SENIOR CLASS PLAY DRAWS FULL HOUSE UPON PRESENTATION

In the meantime some of the girl's jewels have disappeared and Miss Laidlaw has sent for the police. Sheriff Perkins (Victor Addeleman) arrives on the scene just as the boys return and discover that the mummy has been stolen. It is very valuable and the sheriff immediately takes matters in his own hands. By this time news has reached the local newspaper that Sir Hector Fish has broken quarantine in New York and the reporter Phoebe Beebe (Emogene Paul) rushes to the scene in order to obtain any news that might be breaking.

Francis learns that there is a fine and imprisonment for breaking quarantine but it is impossible for anyone to leave the house except Miss Laidlaw. He dons women's clothes and has "Racker" order the car so that he may get by the officers at the gate. Sir Hector also sallies forth as a feminine impersonator and they meet face to face, Miss Laidlaw arrives in time to straighten out the situation or the sheriff by proving she is the real Miss Laidlaw and the three couples report their engagements to the anxious reporter.

The one mystery that remains unsolved is that "Racker" cannot understand what has become of "Duley."

Some keen competition has materialized and with a little more practice a tournament may be announced.

Members have been going ahead with improvements in the lodge room and have installed a pool table in the club room. They hope to have a well equipped social hall before long.

Several of the brothers have been reported on the sick list. Uriah Lenhart, who was injured quite seriously some time ago, went to Portland Wednesday night where he will consult a bone specialist. His left arm was broken and is not knitting properly. W. L. Blessing has recovered from his recent illness sufficiently to make the trip to the coast where he and Mrs. Blessing will spend a week.

Vol. 31 Hermiston, Or., Thursday, April 23, 1931 No. 16

Editorial

We just had a wire from our New York correspondent reporting a most unusual accident. It seems that this prize fighting giant, Primo Carnera, was driving down Broadway and threw out his arm to signal a left turn and two Austins ran up his sleeve. As we go to press, the Austins have not been located.
