Another Kindness.

Again an act of kindness has resulted in a lawsuit and false accusations.

More than four weeks ago the owner of a Chevrolet truck, J. D. Hutchinson, requested his driver, Don Rothen, to stop and pick up a man, woman, and girl, who were hitch-hiking along the highway just out of Pendleton.

The same man again requested his driver to stop this side of Echo and pick up another man and woman who looked weary.

Just out of Hermiston the same truck swerved to the left to avoid hitting a Dodge coupe coming onto the highway from a side road, and hit a telephone pole.

Three weeks later papers were served on the owner of the truck, the driver, the parties in the Dodge coupe, and the City of Hermiston claiming that the accident was due to carelessness.

A kind act and an unfortunate accident resulted in involving four persons and an incorporated city in a $20,000 lawsuit.

We are not predicting the outcome of the trial which will probably be held some time this fall, but the same tactics should be used in fighting the complaints as have been used by the plaintiff.

An Appeal.

A second son has been born to Colonel and Mrs. Chas. A. Lindbergh just five months after their first born was kidnapped and slain.

Undue publicity is undoubtedly one of the reasons for the kidnapping of the first son.

The flying eagle and his wife have always abhorred publicity and have thought only of the advancement of aviation in their many daring flights.

The new little eagle in the Lindbergh home will do all he can to help Colonel Lindbergh and Anne forget the tragedy of five months ago when the first little eagle was kidnapped and slain but that tragedy will even hover there.

The world offers them congratulations and will do its best to heed their appeal.

Will Rogers Says—

At the time the National Editorial Association met in California last week, Will Rogers, in his syndicated article to the dailies of the country said:

"We have a great bunch prowling around out here. It's the National Editorial Association, composed of editors in smaller towns and weekly publications. They are just eating their way around the country, having a good time, and getting a lot of pleasure out of it, and giving everyone that meets 'em a close-up of just about as representative a gang of Americans as would be possible to band together—intelligent, well-read and no national advertising controls their pages.

"In line with the action of melon growers, the Yamhill county peach growers are arranging an organization to market their product, largely in Portland and vicinity.

The federal bureau of public roads and the Oregon state-highway commission are acting immediately on projects in Lane county for which funds were recently allotted.

Resolutions favoring a reduction of motor vehicle license fees and asking an adjustment of gasoline prices to farmers have been adopted by the Pomona grange of Douglas county.

Grain harvest in Jackson county shows yields considerably above normal, according to County Agent Fowler. The maximum yield so far reported was 89 bushels of wheat per acre.

The usual ten-minute ferry trip across Coos bay took more than an hour one morning last week when the boat became lost in a fog and recovered its bearing nearly a mile off the course.

R. E. Bryant beat the auto license law with pure horsepower at The Dalles recently. Having no plates, Bryant hitched a team to his car and brought his produce to The Dalles under horsepower.

By a vote of 163 to 77, voters of Redmond have voted to add $5000 to the school budget for next year to provide transportation for students of the union high school who live more than four miles from school.

Plans are under way to establish a ferry at The Dalles by growers on the north side of the river. It will be conducted on a private basis and will transport only members of the organization and their produce.

While driving near Enterprise to her home near the rocky point, the car Mrs. Wayne Wade was driving struck a sheep, causing the car to swerve and turn over three times. Mrs. Wade was painfully injured.

From Cove comes a story of a feline family that enjoys snakes for its meals. An alley cat was seen taking a garter snake to its kittens, the group feasting upon the reptile until it had entirely disappeared.

Preliminary estimates on the fruit tonnage for the coming season have been made by the Rogue River Valley Traffic Association. The estimates range from 2800 to 3300 carloads of pears available for shipment.

Efforts of a group of California Filipinos to secure a lease on a restaurant at Medford and thereby obtain a foothold in the Rogue River valley has been blocked by the refusal of the property owner to make a lease.

R. A. Campbell, a Lin county farmer, has introduced a new vegetable to the Albany market. It is known as the Italian squash, which is grown extensively near San Diego, Cal. It is small in size and is cooked the same as potatoes or apples.

