Miss Marjorie Mullens entertained a group of the younger set at the home of her parents Tuesday evening. Bridge and games were the diversion of the evening. Invited guests included Miss Eva Bartsch, Miss Florence Woughter, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harger, W. E. Cochran, Clarence Henning, and Alfred Quiring.

Mrs. A. W. Christopherson and Mrs. W. L. Morgan were joint hostesses at a shower party honoring Mrs. D. M. Deeter Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Christopherson. Seven tables of bridge were in play during the afternoon with Mrs. C. C. Durley receiving the prize for high honors.

The young people of the Hermiston Union church Christian Endeavor society gave a banquet Tuesday night honoring the anniversary of Christian Endeavor week which closes Sunday, February 5, with special Sunday evening service. Following the banquet a short business session was held.

Mrs. Walter Pearson, and the Misses Catherine McBain, Magdolee Buck, and Eva Bartsch acted as joint hostesses at a bridge party last Friday evening in the Osborn apartment. High honors went to Mrs. B. Haneline, and consolation to Mesdames Leila Phelps, A. E. Bensele, B. Haneline, J. G. Pearson, Georgianna Henderson, and the Misses Marjorie, Margaret Elliott, Esther Silbert, Pauline Stoop and the hostesses.

One of the most outstanding social events of the season was held at the home of Mrs. Raymond Walker Wednesday with Mrs. Raymond Walker and Mrs. M. C. Barager acting as joint hostesses. The affair was a cannibal bridge-luncheon with the guests representing the cannibals who ate the "red headed" missionaries in the form of a cleverly arranged salad. Cannibals arrayed with deadly-looking weapons were arranged as centerpieces on each table.

After each rubber of bridge the player making high honors at each table was presented with a number of prizes at the close of the afternoon's play.

each guest holding a number was asked to appear before the hostess. After listening to a lecture on luck, prizes were presented to Mrs. Wm. Shaar, who held number 13, and to Mrs. Herbert Haneline, who held number 23.

TREE DESTRUCTION CONDEMNED BY COMMERCIAL CLUB.

part of the protection we grew for better days. They are gone, cut to the ground, and even now you may notice more wind on Main street and it will be years before these trees can be replaced and the town an enjoy that relief from desert winds.

"Instead of cutting down more trees, let's plant more trees. Let's start a campaign to plant many more trees, of all kinds. And, as a part of this year, let's plant a tree for every man, woman and child in these irrigated districts. Some of the hedges may be thinned. Some of the trees trimmed. Most of the old poplars could be removed. But whatever is done should be done with the thought to all values of trees.

"Trees are not just wood. They are not merely something growing from the prolific hand of nature. That is sagebrush. True, they absorb some of the strength of soil as they draw skyward from sunshine also. Suppose little grows beneath the spreading branches of the arid locust. Shall we grouchyly begrudge that marginal contribution of windbreaks, shade and beauty of landscape? I have sold land many years and I know that every tree on any of our ranches or about the homes has added much more value to that property as a whole than he land spaces the trees require.

"Everyone of us looks with pity on the livestock and scorns the owner who permits his calves, sheep, pigs, faithful cows and horses, and the feathered flocks to puff and pant and lol and swelter and sweat in broiling sun of mid summer or beneath straw sheds or thin board roofs. And some of you who allow such to happen to dumb animal life aunter into the soft cooling breezes invited to the shady spaces beneath the branches of the home trees or seek out the tree lined lanes.

"Wood we must have. Posts we must have. Windbreaks we must have. Comfort for man and beast we must have. Beauty we must have. The song of birds we must have. And if you please, the scent of the flowers, the sighing of branches, the flickering of moonlight shadows, and the appeal toward the heavenward, may be just as important as these things we "have." All are in the trees. When the coal bin is low, and the cold is ever, and the axe is sharp, and the rawn is strong, let thought and prill guide you as the chips may fall.

"I want to appeal to the Farm Bureau; to the Grange; to the Herd; to the City Councils of Hermiston, Stanfield, and Umatilla; to the public schools; to the power company and the telephone company; to all old timers and to all new people—in fact to all good citizens and to the best sort of citizenship, to join in a movement to preserve our trees and to plant more trees. And I want his commercial club to appoint a tree committee, and I want all other organizations to do likewise, to guard and protect these magnificent trees we have now, and to encourage and aid in the movement to plant more and still more trees."

FOREST DEATHS AND ACCIDENTS REPORTED.

Two deaths and 503 non-fatal accidents occurred in the work of the U. S. forest service in Oregon and Washington during the calendar year 1932, according to report just issued by the regional office at Portland, Oregon.

Douglas Beeraft, laborer, was struck by a falling tree while sleeping in a tent on the Mount Baker national forest last fall, and killed instantly. James Dumont, who sustained back injuries in a fall while working as a laborer on the Umpqua national forest September 22, 1929 died July 18, 1932.

Most of the injuries were incurred while fighting fire and were caused by falling, slipping, use of tools, falling of trees and other objects, and lifting or pulling.

Largely because of the more favorable fire season, 1932 showed an improvement over 1931, which had 8 deaths and 575 non-fatal accidents, according to the report for the North Pacific forest region.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Love" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 29.
The Golden Text was, "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God" (1 John 4:7).
Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Recompense to no man evil for evil... Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink" (Rom. 12:17, 20).
The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy: "At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good. Know thyself, and God will supply the wisdom and the occasion for a victory over evil. Clad in the panoply of Love, human hatred cannot reach you" (p.571).

SAMBO SAYS—

TECNOCRACY is the Latin word for the mess we are in. Is the depression over? Are our county taxes half paid? Our best way out is through economy. Light overhead for everybody. Pay as you go. Keep out of debt. Don't bond, don't mortgage.

Compare our prices. The size of the can, the size of the package. Don't drive miles and pay more at a bargain counter than our every day prices. The same is often done. Our membership in two of the biggest and best buying organizations puts us in a position to meet if not beat all buying competition. Our overhead is very light. We have cut every place possible but one, without injury. Namely: We believe one delivery a day should and will take care of everyone, and be a great saving, making possible lower prices.

O. S. C. Rooks Undefeated
Oregon State College, Corvallis, Feb. 11.—Undefeated so far this season, Oregon State's rook basketball team will open its annual competition with the Oregon frosh this week end. The rooks play the frosh here Friday night at 7:30 o'clock, and the following night journey to Eugene for a return game.

Although the Orangemen split the first two games with Washington here last week, they must take both contests in Seattle to remain as serious contenders for the conference title. The Huskies are leading the race with five wins and one loss, while the Beavers are within striking distance of first place with five victories and three defeats.

Slats Gill, Orange hoop mentor, probably will take ten men on the trip with him. They are Everett Davis, St. Paul, Nebr.; George Hubbard, Molalla; Fred Hill, Pendleton; Jiggs James, Tillamook; Carl Lenchitsky, Scranton, Pa.; Captain Ed Lewis, Skeet O'Connell and Bob Lucas, Portland; Red MacDonald, Medford, and Merle Taylor, Corvallis.

Orangemen Contenders for Title.
Oregon State College, Corvallis, Jan. 11.—Oregon State basketball squad again will go on the road this week for a two game series with the Washington Huskies in Seattle Friday and Saturday nights (February 3, 4).
