on nutrition, who has been teaching a summer school class in this subject at Oregon State college.

Sugar is a good source of energy but it contributes nothing more, and its consumption in this country has gone beyond the limits of good nutrition, believes Dr. Sherman. It now supplies 25 per cent of the total calories in the average diet, thus displacing a large percentage of other foods and bringing about an impoverishment of minerals and vitamins.

The higher the total proportion of the diet which is made up of protective foods the less likely that person is to suffer from the degenerative diseases, such as chronic indigestion, rheumatism, hypertension and other chronic circulatory diseases, said Dr. Sherman, quoting Dr. Longstroth of San Francisco. And in many cases, he points out, persons suffering from these diseases have found a large measure of relief and in some cases complete cure, when their diets were changed to include meat once a day, one quart of milk daily, eggs once a day, and the remainder of the diet made up almost entirely from fruits and vegetables.

The ordinary child needs a quart of milk daily at least until it is completely through growing, according to Dr. Sherman, and a woman should have this amount until she has weaned her last baby. Occasionally children have been found who have particularly efficient calcium conserving mechanisms and could get along on 1 1/2 pints daily, he said, but the rule of a quart a day is the safest for all children to give them a chance to do their best and keep them from growing up calcium poor.
