BOYD PORTRAYS 'MASTER-MIND' IN FILM PLAY AT OASIS.

William Boyd, that "double-dyed" deceiver of the film plots, is back in his celluloid element again in "The False Madonna." Paramount romance-drama of modern life which comes to the Oasis theatre Sunday and Monday. This is the show that finished its run at the Portland Paramount Wednesday. Boyd's most memorable characterizations have been those of "bad men." He was Gary Cooper's antagonist in "The Spoilers," and tried to spoil the romance of Richard Arlen and Mary Brian in "Gun Smoke." In "The Gang Buster" he tried to bust things up between Jack Oakie and Jean Arthur. In "The Road to Reno" he was the would-be nemesis of Buddy Rogers and Peggy Shannon.

In "The False Madonna," Boyd appears as the master-mind of a three continents, mulching their victims of millions of dollars. Kay Francis is seen as one of the gang, an erstwhile respectable society woman, beau-tiful, stylish, well-mannered. It is when Kay is sent out as the chief decoy in a scheme to return the missing mother to a youth who will inherit a vast fortune that Boyd's empire of crookedness falls about his head. For Kay balks at the deceitfulness of her errand, after she develops a motherly love for their youthful intended victim.

It is a fine role for Boyd. He plays it with strength and compelling conviction. In the cast with Boyd and Miss Francis are Conway Tearle, as the lawyer friend of the wealthy heir who falls in love with Kay; Charles D. Brown, Broadway comedian, in a comedy part; Marjorie Gateson, legitimate stage favorite as Brown's "side-partner" in the comedy department of the film; John Breeden, young juvenile, and other capable players.
