REGISTRATION FEE INSURES LEGIONNAIRES PRIVILEGES

Mail orders now are being accepted for combination tickets for the four feature events of the National American Legion Convention to be staged in Portland's huge Multnomah Civic Stadium, according to word received by H. G. McCullay, Commander of the local American Legion post, from the Portland Convention Commission headquarters.

The combination tickets are $2, and are good for reserved seats for the big parade Tuesday, September 13 and reserved sections for the 40 and 8 night parade Monday, September 12; the drum corps preliminaries all day Wednesday, September 14, and the drum corps finals that Wednesday night. Mail orders with remittances should be sent to Multnomah Civic Stadium, Portland.

Only 12,000 of the combination tickets good for all of the events will be sold, according to the announcement. Visitors to Portland during the convention week who wish to see these great spectacles in comfort at the stadium should obtain their tickets immediately.

The big parade will pass in review in the stadium; the 40 & 8 parade will form in the stadium, where special stunts also are planned, and the drum and bugle corps events will be held solely in the big amphitheater.

"WESTWARD HO!" PARADE BRINGS PIONEER REMINISCENCE

PENDLETON, Ore., Aug. 24.—(Special)—"Westward Ho!" This cry ran up and down the east bank of the lower Mississippi river early in the nineteenth century as wagon trains rolled slowly west into a land whose gold was reflected in the setting sun.

This trek of courageous pioneers to the West has an echo in "Westward Ho!", the parade which is one of the features of the Pendleton Round-Up, September 8, 9 and 10. In this spectacle of western history these passers in review cowboys, representing the wild, carefree life of the plains; the covered wagons, which carried their precious burden of women and children; outriders of the wagon trains on whose vigilance depended the life of every person in the little traveling community; Indians in bright war paint, whose forays dotted the western trails with graves, and stage coaches which later careened over these same highways carrying gold bullion and adventuresome travelers.

Westward Ho parade will be held Saturday, last day of the Round-Up, and as it swings east will present to view a cross section of life when the West was the Great Adventure.

Oddly enough this parade crosses the trail known as the Oregon Trail, traversed by the earliest pioneers who ventured into the Northwest. Some of the coaches appearing in the parade were in active service on the old trails as early as 1850. These are owned by the Round-Up association and preserved for their historical value.

The Round-Up this year has an added significance in the fact that representatives of the American Legion from all parts of the United States will stop off here for the western epic on their way to Portland for the national convention of the Legion, September 12-15.

Poultrymen Hold Big Convention At Corvallis

Determination to fight if necessary for continuation of poultry's share in agricultural research was repeatedly expressed by the Oregon Poultrymen's association at the 9th annual poultrymen's convention at Oregon State college. The program consisted mostly of hearing results of recent experimental work carried on for the industry since the last meeting two years ago.

Most former officers were reelected, Fred Cockell of Milwaukie remaining as president, J. R. Russell, Corvallis, as vice president, and Lloyd Lee of Salem as one of the directors. F. L. Knowlton of the experiment station staff succeeds H. E. Cosby, extension specialist, as secretary - treasurer, and G. M. Leslie, Tigard, is a new director. Close to 300 attended the meeting.

The associated voted to maintain a strong legislative committee to present the needs of the industry in maintaining experimental work, particularly with poultry diseases, saying this and related investigations are vital to the Oregon poultrymen.

A change in the present sheep-killing dog law was advocated which would include poultry under its benefits. Large losses are now sustained at times from stray dogs, it was said.

Losses from theft, on the other hand, have been reduced to a minimum by the working of the "gasoline cowboy" law and the new state police system. President Cockell reported. So much better has this situation become that the association voted to discontinue its affiliation with the private detective agency dealt with for several years. The old association "yellow tag plan" is being continued, however.

In a review of the present status of the industry in Oregon, H. E. Cosby declared that one of the most dangerous tendencies is that toward "chicks at chewing gum prices" where some hatcherymen are acceding to buyers demands for cheap chicks by lowering breeding standards. This, said Cosby, will ruin the industry if persisted in.

SCENE FOR NATIONAL LEGION CONVENTION LAID IN PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., August 22.—Portland, after a year of preparation is ready to be the scene of the 1932 National Convention of the American Legion in mid-September, according to Aaron M. Frank, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Legion Convention Commission. This largest convention ever entertained in the northwest will be attended by 75,000, according to indications from state Legion departments.

The official convention of the Legion and Auxiliary runs from September 12 through September 15. For earlier arrivals the "Rose City", beautifully decorated, will offer attractive entertainment features beginning September 9. From then on, free golf privileges will be accorded all who register. "American Legion Park, will provide free amusement, dances will be held each evening, and hospitality booths will help make arrangements for fishing and recreational trips.

Free sightseeing trips start Sunday morning, September 11, with a round trip leaving for Multnomah Falls and another for the Mount Hood Loop, both Sunday and Monday. Beginning Sunday and lasting through Wednesday, the famous Convention "Dugout" open house will serve free "feeds" of Oregon seafoods, cheese near beer and other products. Patriotic services will be held Sunday evening at the Municipal Auditorium and the Auxiliary will give a dinner to their national president, Louise W. Williams.

Business sessions of the Legion and Auxiliary will open Monday at the Auditorium and the Masonic Temple, omitting Tuesday (day of the "Big Parade") and continue September 14 and 15. Monday will feature the spectacular "Forty and Eight" night parade and the Military Ball and National Commander's Dinner.

The "Big Parade", on Tuesday, beginning at 11:00 A. M., will dominate the events of the 13th.

On September 14, the crack drum corps of the country will hold their colorful preliminary competitions during the day at the Multnomah stadium and the championship finals in the evening.
