OLD MAN PORTER SAYS

Note: In publishing these paragraphs we do not maintain that their contents are the policy of this paper but believe them sufficiently thought-provoking to attract the attention of some of our readers. They are written by C. D. Porter.

13—That in journeying from Life of sameness—which is ignorance—to a Conscious Life, in which resistance, playing the part of ignorance, must be overcome by work. Man is placed in the peculiar position of furnishing the Positive and Negative electric Impulses of his choice and with which he is in agreement, by providing the material things which the chemistry of his stomach and the chemistry of his civilization has tuned to his choice and with which he is in agreement.

14—That is the "near" future orderly thinking will be done only when the mind of the Thinker is thinking in terms of electric impulses. That is, the audible expression of thought has for its basis an Electric Impulse of Like meaning; that for this reason, the series of audible expression of thought to bring into being an idea, must agree with the Electric Impulses upon which it is founded.

15—That Like Electric Impulses have their origin in infinity, but Unlike Electric Impulses had their origin in events which causes the "lapsing of time."

16—That Man, for the reason he is a product growing out of the union of the Unlike Electric Impulses, is nothing more nor less than an event subject to the invariable Laws of Unlike Electric Impulses, and is incapable to modify them in any particular, therefore, the continuity and perpetuity of the Law is assured.

17—That man's thoughts and acts are but products brought into being by reason of the Law of Electric Impulses, and for this reason his thoughts and acts must conform to the Law.

18—That Creation is composed of "individual consciousnesses" which have been assembled by the Unlike Electric Impulses by reason of agreement in each individual case; that the purpose of Creation is to mass these individual cases of agreement so they will recognize that a Mass Consciousness must be paramount to the individual consciousness.

STANFIELD NEWS NOTES

Growers on Sauvie Island have proposed to the Astoria Chamber of Commerce to exchange peaches for salmon.

Two or more men robbed the Maupin postoffice of $75 in cash. The rear door of the postoffice was forced and money taken from the cash box.

Fire destroyed the barn and two silos on the farm of Frank Hines, near North Howell. About 1400 bushels of grain and farm machinery were lost.

The West Seio station of the Southern Pacific railroad was closed September 1st. C. W. Bragg has been agent at that place for more than 15 years.

Gordon Moe, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Moe of Eugene, was fatally injured when he was crushed between a motor truck and the woodshed at his home.

Agricultural leaders of Lane county have endorsed the campaign for a greater use of home products that is being conducted by Lane County Pomona grange.

The Hermiston Cooperative cannery has canned 35,000 quarts of vegetables, fruits and meats to date and expects to can over 50,000 before the season ends, in October.

The Seaside Chamber of Commerce will ask the state highway commission to make Seaside the base of operations for construction work on the west end of the Wolf Creek road.

Japanese who have leased 80 acres of land near Myrtle Creek, Douglas county, will stand on their legal rights and will farm the land despite objections of white residents.

Steps are being taken at Albany to restrict itinerant photographers by barring out those whose workmanship and materials are inferior. A city ordinance is being prepared.

The Clackamas county court has adopted the policy of requiring payment in labor for relief supplies. The delivery of supplies from house to house will be discontinued.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Inland Auto company building at Prineville recently. Loss was estimated between $12,000 and $15,000, with $5000 insurance.

The three-acre Eureka cornfield of Cris Naegli of Deer Island will average 20 to 25 tons of corn harvested for silage. The average height of the stalks ranges from 14 to 16 feet.

The Rockaway beaches experienced the greatest throng of the season over the Labor Day week end with an estimated 10,000 people on hand. Beaches to the south also reported large crowds.

Members of the Oregon Humane society have protested to Governor Meier against the advertised "bull fight," scheduled to be held nightly during the state fair, which opens in Salem late this month.

The price war in Salem between cleaning and pressing establishments, which has resulted in a price of 25 cents for pressing pants, has extended to Oregon City. Salem pressors say reduced rates will continue in effect until some agreement is reached with an Oregon City concern that is soliciting business in Salem.

Des Wright, packer of the forest services, reports four inches of snow on the Skyline trail. An early snow, he says, means a late fall. Another sign of a late fall is that deer and elk are still remaining in the high mountains.

The walnut growers of Yamhill county are erecting a big sign on the highway at Rex Hill calling attention of motorists to the importance of the vicinity as a walnut-growing center. The sign is to be 10 feet high by 24 feet long.

WESTERN CHICKS FEWER SAYS REPORT FROM O. S. C.

About three per cent more saleable chicks were hatched in the United States from January to July this year than last, according to reports received by the extension economist at Oregon State college. In the three Pacific coast states the season's output of chicks in commercial hatcheries was 15 per cent under last year, and in the mountain states 25 per cent less.

Western commercial egg producers have been especially hard hit by the low egg prices of the past two years, as transportation costs have remained relatively high which has given eastern and middle western producers more advantage than when egg prices were high.

Small shipments of turkeys from Argentina have been received on the east coast but are having little effect on the market, the report continues. The wholesale price of live turkeys in Buenos Aires late in July was around 6 to 7 cents a pound. Even at such low prices to producers in that country turkeys from there cannot compete after making allowance for dressing, transportation and tariff with turkeys produced in this country.