A hay fire, supposed to have been started by a carelessly dropped cigarette stub, resulted in the loss of about 20 tons of oat and vetch hay on the R. L. Walker ranch, about six miles east of Sheridan in the Bellevue neighborhood.

Completion of the forest road between Oakridge and McKenzie Bridge is planned this summer by the Cascade forest supervisor. The road will open up a new country in the high Cascades to hunters, fishermen and campers.

FOOD GUIDE LISTS MINIMUM AMOUNTS

A chart to guide county relief workers in making out a weekly market order which will provide a dependent family with an adequate diet at a minimum cost was issued today by Claribel Nye, chairman of the state food committee of the governor's relief council. Copies have been placed in the hands of those engaged in this work.

The guide was prepared by Mrs. Jessamine C. Williams, head of the foods and nutrition department of Oregon State College, and Dr. Jessie Brodie, physician of Portland, both members of the state food committee. In seven counties visited recently Miss Nye found only one where food needs were used as the basis for supplying dependent families.

"Depletion and low resistance to disease during these next months is inevitable," says Dr. Brodie. "If foods provided are inadequate in selection as well as insufficient in amount. It is important that limited money expenditures for food, provide as fully as possible the elements of an adequate diet."

"In making up this weekly marketing list, we have endeavored to list only the most inexpensive foods, points out Mrs. Williams. Quantities and varieties are considered the minimum to maintain health.

Food quantities needed in one week by various sized families are listed. For instance, for a family of five, including two adults, the weekly diet, if adequate, will include the following amounts of foods:

Milk — may be half fresh, half evaporated, not sweetened, 21 qts. Vegetables — tomatoes, 5 qt. or 5 No. 2 cans; leafy vegetables such as cabbage or greens, 5 lb; potatoes, 20 lb; other vegetables such as carrots and onions, 11 lb.

Bread, cereals and legumes — bread (part whole wheat) or flour, 14 lb; cereals such as oatmeal, wheat, rice, macaroni, 5 lb; flour (part whole wheat), 4 lb; dried beans and peas, 1 1/2 lb.

Sweets — sugar, 3 lb; sirup, 1 pt; Eggs — 1 dozen; Cheese or nuts — one half pound.

Lean meat or fish — not more than 6 lb; Beverages — coffee, 1/2 lb; tea, one eighth pound.

Coffee and tea have no food value, it is pointed out, but since many people are dependent upon them for satisfaction it may seem unwise to omit them.

Milk is a prime requisite, according to these nutritionists, who indicate that for each child up to 12 years of age at least seven pints, preferably seven quarts, of fresh milk should be provided each week.

CHURCH NOTES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Soul" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 14.

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "The ransom of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads; they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away" (Isa. 35:10).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul has infinite resources with which to bless mankind, and happiness would be more readily attained and would be more secure in our keeping, if sought in Soul. Higher enjoyments alone can satisfy the cravings of immortal man. We cannot circumscribe happiness within the limits of personal sense. The senses confer no real enjoyment." "Unselfish ambition, noble life-motives, and purity, — these constituents of thought, mingling, constitute individually and collectively true happiness, strength, and permanence" (pp.60 and 55).

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

E. James Cain, pastor Last Tuesday the Sunday school had a picnic on the Umatilla river. Everybody had a good time. Swimming and water polo were perhaps the most enjoyed sports. If you wish to study God's word, the Baptist Sunday School invites you to study with them every Sunday morning at ten o'clock.

Next Sunday morning your Baptist pastor will continue the series of sermons on "Pictures of Christ." The subject for the evening will be "Burying John D. Preeson Nose Down." The pastor will not attempt to give the world a solution for the "depression" concocted in his own brain. He is not so unintelligent as to deem his intelligence capable of devising such a solution. But he will try to show God's method as given in His Holy book.

The Miser and His Money

The Miser is no longer in vogue—even he has learned the lesson of the value of placing his savings in a safe place where it will draw compound interest.
