In the Matter of the Estate of William Kennedy, Deceased. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the undersigned Executrix of the Last Will and Testament of William Kennedy, deceased, has filed her Final Report with the Clerk of the above entitled Court, and that the Judge of said Court has designated Saturday, the 28th day of February, 1931, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon as the time, and the rooms of the above entitled Court in the County Court House in Pendleton, Umatilla County, Oregon, as the place when and where hearing is to be had thereon. All persons interested are hereby notified to then and there appear and show cause, if any they have, why said report should not be approved, the Executrix discharged and the estate closed. Dated this 29th day of January, 1931.

MARGARET KENNEDY, Executrix. (Jan. 29-Feb. 26)

Writer Shows Franklin Firm Believer in God

How Benjamin Franklin, "erroneously supposed by man to be an atheist," called the attention of the Constitutional convention to the fact that small progress had been made after four or five weeks because "we have not hitherto once thought of humbly applying to the Father of Light to illumine our understandings," is pointed out by Representative James M. Beck, former solicitor general of the United States, in his standard work on "The Constitution of the United States, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow."

Mr Beck quotes Franklin as asking his colleagues in the convention, "Do we imagine that we no longer need his assistance?" And Franklin pronounced this conviction: "That God governs in the affairs of men. And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without his notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without his aid?" Franklin urged that "henceforth prayers imploring the assistance of heaven, and its blessings on our deliberations, be held in this assembly every morning, before we proceed to business."

An "impious" speech by Alexander Hamilton is also referred to by Mr. Beck, on the authority of Jonathan Dayton, the youngest member of the convention. He records that Hamilton "was confidently of opinion that they were competent to transact the business which had been intrusted to their care—that they were equal to every exigency which might occur, and concluded by saying, that therefore he did not see the necessity of calling in foreign aid." Washington fixed his eye on Hamilton with a mixture of surprise and indignation while he uttered this impertinent and impious speech.—Washington Star.

Trace Mass Production to Wisest of Monarchs

Do you sometimes wonder how it ever happened that clothes became standardized? Why is it, for instance, that when you are looking for your wife or fiancée, or any other certain specified woman, amongst a crowd in a department store, or hotel lobby, or at the station, and you feel sure you can recognize her anywhere by a glimpse of her hat, you become hopelessly confused over the bevy of hats around you, every one of which you would swear was the very identical hat your fair lady was accustomed to wear?

Here's how it came about. Solomon, that intrepid husband of a thousand women, was out walking one fine spring day with a certain favored wife of his, one of the cuddly, teasing, coaxing variety, with such a vivid personality that he could even remember her name.

When they reached the business section, and were strolling past a millinery shop, the petite one went into raptures over a little beige felt hat on display in the window.

"Oh, I must have that darling hat, Solly dear. Isn't it adorable?" And she gave his arm an affectionate squeeze. "You'll buy it for me, won't you, dearie? All the neighbors will envy me. Just imagine how stunning it will look! I wa-a-n't it."

Of course they bought the hat and the little favored wife wore it home. The next morning a disheveled, downcast, pitiable wreck of a once-powerful man, who looked as though he had had a thousand stormy interviews, hobbled into the millinery shop, holding in his trembling hands a tiny beige felt hat, and thundered, "I want to place an order for 999 hats exactly like this one." And so it was that mass production had its beginning.—Kansas City Star.

PINE CITY NEWS

Marion Finch had the misfortune of getting his hand hurt rather badly in the hay chopper Friday. Charles Bartholomew took him to Heppner to Dr. McMurdo who bandaged his arm. He is getting along nicely now.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morehead visited in Pendleton Sunday with Mrs. Morehead's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bowman.

The Pine City seniors returned from Corvallis Sunday evening. They reported having a very enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Wattenburger made a trip to John Day Saturday to visit their daughter, Mrs. Reid Buseick, and returned to their Butter Creek home Sunday.

The Pine City Sunday school was well attended Sunday. Pine City is now ahead in the contest. Everyone come to help us win.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Young and family, Aleta and Lenna Nell made a little trip up in the mountains Sunday. They reported that they didn't see very much snow.

Mrs. Bartholomew, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Finch and children visited at the home of Mrs. Bartholomew's mother, Mrs. Thompson, Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lindsey made a business trip to Pendleton last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dee Nell made a business trip to Hermiston Friday. Mr. Roy Nell attended the Wool-growers meeting at Heppner Friday.

THEATRE NOTES

A gripping story of love, sacrifice and heroism in the wilds of Morocco, with four members of the famous Foreign Legion and an alluring woman spy as the principal characters—such as "Renegades," Fox movie production which brings new thrills and excitement to our patrons when it opens at the Oasis theatre Friday and Saturday.

Warner Baxter sheds his habiliments of a border bandit for those of a French soldier in the leading role and fascinating Myrna Loy as the woman. A close adaptation of Andre Armandy's realistic novel, "Les Renegats," the picture is the first talkie of the Legion, and presents vividly the handicaps and dangers endured in the Riff campaigns. Victor Fleming, who recently made "Common Clay," directed this equally graphic production.

A replica of the famous Six Above mine, one of the richest claims in Anvil Creek during the days of the gold rush to Nome, Alaska, was built at the home of Mrs. Bartholomew's by Paramount for its talking edition of "The Spoilers," coming to the Oasis theatre Sunday and Monday, and in which Gary Cooper stars.

The mine took its name, as all others during those historic days, through fact that it was the sixth claim above the discovery claim, or pioneering claim up the creek from the discovery claim became known as One Above, the next was Two Above, etc. The claims below discovery were so described.

In the Rex Beach story, "The Spoilers," the famous mine is referred to as the Midas, and so it is called in Paramount's picture. The duplicate of the Midas property was constructed in Big Tujunga canyon, far back in the mountains from Hollywood.

"George Washington," by Dr. E. V. Vaughn, associate professor of history, will be the topic of the "American History in Song and Story," Friday, February 20. This series is presented under the auspices of the Corvallis chapter of the D. A. R., and concerns events and people associated with early history of the United States and Oregon. On Friday, February 27, Mrs. James G. Walker, Jr., regent of the Portland chapter, will speak on "Pilgrimage to Plymouth Rock," and Mrs. J. Thornburn Ross, former regent of Multnomah chapter, will tell about "Some of Our Great Grandmothers."

WITH FARMERS AROUND THE STATE

ASTORIA—More progress was made toward eradication of infectious abortion of cattle in Clatsop county during 1930 than in any other county in the state, says County agent E. W. McMindes. Plans are now under way by which it is hoped to give every dairyman in the county an opportunity to have his herd tested.

ST. HELENS — Farmers of Scappoose, who have been successfully growing small acreages of flax for the past several years, are considering the establishment of retting and scutching plants. Growers have also reported to County Agent George Nelson their intention of seeding some 700 additional acres to the crop this year.

KLAMATH FALLS—Trial of Ladak alfalfa will be made in Klamath county again this year with seed obtained through the office of County Agent C. A. Henderson. This variety has been tried out by a number of Oregon county agents and it is believed that it will be of considerable value in eastern Oregon, as it is winter hardy and drought resistant. Two trials were put out in Klamath county in 1930 and results were quite satisfactory.

EUGENE — Recent observation of a demonstration trial of Austrian Winter Field peas and common vetch as cover crops in the orchard of Frank Bunner showed that chick seed had practically stopped the growth of the vetch, but that the peas were outgrowing the weed, reports O. S. Fletcher, county agent.
