

FARM CO-OPERATIVE DIVISION

A MESSAGE TO EVERY MEMBER.

Assumes Management.

An agreeable and desirable arrangement has been worked out by the board of directors and Henry M. Sommerer, whereby Sidney H. Barnard, former manager of the Farm Bureau Co-operative, will again take charge for an indefinite length of time. Mr. Sommerer will again act in the capacity of assistant manager.

During Mr. Sommerer's management the Farm Bureau Co-operative has passed through a business crisis the like of which few members have experienced in the past. The Co-operative is in good financial condition today, a credit to good and faithful management.

FARM ACT MAY STIMULATE DEMAND FOR OREGON SEEDS.

As the acreage control features of the new farm act go into effect, demand for Oregon's seed crops is likely to increase, believes G. R. Hyslop, head of plant industries at Oregon State college. Professor Hyslop discussed this and related subjects at the annual meeting of the Oregon Seed Dealers association recently.

Acreage taken out of production of surplus crops will mostly not be allowed to lie idle, Hyslop believes, but will be put into pasture or legume soil building crops, seed for which is produced here in Oregon.

The feed dealers association passed a resolution urging the continuance of federal appropriations for agricultural research at Oregon State college.

Stanfield Grange News.

The grange met in regular session Saturday night, May 20th. Much discussion was had concerning state grange, and from reports a good time is coming up on that date. Plan to come and take the sixth degree.

The grange dance will be held Friday night. The Home Economics club will serve the refreshments and the proceeds will be used to help send 4-H club delegates to summer school at Corvallis.

Grange News.

Greenfield Grange met Saturday evening, May 20, with a large crowd in attendance. The Irrigon grange gave the program for the lecture hour and it was thoroughly enjoyed.

Marvin Ransier was given the third and fourth degrees and three new applications were received. Mrs. Brice Dillabaugh was elected alternate for state grange at Pendleton. Following refreshments dancing was enjoyed.

The grange lecturer, Mrs. Howard Channing, resigned Saturday evening, and Mrs. L. Morgan was elected to take her place. Mrs. Channing and children expect to leave soon to join Mr. Channing in Washington where they will make their future home.

THINKING INDIVIDUALLY, ACTING COLLECTIVELY.

No one is concerned with the opinions of unorganized individuals, but individuals must express their economic interest through their own organized groups. They must give up some individual freedom in order to obtain the larger benefits of group action. Collective bargaining is the order of the day. Man is naturally an individualist. The history of the race shows that he makes common cause with others only when his individual safety or other major interests are at stake. Mr. Coolidge once said, "The power of co-operation was first learned when it was found that two men could roll a larger stone than one. And that the measure of a people's civilization was their ability to work together."

The pioneers on their western journey across the plains and desert found it necessary to go in groups in order to protect themselves from the Indians, the danger of famine, and conquer other hazards. Likewise, every worthwhile enterprise in our social, political, religious and economic lives has been brought about through working together.

Our system of government, schools, roads and community life would have been impossible except through collective effort. I like the slogan: "The value of man to an organization or to a community is dependent upon his ability to think individually but to act collectively." And so it is the problem of the farmer in his relation to other groups to work with his neighbor, as his neighbor is in the same business whether in the same community, state or other section of the country.

C. O. MOSER, Vice President, American Cotton Cooperative Assn.

CLOSED MEMORIAL DAY.

The Farm Bureau Co-operative of Hermiston and the Grange Co-operative of Stanfield will be closed all day Memorial day in observance of the sacred memories of that day. A special program will be sponsored by local organizations, which appears elsewhere in this issue.

Co-operation.

Co-operation—Means all the bees in the hive interested first in the honey.

Co-operation—Means all the workers in the plant laboring for common prosperity.

Co-operation—Means all the members of the church working for results, not recognition.

Co-operation—Means all the players on the team playing for victory, not press notes.

Co-operation—Means all the members of a home working for the home, not their rights.

Co-operation—Means a surrender of personal liberties for the sake of gaining larger group liberties. —Washcoegg.

strawberries can be expected from application of 100 pounds of hydrated lime per acre to the infested plants, according to O. T. McWhorter, extension horticulturist, who says the bugs are out and the time to combat them is at hand. It is necessary to apply the lime with a dusting machine that will force the dust through the plants and back from beneath. Nicotine dust is more effective than the lime, he says, but may cost as much as $6 per acre, while the hydrated lime costs $1.50 or less.

Ladak Alfalfa Survives Test.

BEND—Ladak alfalfa in Deschutes county during the past winter proved its claims to winter hardiness, and thus still further increased its popularity in this section, according to Gus Haglund, county agent. He cites an instance of one farm where common and ladak alfalfa were planted in adjoining fields last summer. The common variety this spring was practically a total loss, while close examination failed to show even one winter killed plant in the ladak field.
