HOW TO "KIPPER" SALMON

TOLD BY O. S. C. SPECIALIST

"Salmon - Kipped or Jerked" is the name of a service leaflet just released by economists of the home economics extension service, and one that is meeting with instant favor if the demand for it is any indication of its popularity, according to Charibel Nye, state leader of home economics extension.

The essential difference between kipped salmon and jerked, dried or ordinary smoked salmon, is the fact that kipped salmon is steamed before it is smoked. Because of this steaming it contains a large amount of water and is extremely perishable. Both kipped and jerked salmon are given a light cure and a short-time smoke. In addition, kipped salmon is dipped into a vegetable coloring bath to give it its characteristic red coating. This dip, however, according to the specialists, is for appearance only and is not a preservative. The most important point in preparing either kipped or jerked salmon is to cool the product thoroughly before wrapping it after removing it from the smokehouse.

Detailed directions for kipped salmon, also those for jerking salmon, may be found in the leaflet HE 416, which may be obtained from the home economics extension office, Corvallis.

Briefly, the method for kipping is as follows: Prepare the fish by cutting it into pieces about six inches long and three inches wide. Place pieces in a brine made by dissolving one pint of salt in six quarts of water. Let stand overnight. Remove from the brine and steam well for 20 to 25 minutes. Carefully remove from the steamer with a wide spatula or similar device to avoid breaking the fish. As it rests on the spatula immerse each piece of salmon in a vegetable coloring bath made by dissolving in five gallons of water from one to three table-spoonfuls of vegetable powder (obtained from local butcher or from butcher supply house for a few cents.) Place the salmon on a rack in the smokehouse and smoke for from 12 to 18 hours with a moderate smoke. Upon removing the fish from the smokehouse cool it quickly and thoroughly, then wrap each piece separately in paper. Keep in a cold place.

Is Prison Football Honest?
In the comedy-farce, "Hold 'Em Jail," at the Oasis theatre Sunday and Monday, Wheeler and Woolsey are funnier and more foolish than ever.

The plot is built around football and the story is of a couple of high-pressure salesmen, parading as "All Americans", who talk themselves into jail, turn the rules and regulations of prison discipline upside down and inside out. They get mixed up in a football game between two "big time" rival "pens". The funny situations during the game make it a line-up of laughs from beginning to end.

Other members of the cast who add to the fun are Roscoe Ates as the star quarter-back and signal caller, Edgar Kennedy and Edna May Oliver.

To complete this bill there is a two-reel comedy "Mickey's Sideline" and the Fox Movietone News.

GIRLS' LEAGUE WILL FINANCE FRAMING OF PICTURE.

(From "The Bulldog")

The Girls' League voted to pay for framing the picture, "Pioneers" by Robert W. Amick, which was purchased for the high school with part of the proceeds from the art exhibit held in the cottage, October 14-15.

This action was taken during a meeting held November 16. The money is to be raised by candy sales and a committee consisting of Julia Colpits, Barbara Reid, and Nila Tuttle has been appointed to complete plans.

Presidential Election Held.

(From "The Bulldog")

There was quite a hubbub around high school Tuesday, November 8, while the students went to the polls. Roosevelt was elected 76 to 42 to the office of president of the United States. Garner was put in as vice president. Three republicans were elected to one democrat for state offices. In the county, four democrats were elected to two republicans.

The bill moving the university, normal, and law schools was defeated by a great majority of about 101 to 6. The bill to repeal state prohibition law was defeated about two to one.

Peat Land Being Drained.

SILVERTON—Surveys have been made for laying out about 2000 feet of box drains on peat land on the Lee Dow place between here and Salem.

Dr. W. L. Powers, head of the soils department at Oregon State college, assisted in designing the system. Dr. Powers says there is considerable interest in drainage this fall as farmers realize the advantage of relieving the wet spots on their places by installing permanent drains. He advises laying out a complete system on paper and then installing it a little at a time if necessary as funds and time are available.

Thanksgiving Dinner.

