Western States Exhibit Will Be Held in Salem During 1931 State Fair

Salem, Ore.—(Special) — More than 100,000 people who never before have been in the state of Oregon are expected to attend the Western States Exhibit at the 1931 state fair here next year, according to D. M. Lowe of Ashland, who is in charge of the Oregon exhibit at the California state fair in Sacramento, Aug. 31 to Sept. 7.

Oregon day at the event is scheduled for Sept. 5. The Western States exhibit was originated at the diamond anniversary of the California state fair last year, and will come to Oregon in 1931 in connection with the 70th anniversary of this state's annual exposition.

Oregon is represented by eight booths at the southern event this year. Mr. Lowe revealed, each booth symbolic of one specific industry or a particular district of this state. Other states represented at the Sacramento exposition include Washington, Montana, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona and California, in addition to Mexico, Alaska and the Hawaiian Islands.

Pictures of the Oregon booths are to be shown throughout the United States during the fall and winter. Mr. Lowe stated, with several large eastern cities already definitely on the itinerary. "The success of this undertaking has been financed by the Oregon State Fair board, and to that body should be given every praise for the largest advertising campaign of Oregon and its resources ever undertaken," Mr. Lowe declared.

For heat burn Tum-A-Lump. For insulation use Celotex or Fir Tex.

Tum-A-Lumber is the best. For service call 331 and you get a smile with it.

The following have ordered lumber for additional chicken houses: C. M. Jackson, H. J. Ott, E. L. Jackson and George Genn. These men and a lot of others are increasing their chicken flocks this year.

It is probably a "100 to 1" shot that your house needs some repairing before the cold weather starts. Roofs have been known to leak, glass to get broken, and lots of other things to go wrong. Weatherstrip cuts out a lot of the cold air that creeps in around the doors and windows.
