SMOKING WHILE TRAVELING DANGEROUS TO FORESTS.

Smokers have been responsible for one-third of all the man caused forest fires on the national forests of Oregon and Washington during the present fire season, according to reports just received by the Regional Forester, Portland, Oregon. For the period up to July 21, 330 man-caused fires have been reported. Of these 109 were started by careless smokers and 75 by thoughtless campers, the forest supervisor reports show. This is an increase over the similar period for 1930, when smokers started 84 fires and campers 52 out of a total of 193 man-caused fires.

In addition to the man-caused forest fires, 126 have been started by lightning in 1931, as compared with 304 during the same period last year.

Of the total of 456 fires reported to date this year, 265 have been put out while under one-quarter acre each; while only 72 of them exceeded 10 acres each. The total acreage burned over by these fires includes 8,904 acres of national forest land; 4,666 acres of privately-owned land inside national forest boundaries, and 7,793 acres of private land outside and adjacent to national forest boundaries.

The regional forester calls attention to the special order which prohibits smoking while traveling in the national forests on forest, brush or grass land, except on paved or surfaced highways. A strict compliance with this order on the part of the forest-using public will do much to reduce the smokers' fire hazard.

while following the Smoker's Code would greatly reduce the number of smokers' fires, he said. This is the Smoker's Code:

DANGEROUS TO SMOKE WHILE TRAVELING

- On Forest, Brush or Grass Land SMOKE ONLY
- 1. While stopping in a safe place clear of all inflammable material, or
- 2. Outside of areas closed to smoking by State law or Federal order, or
- 3. Inside a vehicle on two-way highways, or
- 4. Above timber line, and

AFTER SMOKING

Put out all lighted material.
