AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY GIVES YEARLY REPORT.

Ex-Service Men) comprises today 64 ex-service associations in 10 Allied countries — Belgium, the United States, France, the British Isles, Italy, Poland, Portugal, Romaina, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia — totaling in all more than eight million veterans. These men and their fallen comrades saved the world from tyranny and for democracy 13 years ago. They made possible the present peaceful conditions under which we live. Try and imagine for a moment the circumstances we would be living under if they had failed. Then consider the powerful forces this body of men can be for the peace of the future, if they were sufficiently informed and their influence fully realized. There, in brief, is the final analysis, the practical idea that brought about the birth and is the ultimate goal of the Fidac.

The community service committee, headed by Mrs. H. G. McCulley, has established, equipped and maintained a first aid room in the schools. For the first time the "Newwallah" party was sponsored for school children on fallowen when approximately 350 children participated. Results of this party was shown by the lack of destruction to property on that night. The committee has contributed to local relief for the needy.

Special publicity campaigns were conducted during the year by Mrs. George Story, chairman of the publicity committee, for the "Newwallah" party, poppy sale, and Afghan raffle. The local paper was used for publicity and articles were contributed to the publication department of the Oregon Legionnaire.

Mrs. Joe Norton, chairman of the music department, reported that all members memorized the Star Spangled Banner, and 100 war song sheets were purchased for community singing on Memorial day programs.

Mrs. J. E. Hallyburton gave a full report on the unit activities for the year which showed a busy year for the organization. The Auxiliary has met twice a month, for which special meeting notices have been sent to members. Services were conducted according to manual ceremonies and special bulletins from the head departments were read. Reports from the district conferences were given by delegates.

During the year the Auxiliary added $120.30 to its treasury which was taken in from the food booth at the fair, from the sale of flour sifters, and from the tickets sold on the Afghan. These funds were used for the purchase of materials for child welfare and relief work, and for the "Newwallah" party. The president, Mrs. Hamm, states that not a cent of the money earned by the Auxiliary is ever spent in any form of entertainment for Auxiliary or Legion members. Any social affairs are contributed to by members.

During the year, two pot luck dinners with Legion and Auxiliary members present, were served. One reception was given for the Department Commander, J. M. Biggs, and a special meeting held when the Department President, Mrs. Callie Helder, visited this unit. One party was given for all women eligible for membership in the Auxiliary. A charivari was held by members honoring Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Hilsley on their golden wedding anniversary.

in this complete report the work accomplished by the members of the American Legion Auxiliary is shown.