The modern trend in the holiday dinner is somewhat different from that of other days. In place of the elaborate dinner requiring days of preparation, we now favor the simpler type requiring less in the way of preparation and less time after in recovering from its effects. This change is partly due to a better knowledge of food values and a greater appreciation of the relation of diet to health.

The traditional wild turkey dinner has become almost impossible to carry out and the domesticated one has taken its place. However, wild fowl such as pheasant, duck, or the wild goose will be the center of interest to many this year. A suggested menu is given for the Thanksgiving dinner and recipes will be sent on request to those of you who desire them.

- Tomato juice cocktail.
- Turkey - Stuffed and roasted.
- Glaze sweet potatoes
- Creamed onions
- Curled celery
- Cranberry sherbet
- Pear Salad with grated cheese
- Pumpkin Pie
- Milk for children - Coffee for adults
- Assorted nuts.

You will notice that rolls are omitted, according to the present fashion in dinners, but if your guests like them they should be served. Butter shaped in balls or rolls is an attractive addition to the table.

Pumpkin pie is substituted for the once favored plum pudding and mince pie. A favorite pumpkin pie recipe is given below:

Pumpkin Pie.

Beat two EGGS, add one cup of pumpkin put through a sieve, and one cup and one-half of light cream or undiluted evaporated milk. Add the following ingredients, which have been sifted together: One table spoonful of flour, three-fourths cup sugar, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-third teaspoonful ginger, one-fourth teaspoonful nutmeg, one-fourth teaspoonful cloves, one-half teaspoonful allspice, and one teaspoonful cinnamon. Stir this mixture and when the sugar is completely dissolved, pour into pastry-lined pie tins and bake six minutes at 500 deg. Fah.; then reduce heat to 300 deg. Fah. for thirty minutes. For those who want something different in the way of pies this lemon chiffon pie is sure to please.

Lemon Chiffon Pie.

Soften one teaspoonful of gelatine in one-fourth cup of cold milk; scald one cup of milk in a double boiler; beat three egg-yolks, gradually add two-thirds cup of sugar and one-half teaspoonful salt; add the egg-yolk mixture to the hot milk and continue stirring until the eggs are set. Remove from fire, add gelatine and stir until dissolved. Pour into a bowl and set in ice and water; when cool add one-half cup of lemon juice, mix thoroughly and fold in one cup of heavy cream, whipped. When the mixture will hold its shape, pour into a baked pastry shell. Set in refrigerator until ready to serve. Before serving spread whipped cream over the top of the pie and pipe whipped cream around the outer edge.

BURNHAM'S

OREGON INCOME NOW LARGE FROM VEGETABLES, FLOWERS.

A sharp upward trend in the production of vegetables for sale, and in medicinal, nursery, flower bulbs and seed, and florists crops in Oregon from 1919 to 1929 is shown by data just published by the college extension service.

The acreage of these crops is still relatively small, however, being less than 1 percent of the total acreage from which crops were harvested in 1929. Their importance is shown by data on receipts, which were reported at $5,361,300 not including pepper-mint oil and other medicinal crops. This is nearly 5 percent of the average total cash farm income of the state from 1926 to 1930.

The acreage of vegetables grown in the open increased from 6,171 in 1919 to 18,264 in 1929. The exact amount grown under glass and of vegetable seeds was not reported. Of the total receipts of $3,139,574 from vegetable crops, vegetables grown in the open brought $2,955,557 vegetables grown under glass $173,257 and vegetable seeds $10,760.

The acreage of medicinal crops, principally peppermint for oil, increased from 116 in 1919 to 2300 in 1929. No increase was indicated by the census in acreage of nursery crops, but receipts increased very substantially and amounted to $819,230 in 1929. Flower bulb and seed production made a very sharp gain. In 1929, 751 acres of bulbs were produced. Receipts were listed at $423,887 for bulbs and $36,937 for flower seed.

The area under glass, mostly used for florists' crops increased from 373 in 1919 to 458 in 1929. Receipts from flowers and flowering plants were $941,584 in 1929, according to the circular.

The report contains data showing the trend in the acreage of each kind of vegetable crop grown for sale and other details concerning this interesting and important group of horticultural products.
