WITH FARMERS AROUND THE STATE

OREGON CITY—Use of three commercial fertilizers—ammonium phosphate, 3-10-10 and 6-10-4, on red raspberries brought an average net increase to George Bliss of Carus of $78.36 per acre, after subtracting the cost of the fertilizers. Other fertilizers used in the trial in which Bliss cooperated with County Agent J. J. Inskip, were ammonium sulphate and bone meal. Commercial fertilizers are best used as a supplement to barnyard manure straw, or other organic material turned under for fertilizers, Inskip says.

SPRING GRAIN ESTIMATES CUT DOWN; PASTURES POOR

Sharp cuts in the government estimates of spring grain crops, but an increased output of some others, compared to a month ago, are described in the August report on the agricultural situation by the Oregon State college extension service.

Growing conditions in July were especially unfavorable for spring sown crops, pastures and ranges. Approximately 400,000,000 bushels were lopped off of the estimated combined output of spring wheat, corn, oats and barley. Substantial reductions were made in the production estimate for hay and potatoes. On the other hand, winter wheat estimates were increased 7 per cent.

Unusually small crops of flaxseed, hops and onions are expected. The hot weather reduced the prospective output of dried prunes and walnuts slightly. Apple prospects improved a little.

The condition of pastures for the whole country on August 1 was the poorest on record except for last year and 1911, according to the report. Conditions were worst from Ohio westward, with range conditions bad in several western states.

The high temperatures and dry pastures caused more than the usual decline in milk production per cow during July. Figures are given in the report showing that although 3 per cent more butter was manufactured during the first half of 1931 than a year ago, the excess was all in the first four months.

Storage holdings of butter are now substantially smaller than a year ago and below average for this time of the year. Egg stocks are considerably lighter than a year ago.

EUGENE—Following the lead of the dairymen in the Portland milked Eugene dairymen are organizing a milk distributors association, with the assistance of County Agent O. S. Fletcher and George Gatlin, extension specialist in marketing. The object will be to stabilize the price for producers, and improve the quality of the milk, without increasing the cost to consumers, and at the same time provide the distributors with a uniform supply of high quality milk. The new organization is an outgrowth of the Eugene Milk Producers' association, an unincorporated body.
