JUNIOR COOPERATIVES TO BE FORMED IN OREGON.

The truth of the old adage that "experience is the best teacher" will be tested out in a number of Oregon high schools this winter in the teaching of agricultural marketing.

The plan, as outlined by George O. Gatlin, extension specialist in marketing at Oregon State college, is to form junior cooperatives under the direction of Smith-Hughes instructors, by means of which the students will not only learn cooperative principles and practices, but gain actual experience in the marketing of produce cooperatively.

A model set of by-laws and a constitution have been prepared by Gatlin, which in most respects are similar to those used by up-to-date adult cooperatives, yet without being too technical.

Each association will determine what products it will market and whether to sell the products raised by the boys on the local markets, to ship them independently or to sell through some adult cooperative in the region.

The first of these junior cooperatives is now being formed at Bandon High school and others will be organized in the near future.

CHURCH NOTES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Oct. 11.

The Golden Text was, "God be merciful unto us, and bless us; and cause his face to shine upon us; that thy way may be known upon earth, thy saving health among all nations" (Ps. 67:1, 2).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Jesus saith unto him, Rise, take up thy bed, and walk. And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked" (John 5:8, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind's control over the universe, including man, is no longer an open question, but is demonstrable Science. Jesus illustrated the divine Principle and the power of immortal Mind by healing sickness and sin and destroying the foundations of death" (p.171).

intending to turn the camp into a panic.

Mr. Beasley lived at Pilot Rock for thirteen years and during that time he met and married Sarah Jooney. In 1878 they moved to Moscow, Idaho, where they lived for 24 years. While living here Mr. Beasley was on a committee that built two Baptist churches and a parsonage for which lumber was hauled from Palouse, a distance of 20 miles.

While living at Moscow, Mr. Beasley raised wheat and flax which he hauled to Wawai landing on the Snake river, a distance of approximately thirty miles. He often took his bacon hogs to Wawai in order to trade them for provisions.

Twelve years ago Mr. Beasley moved his family to Hermiston from Moscow. Mrs. Beasley died seven years ago and Mr. Beasley has lived with his daughter, Mrs. George Wagner, since that time. He will be 86 years old in November.

REMOVAL OF EXTRA CHARGE TO BENEFIT WESTERN TRAVEL.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14—Making it possible for tourists to see the entire Pacific Coast without additional cost, the Southern Pacific Company today announced plans for removal of the extra charge for rail travel between California and eastern points via the Shasta route through Portland.

Effective with the annual offering of reduced transcontinental roundtrips next May, the equalization of fares will climax years of effort by Southern Pacific to bring about this travel boom in cooperation with connecting lines, it was stated by E. W. Clapp, general passenger traffic manager for the company.

The announcement, Clapp explained, means that summer travelers next year will be able to use the Shasta route in making a circuit of the country, either going or returning, at the price in effect over other travel routes. This benefit, it was pointed out, will accrue to thousands of persons attending the American Legion meeting in Portland, the Shrine convention in San Francisco and the Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

"The Southern Pacific Company has been endeavoring ever since 1918 to accomplish an equalization of fares, similar to what was in effect prior to the War," Clapp declared, "but its efforts have been nullified by the previous refusal of connecting lines beyond Portland to concur in the plan. Their objection have just been overcome and the way is now open for removal of the extra charge over the Shasta route."

OREGON STATE GAME NOTES

A drop of $60,000 in total revenues of the Oregon State Game Commission from the high total of $450,000 of last year, will be recorded at the close of the department's fiscal year September 30, according to H. L. Moreland, chief clerk. Most of the 622 agents selling hunters' and anglers' licenses have responded promptly with their returns, but the total for 1931 will not exceed $390,000.

Expenses have been curtailed in all departments, only the most essential work being continued and substantial savings have been made.

Activity of leading sportsmen in each county to stimulate license sales is expected to partially offset the disastrous slump which threatens continuance of fish and game propagation work.

Lakes and streams of southern Oregon received the following trout stocking from the Klamath hatchery of the Oregon State Game Commission the last 15 days of September, according to Matt L. Ryckman, Superintendent of Hatcheries; Eastern Brook in Jackson Creek, 1,400; Miller Lake, 22,400; Sky Lakes, 39,200; Malone Springs, 20,000; Fremont Creek, 1,400; Royce Creek, 22,400; Wickiup Springs, 22,400; Dead Horse Lake, 18,000. Lake of the Woods received 88,000 Rainbow trout.

Hunting fatalities are increasing so rapidly that immediate action is to be taken to enforce the laws, Captain Charles H. McClees of the Oregon State Police, informed the game department today. One of the laws is to the effect that no person who has killed a person while hunting may ever hunt again in Oregon and possession of a hunting license does not reinstate the right to carry firearms.

WITH FARMERS AROUND THE STATE

COQUILLE—Cous county stockmen are seeding large areas of burned over pasture land by airplane again this year, according to W. L. Teutsch, assistant county agent leader, who recently inspected the burnings. Among those who are using this modern method of seeding this year are Alfred Powers of Powers and J. E. Ford of Marshfield who plan to seed between 400 and 500 acres each. A 1,400 acre area of land seeded in this manner two years ago by Mr. Powers now has an excellent and uniform stand of grass, Mr. Teutsch says.

MCMINNVILLE—Members of the Yamhill County Farmers' union are rapidly developing plans for a new cooperative creamery at Sheridan, and a meeting of all the dairymen interested has been called for the
