An Editor's Fable.

Country editors have problems of their own and their own fine devices for solving them. One is indicated by the following fable which is going the rounds of the rural press in the South just at present:

"Once upon a time a nice nurse sent his kid to borrow the neighbor's paper and the kid upset a hive of bees and soon was covered with stings. His father ran to help him and caught his chin on a clothes line and strained his back. Fall came and a $25 watch. The clothes pole fell over the car and smashed the windshield, and mother, wishing to see what occasioned all the excitement, upset a five gallon churn of cream into a basket of kittens crowling all of them. The electric lathron burned through the ironing board, setting fire to the house, and firemen broke all the windows and hopped a hole in the roof. The baby ate a jar of pickles and got cholera — and the doctor's bill was $15. The daughter ran away with the hired man during the excitement, the dog bit a neighbor's kid, and the calves ate the tails off of four night-shirts on the clothes line."

"Moral—Subscribe to your home paper. Don't borrow it!"

Liquor Control in Canada.

Wamic—To the Editor of The Journal—Here are a few facts regarding liquor "control" in Canada that voters should consider, taken from official sources:

"In Canada, drunkenness among women has increased 53 per cent.—Montreal Star.

"If all the drunks were arrested there would be no room for them in the jails."—Police Commissioner Burton of Manitoba.

"Convictions of drunken drivers increased 1200 per cent. from 1921 to 1929."—Official government bulletin of Canada.

"Bootlegging increased 11 per cent. in the first year of government control, and arrests for drunkenness increased 125 per cent. in the first eight months of government control."—Saskatchewan liquor board.

Massachusetts some time ago repealed the constitutional law on manufacture and transportation of liquor in the state. Six months later, according to Mrs. Henry Peabody, the wet mayor of Boston was compelled for his personal safety to secure a license to carry a loaded revolver in defense against the forces he had helped to let loose. A year later, December 4, 1931, after increasing tragedies on the highway through drunken driving, the Boston Post declares that Massachusetts has now passed the most drastic law that he state ever passed—far stronger than the 18th amendment or the Volstead act. According to the Post the week previous to this act saw 23 murdered through drunken driving, of whom four were children.—(See the May, 1932, "Prohibition Defender.") D. M. Standcliff.

WITH FARMERS AROUND THE STATE

LA GRANDE—Cherry fertilizer tests have been applied for the third year on the T. C. Hefty orchard at Cove, reports H. G. Avery, county agent. Results so far have been a 5 to 25 per cent increase in yields where complete fertilizers were applied and considerably increased over crop growth where nitrate only was used. Similar tests are being conducted by county agents in five other orchard districts of the state. The fruit is weighed in each case and the growth of trees measured.
