ble areas and they serve as national insurance," he explained. "Reclamation is a good anchor to the windward. While other areas may be distressed by drouth and others made wastelands by floods, these sections where the water supply is controlled are assured of reasonable prosperity."

Nature's Vagaries Eliminated.

"It is in these areas where water is available on good land where you will find the most striking advances, the most intelligent people, the best schools, and the best general setup. It is true, that while the sections might vary in prosperity with the market, they do not vary in the capacity to produce a good living and the necessities for the residents."

"The reason for the stability is because the people are not subject to the vagaries of nature—they have a controlled water supply. And when they find the front lines they are assured of production as anything can be."

"In total these areas are small, but they are exceedingly valuable." "Good crops and stable conditions were encountered by Dr. Wilbur in his tour, accompanied by Mrs. Wilbur, through New York, the middle west, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon. He found no indication of an impending national calamity, no lack of food or shelter or necessities, nor evidence of any coming. Rains have been helpful, and if it were not for the general price conditions, they would be prosperous."

Low Market Main Trouble.

"The reason for their difficulties is largely a question of marketing, and marketing now is dependent on the world situation."

"Also while there is a good deal of talk and discussion, there is a great respect in general for what President Hoover has done and his capacity to move the country along out of the doldrums into normal conditions. I found no substantial evidence of a desire to shift captains. "In general the people realize that we have had stormy weather—that the stormy conditions have been world-wide—and that we are coming out of it with no substantial damage."

"The building up of new demands has created a new basis for supplying them in which America is competing with the world, Dr. Wilbur said."

IN OREGON HOMES

CORVALLIS—An eight-page leaflet giving directions and time tables for home canning has just been released from the home economics division of the college extension service. It contains detailed instructions for canning various vegetables meats (including poultry and fish) and fruits, together with explicit time tables for use with the pressure cooker and hot water bath. This leaflet is a reprint of a portion of Ext. Bul. 450, "Home Food Preservation," soon to be issued. The leaflet may be obtained upon request from any county extension office or by writing Claribel Nye, state leader of home economics extension, Corvallis.

CORVALLIS—The annual summer tour of the Western Oregon Nut Growers' association has just been announced for August 31 and September 1 by C. E. Schuster, secretary of the association and nut specialist at the experimental station. Some new territory never before reached on these tours will be visited this year, he says. Details will be announced later.

CORVALLIS—Eleven servings of canned vegetables, seven servings of canned fruit, and two servings of canned meat per person each week are provided in the "1932 Canning and Storage Budget for Western Oregon Farm Families" recommended by the home economics division of the state extension service, Corvallis. This leaflet suggests the number of containers of various products which these farm-home canners should fill in order to reduce cash expenditures for food during a non-growing season of 40 weeks as well as other similar information. It may be obtained by writing the home economics extension service, Corvallis.

EUGENE—"Making improvements in my home was very interesting, not only for myself but for my husband," is the comment of one Lane county homemaker who has been studying kitchen improvement under the direction of Gertrude Skow, home demonstration agent. "The 31 women enrolled in the project report a total of 174 changes in their kitchens, and indicate that helpful ideas obtained at the meetings were passed on to 73 other homemakers."

A TEAM OF FAVORITES, Sally Eilers and James Dunn, who are again co-starred in the Fox Production, "Dance Team."

Showing at the Oasis Theatre Friday & Saturday.

WITH FARMERS AROUND THE STATE

EUGENE—The Lane County Agricultural council which represents organized farming here definitely accepted the request of the county court and Red Cross to assist in the local relief garden and food preservation plan. A comprehensive program has been worked out which brings into close cooperation the extension service forces, the county court, Red Cross and other agencies to effect the preservation of sufficient food to maintain at least the minimum standard during the six months non-producing period.

SHERIDAN—Farmers of this region have expanded the area under irrigation this year. W. H. Brandt has established some six acres of irrigation on a new farm he has just purchased. He will get the water by gravity from the Old Mill ditch. D. F. Daniels has added four acres to the land he irrigates from this same source. S. T. White, county agent, assisted in establishing these systems. PENDLETON—A movement to establish actual pasture grass demonstration plantings in dairy regions of this county has grown out of recent meetings held by County Agent W. A. Holt and Roger W. Morse, extension dairyman. Plantings of sweet clover, ladino clover, meadow fescue and orchard grass are planned. One planting of sudan grass has already been arranged. Importance of pastures in lower production costs was emphasized by the dairyman. MARSHFIELD—Ground shell to be used as agricultural lime is now available at the dock here at $5 per ton, which is well under the price of ground limestone shipped in. Local men interested in agricultural development assisted by County Agent George H. Jenkins have carried this project through from a mere idea to a successful cooperative industry in which sea shells are dredged from the bay, ground and sold direct to farmers.
