'CHARLIE CHAN'S CHANCE TO BE FEATURED AT OASIS

A mystery melodrama, "Charlie Chan's Chance," with Warner Oland again in the role of the Chinese detective, will be the feature for Sunday and Monday at the Oasis. Love interest in the picture is supplied by Marian Nixon and Alexander Kirkland, who was seen last in "Surrender." Others in the cast are H. B. Warner, Linda Watkins, James Kirkwood and Ralph Morgan.

The story details the newest adventures of Charlie Chan, this time in a New York setting, where he finds himself studying the police methods of that city.

A mysterious murder is committed, and Scotland Yard Detectives combine efforts with the metropolitan police, but they are unable to solve the baffling crime. Charlie Chan, by virtue of his superior wisdom and his keen analytical mind, discovers important clues, reconstructs the crime, and, after a series of thrilling experiences and many narrow escapes, untangles the enigmatical skein. The murder is finally revealed in a dramatic climax.

Candidates File For Primary

office of justice of the peace at Milton, and J. W. Perkins, also republican, has filed for the office of constable of that city.

State Filing Large.

The office of the secretary of state at Salem Tuesday was kept busy from early morning until the filing time expired at 5:00 o'clock in the evening, according to press reports.

R. R. Butler, republican representative in congress from the 2nd Oregon district, was thought to have been without opposition in his own party, then Tuesday J. M. Richards of Stanfield filed to contest him.

Eight candidates, five republicans and three democrats, have filed for the office of United States senator. The republican aspirants are Frederick Steiwer, incumbent; Alfred E. Clark, Robert Gordon Duncan, Robert N. Stanfield and Kenneth Harlan. All are residents of Portland.

The democratic candidates are Marshall N. Dona, Portland newspaper man Elton Watkins, attorney, and Walter B. Gleason.

Four republicans and two democrats will go into the primary election for the office of representative in congress for the 1st congressional district. The republican candidates include Willis C. Hawley, incumbent; Emmett Howard, Eugene; James W. Mett, Salem, and Charles C. Hulet, Albany. Hulet, the first of the republicans to file, was until recently master of the Oregon state grange. Mett is state corporation commissioner.

The democratic candidates are Harvey G. Starkweather, Milwaukie and William A. Delzell, Salem. Delzell was the democratic nominee against Hawley at the general election two years ago, but was defeated by approximately 8000 votes.

There are two republican and two democratic candidates for the office of representative in congress for the 2nd congressional district. The republicans are Robert R. Butler, The Dalles, incumbent, and J. M. Richards of Stanfield. The democratic candidates are Francis V. Galloway of The Dalles and Walter M. Pierce of LaGrande.

Hal E. Hoss, incumbent, and Geo. A. Palmiter of Milwaukie are the republican candidates for secretary of state. Roy H. Wisecarver of McMinnville has filed for the democratic nomination. Palmiter served as master of the Oregon state grange for several years.

Rufus C. Holman, incumbent, was assured of opposition in both the primary and general election when J. W. Maloney, prominent Pendleton banker, filed his declaration for the democratic nomination. Milton Scherping, prominent Portland business man, will oppose Holman at the republican primary election.

Two republican candidates, I. H. Vanwinkle, incumbent, and Earl C. Bronaugh of Portland, have filed for justice of the state supreme court, position No. 2, now held by Henry J. Bean. Candidates for this position other than Justice Bean are John McCulloch, Portland; James T. Brand, Marshfield, and Roy R. Hewitt of Salem.

Three candidates have filed for justice of the state supreme court, position No. 3. These include Loyal M. Graham, Forest Grove; J. O. Bailey, Portland, and George M. Brown, incumbent.

James W. Crawford and H. M. Tomilson, both of Portland, have filed for circuit judge of the Multnomah county circuit court, department No. 2.

DISCUSSION ON CANNING GIVEN BEFORE CLUB BY MRS. BARLOW.

