WHAT TO TAKE DURING THE NEW YEAR

Take this paper. Take comfort—if you can. Take things easy—within reason. Take the girl you love to be your wife. Take care of your health. It is the most valuable thing you have.

Take a hint when it is intended for you. Don't wait to be knocked down. Take flattery as an insult, and an honest compliment as something to be grateful for.

Take pains to be faithful and conscientious in business. It will bring you success. Take offense only at things worth being offended at. It is a sure evidence of a small mind to notice trifles.

Take hold of any work that comes to your hand rather than be idle. Luck always waits upon the busy man.

Take time to be polite and kind always. Rudeness never pays, the poor may think so but he is wrong.

Take trouble like a man. Don't go whining about when it comes, but shut your mouth and stand up under it resolutely.

Take a trip now and then, and try to see something outside of the town you live in. Travel is one of the greatest of educators.

Take pains to do your work well. The conscientious worker is the one who gets to the front—and the one that never needs to be idle.

Take care that you make this day a model for all days to come—and then copy after it. Live this day so that it will bring you no regrets.

Take the sunshine into your life as something to be grateful for; don't darken it with shadows of your own making. Trouble will come soon enough without your coining it.

Take your wife and children with you when you go out to be amused. That is not a proper amusement for you that you cannot take your wife to—and you know it.

Take a walk—several of them. It is healthful to walk, and if it is a nice moonlight night and some rich man's pretty daughter is hanging on your arm, it is especially healthful.

Take a wife, if you are able to support a wife, a very stylish one. It is every able bodied man's duty to help some good woman through the world. Where would you be now if your father had not done this?

Take heart, if you are cast down. Your luck will change ere the year is out. What though the clouds do cover you, the sun will shine by and by. No life is made altogether of shadows, and God never yet wholly deserted a resolute man or a brave woman. Fight on and victory will come at last.

Swear off, though your companions rail; You may succeed; but if you fail, 'Tis better to resolve and fail Than never to resolve at all.

TURKEY PACK FROM OREGON WINS PRAISE

keys are a very reasonable commodity the supply and control have a very great bearing on all markets of the country.

The Federal Farm Board, to assist this organization with its marketing activities, made it a short time loan of $100,000 without security with the exception that it must agree to advance approximately 60 per cent to the growers and not to exceed 70 per cent of the anticipated sales price to its member organization.

This loan of $100,000 has not only greatly helped this organization in its marketing activities but has practically made it due to the fact that it was about to take immediate credit on drafts.

The Thanksgiving marketing has an annual amount of difficulties due to the fact that the buyers were very bearish. They predicted a large crop of turkeys in the U. S., declared that the buying power of the public was very poor and that turkeys must necessarily sell at a very low price. Prompted by these threats, several pools sold out at a price of 22c to 25c per pound which practically established the market and buyers were reluctant to pay more than these figures. The result was that the management and the directors of the association decided turkeys could not be any lower and that it would sell on the eastern market when the cars arrived.

The market was carefully studied and due to the large blocks of tonnage, just enough cars were fed to keep the market hungry with the result that the demand was increased and the prices obtained were several cents per pound higher than some individual pool sold for.

This organization has had a very important bearing on the markets of the Pacific coast. Utah, Idaho and Colorado have largely contributed to these markets and have been a very important factor in breaking them down in the past. The Northwest controls the larger percentage of the tonnage in these districts and moves it East, leaving the coast markets largely to California, Oregon and Nevada and sufficient turkeys are shipped from these states to end the seasonal glut which these markets often had in the past. The result has been that this year the West-producing area in the United States will undoubtedly have again the highest price of any producing area in the United States. Due to the fact that the Northwestern Turkey Growers Association has used federal grades they have assisted greatly in standardizing the grade and pack and they have had little trouble in birds arriving on the market in poor condition.

The Northwestern Turkey Growers, which is producer owned and producer controlled, gets the grower every cent possible for his birds, assisting the purchaser to keep his market from being glutted and tends to establish a uniform standard pack of high quality, thus working to the advantage of every one concerned.

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The history of Christianity furnishes sublime proofs of the supporting influence and protecting power bestowed on man by his heavenly Father, omnipotent Mind, who gives man faith and understanding whereby to defend himself, not only from temptation, but from bodily suffering." "Step by step will those who trust Him find that 'God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble'" (pp 337 and 441).

THE MINISTRY OF JOHN

THE BAPTIST

Luke 3:7-17

When John was thirty years of age the spiritual summons came to begin his work as the Forerunner of Jesus Christ. This man had grown up in the midst of nature. Others might conduct formal prayers in a synagogue. John made a rock his pulpit in some wilderness arena and thither the people flocked to hear him. They could not stay away from such utterances. He dared to tell them about their most inner self, what they thought about that was vile, the things that they did which were contrary to all law and decency. He called them characterizing names such as "O generation of vipers." He demanded they give up saying all kinds of well-sounding platitudes and "bring forth fruits worthy of repentance." When some one would fall back on the fact that he was a Jew, and thus one of God's chosen people, he was told that they could no longer clothe themselves in garments which they would call righteous. Henceforth they must evidence their professions by worthy works.

A new kind of philanthropy was demanded. They must share their extra possessions with those who were in actual need. If a man had a job from which he received wages, he was to stop complaining with his meal ticket and settle down to work as he rendered service for pay received. Further they must testify of their penitence for past sins and express a solemn purpose after new obedience in the form of baptism. Then multitudes came to him to be baptised as he stood in the waters of the Jordan river. Such a person was thought of as the long promised Messiah. At once John the Baptist declared that he was just preparing the way for the one "who shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire."
