Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep. St. Johns 10:7

Impudent Communism

It is one thing to consider and discuss the remarkable political economic experiment now in progress in Russia. It is something else altogether for Soviet sympathizers to attack with verbal or actual physical violence the established institutions of the United States and demand that this Nation adopt the communistic program.

This is a distinction to be kept in mind while local courts are trying the cases of a group of agitators charged with violation of the criminal syndicalism statute.

Without reference to the guilt or innocence of these particular individuals, it may be said, in general, that the insidious ambassadors of communism, who work under the direction of the Third Internationale, are not simply peaceful missionaries, spreading the glad tidings of what they believe to be a better social order.

They are miners and sappers, seeking to place subterranean bombs of unrest and discontent that will destroy the satisfactory results of our own experiment in government, started some 150 years ago, and dedicated to the principles of freedom and equality of opportunity.

We say "satisfactory results" because, in spite of occasional mistakes and misunderstandings, the United States of America has achieved a success that has permeated to every part of the body politic and given the American "proletariat" (if we may properly apply that revolutionary jargon to any group in this country), the greatest measure of spiritual and social freedom enjoyed by any people of the world.

We say "satisfactory" because our Constitution is not a rigid citadel of authority, but a pliant implement, adaptable to changing demands and altered conditions. If any considerable majority of our citizens had become dissatisfied, they would have had only to exercise their guaranteed powers, and by orderly, legal process, make such changes as they choose.

If Russia, reacting from centuries of oppression and misrule, hampered by the ignorance of great masses of its people, and handicapped by enormous economic difficulties, finds it expedient to submit to the dictatorship of a minority, that is Russia's business. We may criticize and condemn many of its acts, but in the main, we are moved to admiration of the Soviet, for the courage and energy displayed in its gargantuan undertaking of the five-year program.

But our liberal attitude toward a long-suffering people, struggling toward a richer life, does not extend to those impertinent delegates who come, not only to tell us how we should order our affairs, but to try to drive us, by force, to become converts to their theories and subservient to their incredible audacity and conceit.

The Soviet may invent its own governmental machinery, but we do not grant it license to throw a monkey wrench into ours. —Portland Telegram.

HOW TO SELECT GOOD BEEF TOLD BY O.S.C. PROFESSOR

The woman who "knows her beef-steak" keeps four factors in mind when making a choice at her local market, says A. W. Oliver, assistant professor of animal husbandry, at Oregon State college.

First, Professor Oliver says, she will notice the distribution and color of the fat in the beef. A beef animal deposits its fat in the muscles as well as on the outside of the carcass.

This distribution of the fat is called marbling, and tends to break down the connective tissue, making the beef more tender. The fat of beef animals is white and flaky, while some of the dairy breeds have a very yellow fat.

Mrs. Housewife will also notice the color of the meat, says Professor Oliver. The most desirable color for beef is light cherry red. Very young animals will have a very pink meat, while the flesh of old animals is dark red or bluish. Meat from a thin animal is also darker in color than that from a fat one. Meat that is freshly cut is generally darker in color for 20 or 30 minutes.

Color of the bones is also an important indication of the age of the animal, Professor Oliver points out. A red color in the bones indicates that the animal was still growing, while the bones of a matured animal are white and hard. The bones in a desirable piece of meat will generally show this red color.

Another point to be considered is the grain or texture of the meat. Beef that has large, coarse fibers is generally less tender than meat with a fine, smooth velvety texture. This is well illustrated, according to Professor Oliver, by a comparison of T-bone steak with a cut from the neck region. The muscles of the neck are used a great deal, and the fibers will be much longer and coarser than those in the T-bone.

HOG WORM PROBLEM GROWING; STRICT SANITATION URGED

Sanitation as a means of prevention is the best method of controlling the worm problem which is causing so much loss to hog raisers in many parts of Oregon, H. A. Lindgren, livestock specialist of Oregon State college, told a group of 60 farmers who met on the campus last week for the annual pig feeders' day.

Using clean farrowing pens, having the sow thoroughly washed before farrowing, and putting her and her litter on clean pasture are some of the most important helps toward preventing an infestation of intestinal round worms, Lindgren said. Very little can be done in the way of cure once the pigs are infested, he explained, and if the pigs do not die, at least their development will be retarded six to eight weeks.

Detailed methods of sanitation in the hog lot, and directions for administering worm repellants when necessary may be obtained from county agents or direct from the college, Mr. Lindgren said.

COLLEGE PREDICTS MORE TURKEYS AND FEWER CHICKS

More turkeys may be raised in Oregon this year but current information indicates a reduction in early hatched pullets, according to a report just issued by the college extension service, on the agricultural situation and outlook.

Prices for turkeys were not quite as high for the 1930 crop as in other recent years but returns were good compared to other products. The turkey outlook appears favorable from the demand standpoint, the report says, but not much is known about the probable supply from other states.

