Better Be Safe Than Sorry.

The drowning season is now in full swing. From now until school begins again thousands of boys—girls, too, these days—will take unnecessary chances in the water and lose their lives in consequence.

Nevertheless, we offer some advice to those who would go swimming. Don't stay in too long. Half an hour is enough at a stretch.

Don't go into the water immediately after a heavy meal. Don't keep on swimming after you are tired.

Never go swimming alone. Don't try to "find bottom." Don't get into a canoe unless you can swim.

Most of the drowning accidents come from disregard of those simple precautions. If everybody would follow them there would be fewer young lives lost.

The Cost of Illness.

There is another thing that is as sure as death and taxes—sickness. The average American man is ill once a year; the average American woman nearly twice as often; the child of school age twice as often. These are figures taken from a study made by the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care, which is coming to the end of a five year study of the economic aspects of the prevention of disease and the care of the sick. These illnesses total about 130,000,000 every year. Their direct cost in money is computed by the Committee at $2,105,000,000.

This is a huge cost, reckoned either in terms of time lost or of money expended. The cost would be huge even if we could foresee just when we will fall ill, just how serious the illness will be, or just how long it will last. None of those things, however, can be foreseen, and to all the other burdens that illness imposes upon us must be added uncertainty. Uncertainty exists not only as to appearance and character of illness, it is even more a factor with relation to cost. No problem enters into the daily lives of Americans that is more serious than this.

Medical facilities in the United States are adequate in the aggregate, perhaps. The committee has found that 1,500,000 people devote their full time to medical care. There is one physician to every 126 inhabitants. Over 7,000 hospitals have 900,000 beds, which would give every man, woman and child one and one-half days occupancy a year. But neither physicians nor hospitals are evenly distributed; there are places that have too many, and many more to have too few.

What can be done about seeing that everybody in the United States has sure and convenient access to the medical care to which he is entitled? What can be done about seeing that those who furnish this care are adequately rewarded for their labor? What can be done about seeing that the means of paying for this care are provided for all the people?

In the four years which it has already put in upon its task such progress has been made that answers to those questions will soon be submitted to the people of the United States. There is promise that the formula which will result will be workable. If it is, then one of the great contributions to civilization or courage will have been made.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 12.

The Golden Text was, "Jesus saith unto them, My meat is to do the will of him that sent me, and to finish his work" (John 4:34).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I pray not that thou shouldst take them out of the world, but that thou shouldst keep them from the evil" (John 17:15).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science reveals a necessity for overcoming the world, the flesh, and evil, and thus destroying all error. Seeking is not sufficient. It is striving that enables us to enter. Spiritual attainments open the door to a higher understanding of the divine Life" (p.10).

CHRISTIANITY SPREADING BY PERSECUTION

Acts 7:59-8:4; 11:19-21

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D.D.

Progress usually comes in connection with very hard experiences. It has been so in the extension of the blessings of Christianity. The stand-patters in the old Jerusalem church certainly made it hard for those who were trying to follow Christ's teachings. Persecution was resorted to in order to stay the progress of these humanitarian teachings which claimed the crucified and risen Lord as their Teacher. Special hatred centered upon one of the seven deacons, by the name of Stephen.

Again the Sanhedrin was summoned and Stephen was tried. When called upon to make his defense the opportunity was used to present a formal statement that reviewed the leading facts in the ministry of Jesus Christ and how He had been treated by this same council. In bold language Stephen charged the Sanhedrin with the killing of Jesus. Soon sentence of death was given against him, also in the hope that the Cause could be stopped by destroying its able proponents.

Death was accomplished by stoning. During the slaying Stephen, like his Lord, prayed his executioners might be forgiven. A profound impression was made by all these acts on a young man named Saul, who as a member of the Sanhedrin had helped in the sentence and further assisted as caretaker of the garments that were laid at his feet by those who did the killing.

Such persecution forced many Christians to leave Jerusalem, and thus the heaven of Christianity was extended over a large area and "a great number turned to the Lord."

FOWL POX VIRUS IS CHEAP PROTECTION

"If there has ever been a case of chicken pox on your place, you can't afford not to vaccinate this year."

This is the advice E. M. Dickinson, assistant poultry pathologist at Oregon State college, is giving Oregon poultrymen, many of whom have been wondering whether, with the present low price of eggs, they should make this additional outlay.

With poultry prices as they are, maximum production from every bird is absolutely essential if producers are to stay in business, Dickinson says. Chicken pox in the flock would cause a disastrous slump in production. Vaccination with the new live virus developed at the Oregon Experiment station two years ago is practically absolute guarantee of immunity from the disease, and to forego such insurance is false economy.

The best time to vaccinate, according to Dickinson, is when the birds are 3 1/2 to 4 months of age. Ordinarily this would mean that the peak of vaccinating activity in the state would come during July, but many flocks are later than usual this year.

Poultrymen who have attended the poultry vaccination schools held at the college during 1929 and 1930, who passed the examinations and have permits from the State Livestock Sanitary board are permitted to obtain virus from the college and vaccinate their own flocks, says Dickinson. Others may use the services of any practicing veterinarian.

More than 100,000 birds were vaccinated for chicken pox with the new virus obtained from the college last year, with excellent results, records show.

In cases where chicken pox has never occurred on a poultry farm, vaccination is not advised, as it would get the virus on the place and make vaccination imperative in future years.
