FIRST PENDLETON PUBLIC MEETING TO CONSIDER ACT

(Continued from Page One) College, is calling the meetings at Pendleton and Weston. The discussions relating to the program will be handled by George R. Hyslop, head of the Plant Industries Division of the State Agricultural College, and Paul V. Maris, Director of the Agricultural Extension Service at that institution.

In view of the large amount of detail involved in a presentation of the adjustment program as it applies to wheat, the meetings will probably continue well into the afternoon, arrangements being made for adjustment during the noon hour.

Harvest Wage Scale.

While the farmers are gathered together at these meetings, time will be taken for them to discuss a harvest wage scale.

OPENING DATES FOR HIGHER EDUCATION SCHOOLS SET.

EUGENE, ORE.—The University of Oregon, Oregon State College and state normal schools at Ashland, Monmouth and LaGrande, will open for the coming school year on September 18, according to a bulletin on entrance information just issued by the Division of Information of the State System of Higher Education here. All freshmen will report to the university and the state college for "freshmen week" at this time. Old students will register at the university on September 20 and at the college on September 23.

All normal school students will report on September 18, with the first two days given over to placement tests and registration. The Medical School in Portland will open September 30.

The bulletin, which may be obtained from the registrars of any of the institutions, contains full information on freshman week, placement and other examinations, admission requirements, fees and deposits, board and room, housing regulations, student costs, prospects for self-support and student loan funds.

NORMAL SCHOOL TO HAVE ARTISTIC AQUATIC GARDEN.

Ashland, Ore.—An aquatic garden 70 by 90 feet has been constructed on the campus of the Southern Oregon Normal school, and within two years is expected to contain hundreds of native and imported plants. It was constructed entirely by students, who did most of the work during a "campus day". Flowers and plants have been donated, and the garden is soon expected to be one of the show places of Southern Oregon.

STATE EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION MEET, JULY 13-14-15.

EUGENE, Oregon, July 11—Problems of today which not only affect their own industry but every other important industry in Oregon will headline the discussion by members of the Oregon press during the 46th annual conference of the Oregon State Editorial Association in Corvallis, July 13, 14 and 15.

S. R. Winch, business manager of the Oregon Journal, Portland, and director of the American Newspaper Publishers association, will speak before the conference on "The National Industrial Recovery Act". Mr. Winch attended a meeting of the A.N.P.A. in New York, June 9, which was called to consider the relation of the newspaper to this act.

Walter W. R. May, newly appointed manager of the Portland Chamber of Commerce and recently elected president of the Pacific Advertising Clubs association, will address the group on "How Organized Advertising Views the Problems of Today." This, in view of the recent developments, is not only important to those actively participating in the advertising business, but to every person connected with any phase of retail or wholesale business.

Well informed on the questions facing printers, M. J. Sweeney, of Sweeney, Straub and Dimm, Portland commercial printers, has consented to attend the Corvallis meeting and discuss the code for this industry which has been proposed by the United Typothetae of America. Mr. Sweeney attended conferences in Portland and San Francisco last week held to consider this code.

"The Oregon Sales Tax and Its Application to Newspaper Publishing" will be discussed by Charles V. Galloway, chairman of the Oregon State Tax Commission.

Major General U. G. McAlexander, Oregon's famed "Rock of the Marne", who returned to Oregon last week after three years in Europe, will be the luncheon speaker Friday noon, when the editors and publishers and their families are guests of the Corvallis Chamber of Commerce. He will speak regarding his "observations of the political and economic conditions in Europe."

After the business sessions of the convention have been completed the members of the Oregon press will participate in golf and dancing. They will make a motor trip to
