The Anniversary of Our Constitution.

Today, September 17, 1931, marks the anniversary of the Constitution of the United States of America.

George Washington warned the people against foreign entanglements in order that safety and charity should begin at home.

An editorial in the Saturday Evening Post states that if a good guaranty had been offered that all war debt payments would continue after a year's vacation...

conspicuous offender. Loans and credits do not help put men to work. They help keep them idle by enabling European countries to finance the dole.

"There is nothing wrong with America except dam foolishness. The cure is in the hands of the Commonsense Blues if they will use it."

A Hopeless Hope.

A hopeless hope is more joyous when realized than a hopeful hope realized. Such must have been the joy of loved ones of the two flyers, Don Moyle and Cecil A. Allen, of California...

Aimee's Headliners.

Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton has again made glaring front page headlines—pictures and all. Will she be one of the headliners when we all check in at the pearly gates, or will Saint Peter say, "Passee?"

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Substance" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 13.

The Golden Text was, "By humility and the fear of the Lord are riches, and honour, and life" (Prov. 22:4).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I lead in the way of righteousness, in the midst of the paths of judgment; that I may cause those that love me to inherit substance; and I will fill their treasures" (Prov. 8:20, 21).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy:

"The fading forms of matter, the mortal body and material earth, are the fleeting concepts of the human mind. They have their day before the permanent facts and their perfection in Spirit appear. . . Mortals must look beyond fading, finite forms, if they would gain the true sense of things" (p.263,264).

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

International Sunday School Lesson for September 27.

THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY IN ASIA.

Golden Text Acts 14:27. Rev. Samuel D. Price, D.D.

This Review lesson is of special importance because of the large amount comprehended in the quarter's lessons and since the regular study has been interrupted in many cases by reason of the summer vacations. Begin by reading in Acts from chapter 1 through 15:35. You will need your map constantly. The map that will help you the most is the one that you draw as each new place is named.

Gloom incident to the crucifixion and then the Ascension of Jesus Christ was fully dispelled by the stupendous events that took place in Jerusalem on the Jewish feast of Pentecost.

The ten day prayer meeting the dispensation of the Holy Spirit began with the awe-inspiring manifestation, followed by the spiritually effective preaching of Peter when thousands believed that the Crucified was the Messiah and Savior of mankind.

Preaching and personal work followed, and miracles were confirming signs that attracted the attention of the people. Peter was no longer the coward to cringe before the sneer of a serving maid. The lame man was healed in the temple. When the authorities commanded that such preaching cease, Peter replied, "We must obey God rather than man."

Church organization was developed as occasion required and the order of deacons was established to give adequate attention to the worthy poor. Giving money is part of true religion. Persecutions arose because of the very successes of the early church. Deacon Stephen became the first martyr and deacon Philip did fine work in Samaria and as a missionary to the eunuch. Believers were scattered and Saul of Tarsus was changed from chief persecutor to an ardent believer and evangelist.

FOOD POISONING PREVENTABLE BY PROPER PREPARATION.

Food poisoning outbreaks can be prevented to a great extent by cleanliness in food handling and the proper sterilization of all canned food products. The canning industry in this country has spent large sums of money, and well-trained investigators have devoted much time in an effort to replace guess work in processing by scientific canning procedure. There are, however, some persons who regularly process non-acid canned foods in an open water bath at 212 degrees F. This is a very dangerous practice and as long as it is persisted in there is always likely to be a recurrence of outbreaks of botulism. The total lack of botulism cases from commercial products during the past six years speaks well for the efforts of the canning industry.

Unfortunately cases of botulism from home-canned food still occur. Home-canned string beans are the outstanding offenders. The pores of the causative organism of botulism can only be destroyed by sterilization in a pressure cooker. The toxin of botulism is destroyed through boiling and cases of botulism do not follow consumption of food which has been thoroughly cooked immediately before serving. The greatest number of cases of food poisoning reported are not due to botulism but due to the salmonella or paratyphoid bacteria involving the symptoms of gastro enteritis, sudden onset, nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, diarrhea and rise of temperature. In cases of this kind the mortality rate is very low and recovery is fairly rapid. Because many of these cases are frequently and erroneously designated as ptomaine poisoning and not reported, we have no way of knowing the frequency of this type of poisoning. Since rats, mice, and domestic animals harbor these organisms in their bodies this is always a possible means of infecting one's food supply. Food such as meat pies, scalloped fish and oysters, some salads, puddings, custard and cream pie filling are frequently the cause of illness owing to the fact that in the process of preparing insufficient heat is used to destroy the bacteria or their toxins. Such foods offer favorable conditions for the development of bacteria if inadequately heated and improperly stored after preparation.

Cooked foods should be heated to the boiling point, kept free from contamination, and if to be held more than a few hours, subjected to refrigeration. Soft cream fillings, ice cream, etc., offer very good culture media for bacteria, if such mixtures are not properly handled and stored. All such preparations should be kept in the refrigerator and protected from rodents and insects. It is true that dirty or spoiled foods may not of themselves cause illness, but tend to increase the possibility of food poisoning. In selecting or preparing food for the table reject everything that is unfit for use remembering that clean, sound freshly and thoroughly cooked does not cause food poisoning.
