STATE TREASURER CALLED TUESDAY

T. J. Mahoney, ex-banker, ex-member of the Port of Portland, commissioner and friend of the administration.

Frank Sever, ex-chief deputy treasurer under the late O. P. Hoff.

A. C. Marsters, Roseburg banker, reputedly close to the executive office.

Jack Peare, La Grande jeweler and Meier campaigner.

Henry Hazen, political advisor of the governor, and newly appointed budget director was probably most frequently mentioned.

It has been suggested by some observers that eastern Oregon and the upstate counties generally would present strong claims to the governor on behalf of aspirants from their sections. The vicinity of Portland is well represented on the board by Secretary of State Hoss, who comes from Oregon City, and Governor Meier, whose home is in Portland.