The market outlook for eggs during the 1931-32 marketing year appears fairly favorable, according to the college economists, but poultrymen apparently plan to raise fewer pullets than usual. Commercial hatcheries in the United States turned out 50 per cent fewer January chicks and around 40 per cent fewer February chicks than last year. The cut was even heavier on the Pacific coast. Poultrymen have also marketed so many hens that the number now on farms is somewhat less than a year ago.

Egg production has been unusually heavy during the winter months because of the mild, open weather, but the recent trend has been toward normal production. The use of eggs by consumers, however, has increased substantially because of the low prices.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Substance" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 15.

The Golden Text was, "Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the firstfruits of all thine increase" (Prov. 3:9).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "The heavens shall vanish away like smoke, and the earth shall wax old like a garment, and they that dwell therein shall die in like manner: but my salvation shall be for ever, and my righteousness shall not be abolished" (Isa. 51:6).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy: "The objects cognized by the physical senses have not the reality of substance. They are only what mortal belief calls them. Matter, sin, and mortality lose all supposed consciousness or claim to life or existence, as mortals lay off a false sense of life, substance, and intelligence" (p.311).

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

International Sunday School Lesson March 22

THE USE AND ABUSE OF GOD'S GIFTS

Luke 12:16-21, 41-48

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D.D.

Though the lesson text does not deal directly with the subject, the quarterly temperance lesson must be dressed with special earnestness. Herein we have one of the liveliest topics of the day. Test this out by reading our daily paper for a week looking down to date news on this subject.

In parable form Jesus tells the people in Perea about the man who thought only of his personal gratifications and desired to do as he pleased regardless of any influence on others. In story form a rich gourmand was portrayed. This man was needed for the gout, judging by his objectives in life. He had productive fields which yielded far more than enough for his needs.

When the climax was reached all were startled by the question which Jesus asked. What will you do with mere things when thy soul is required of thee this night? That inquiry brings each one face to face with the Judgment Seat of God.

Peter brought forth the next story and we have the parable of the steward who was unfaithful to his trust while he thought the owner was far away. Thinking power was taken away by the indulgence in strong drink. When in that condition the supposedly trustworthy man harmed his fellow servants and also himself.

Society can never be safe when right-mindedness is taken away by any habit forming drug. The corrective is made very clear in the Golden Text: "Be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the spirit," Ephesians 5:18. The Government will be increasingly effective in stopping commercial violations of the law. The Sunday School must meet the noncommercial violations through education.

THEATRE NOTES

"Top Speed" is merely a relative term, according to Joe E. Brown, star of this lively production which comes to the Oasis theatre on Sunday and Monday.

"The greatest thrill of my life came in riding in these speedboats at between 50 and 60 miles an hour," said Brown. "I've traveled 145 miles in an hour in an airplane, but you obtain no such sense of speed in the air as you do through the water. It seems at least three times as fast."

Mervyn LeRoy directed. Bernice Claire, Jack Whiting, Frank McHugh and Laura Lee are in the cast.

Those who enjoy murder mysteries, spiced with just the right amount of romance, will find "Scarlet Pages," the First National and Vitaphone production which opens at the Oasis theatre Friday and Saturday, one of the most thrilling and dramatic stories of the year.

Adapted from the play by Samuel Shipman and John B. Hymer, "Scarlet Pages" brings to the screen a story of mother love and sacrifice that will never be forgotten.

It is packed with "baker's dozens" of thrills and tensely dramatic moments, and never once suffers a let down of tempo. More than that, the characterizations are surprisingly human and realistic.

Little need be said regarding Elsie Ferguson, for as the brilliant criminal lawyer, this splendid actress provides a characterization of unusual merit. Marian Nixon and Grant Withers, who have already achieved widespread popularity as team, are seen once again as sweethearts.

John Halliday, celebrated Broadway star, gives an unusually fine performance as the shrewd district attorney. Chief among the capable supporting cast are De Witt Jennings, Helen Ferguson, Charlotte Walker, Neely Edwards and Wilbur Mack.

Much of the credit goes to Director Ray Enright, for he has proved his ability by the deft way in which he handled the picture.

WITH FARMERS AROUND THE STATE

HOOD RIVER — Cutting off all bloom on certain branches of trees is apparently proving successful in solving the alternate bearing problem in the orchard of Honsell Brothers, Hood River. The two trees on which this trial was made last year are now full of fruit buds this year, reports County Agent A. L. Marble, who recently inspected the orchard.

ST. HELENS — As a result of successful trials carried on in Columbia county during the past few years using superphosphate on potatoes and root crops, several tons of this material have been ordered for farmers of the county this year by County Agent George A. Nelson. A combination of barn yard manure, lime and superphosphate seems to give maximum results of these crops as well as on legumes, Nelson says.

CORVALLIS — W. L. Powell of Kiger Island is trying out applications of sodium chlorate to kill maple stumps, according to C. R. Briggs, county agent.

LAKEVIEW — Two Lake county stockmen, Stanley Hanson of Union district and Walter Leehman of some Idaho district, recently obtained some Crested wheat grass for trial under dryland conditions. Each of these men own range land which can economically be seeded to this grass if a local seed supply can be established.
