Left $700,000 by Man She Saw Only One Time

Los Angeles, Calif.—Mrs. Fred Mallrup, formerly of Chicago, is rejoicing in the second odd and unexpected inheritance which has showered her with wealth in recent years.

Mrs. Mallrup received word from the public administrator in Paris, France, that Henri de la Salle, eighty-nine-year-old Frenchman, who in younger days was her uncle's companion on gold prospecting and mining ventures here and in Alaska, had willed her $700,000.

The only stipulation, Mrs. Mallrup has been informed, is that she administer a $100,000 trust fund so as to finance an American boy or girl through college every year with the interest. Mrs. Mallrup's uncle, George Lamont Didier, died in 1924 and left her $80,000, providing she would move from Chicago to California.

Mrs. Mallrup said the "only time I ever saw Mr. De la Salle was when he spent five days in Los Angeles last August while on his way around the world. He did not seem to be burdened with money and never mentioned it to me at all."

Bride Balks at Altar; Had Been Jilted Twice

Rochefort, France.—The daughter of a doctor of this city went before the mayor with her fiancé, a doctor in the French army, to be married. When the mayor asked the man if he accepted the girl for his wife, he replied "yes." Asked if she accepted her fiancé for her husband, the girl cried out aloud "no" and fled from the city hall.

The girl later explained that she had deliberately planned her action because her fiancé had delayed the marriage for years and had twice broken the engagement. She refused to say "yes" because she wanted to embarrass him before the whole world.