One of the highlights of the Farm Bureau Auxiliary meeting Friday at Columbia club house, was a very instructive talk given by Mrs. Barlow, on the instructions received when she attended the canning school at Corvallis in February. She explained the handling of vegetables preparatory to canning, and the cause of ptomaine poisoning. Following this a report on the annual clean-up day for Columbia park was given and the date set for Friday, April 8. The ladies of the auxiliary will serve a free lunch at noon.

Later a motion was made that the resignation of Mrs. J. H. Reid be taken from the table and discussed. Mrs. Reid had put in her resignation as president of the club due to poor health and it was voted that she remain in office with Mrs. Blum as assistant.

It was reported that Mrs. Keller, who underwent an operation in Mayo Brothers hospital, recently, was recovering favorably and hoped to be home again soon. A committee consisting of Mrs. B. Jones, Mrs. French, and Mrs. Wells conducted a pleasant social hour following the close of the business session.

Committee for the next program April 15th will be composed of Mrs. Lyle Tilden, Mrs. Bodkin, Mrs. John Paxton, and Mrs. Dunning.

COOPERATIVE CANNERY AND LAUNDRY ARE IMPROVED

One of the new up-and-coming enterprises of Hermiston is the Co-operative Laundry and Cannery which is under new management this year and is looking forward to a very successful season.

The laundry now has five electric washing machines which take care of the laundry for nearly 150 families who live in Hermiston and on the project. At present the fifth machine is used as an extra but the management hopes to have another set of tubs installed which will enable all five machines to run the full ten hour shift.

The cannery, too, is being more completely equipped to handle the raw products which will soon begin to come in. A number of improvements have been made in the cannery which includes painting and refinishing. There is now an automatic control on the retart which will hold pressure more accurately. A second exhaust box, with lids for both, will save time during the exhaust period. The cannery will soon have the change parts for the copper which will enable patrons to use No. 2 cans as well as the No. 2 1/2 size.

Information was gained by the manager and his wife when they attended the canning school given at Oregon State college the latter part of January and the first week in February, where the commercial canneries and the smaller type canneries which were solved by specialists. Demonstrations of the mechanical parts were handled by specialists from the American Can company, during the course. Lectures on fish canning were given by Dr. Clough from Seattle. Fruit and vegetable canning was demonstrated by men from the college under the leadership of Prof. Thomas Onsdorff, who has charge of the horticulture products department at O.S.C.

Altogether the course was instructive and beneficial and the manager and his wife, will be in the cannery to assist patrons this canning season. They are anxious to help in every way possible.

The different college professors, the representatives from the American Can company, and others who attended the school, were all anxious to learn about the cooperative enterprise in Hermiston and all are watching its growth and final output.

SECOND ALL-OUTDOOR PRODUCED PICTURE

The most popular role Warner Baxter ever had and one which won him the award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts was that of "Cisco Kid" in that western classic, "In Old Arizona." The soft-spoken, dare-devil caballero, who was the modern Robin Hood of the border in the former tale, returns for Friday and Saturday to the Oasis screen under the title "Cisco Kid," and according to reports, Baxter again has scored a decided hit. Edmund Lowe, remembered as the swaggering romantic army sergeant, is again the "Kid's" enemy and the two take up their activities where they left off in "In Old Arizona." The lines that fall to these two excellent actors are loaded with meaning and enriched by the contrasting dialects of the soft-tongued Mexican bandit and the dapper sergeant from New York.

Mr. Baxter, as "the Cisco Kid," to whom "danger makes the wine taste sweeter," is followed throughout by two faithful bandits, while Mr. Lowe, as Sergeant Mickey Dunn directs his two buddies from a near by fort.

Conchita Montenegro plays an artistic bit as a cafe dancer, her tongue rippling into Spanish at the least provocation. Nora Lane fits gracefully into the part of a young widow and is helped in her screen work by two charming children.

The scenic beauty of southern Arizona forms the setting for the picture, which was filmed entirely out-of-doors.
