BAND BOYS, FARM LADS PLAN MEETS AT O. S. C.

Oregon State college students and faculty are preparing to entertain two large groups of young people from all parts of the state going there for the annual state high school band concert, April 15 and 16, and the annual convention of Future Farmers of America, April 28 to 30.

The band contest, which in future will alternate between O. S. C. and the U. of O., will bring close to 700 musicians to vie for honors in the six solo contests and three band classes. Albany, Gresham and Irrigon are the three state champions at present.

The Future Farmer convention is the successor to the old "Smith-Hughes Weekend," which brought together students studying agriculture in high schools for a week end of demonstrations and observations at the school of agriculture. Some 200 delegates are expected this year.
