Radio Programs KOAC.

An announcement has been received from the General Extension Division of the Oregon State System of Higher Education, that daily radio programs will be on the air over KOAC, located at Corvallis, from 9 t. m. to 9 p. m., daily except Sunday, during January, February and March, 1934. These programs come over the state-owned station and are arranged by the General Extension Division of the State System. Program talent is drawn chiefly from Oregon State college, University of Oregon, and the Oregon normal schools, although other public agencies in the state frequently contribute to the programs.

Fifty dollar fines and 30-day jail sentences were given Malcolm Wright and James Edwards of Leveand on conviction of operating a confidence game—on a man named John Swindler.

DOUBLE FEATURE AT OASIS FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

A mystery feature and a thrilling western form the program showing this Friday and Saturday. "Broadway to Cheyenne", starring Rex Bell is the exciting western which tells of cowboys chasing racketeers out of the range country they attempt to invade.

"Strange Adventure", the mystery picture presents Regis Toomey in a thrilling role. He solves the problems offered in this tabloid synopsis.

Stabbed to death by an unseen person in the presence of a dozen relatives and two policemen, the life of Silas Wayne, millionaire miser, is ended as he is about to read a strange will cutting off the bulk of his relatives without a cent. His family physician, Dr. Bailey, is the first to reach his side, followed by Mrs. Sheen, housekeeper. Followed closely by Toodle, pretty blonde girl reporter, Detective Lieutenant Mitchell, young investigator, is called, and questions the assembled relatives. He discovers a half-dozen motives for the crime, but is unable to find the criminal. Then another of the relatives is stabbed to death, and a mysterious hooded figure attacks Gloria, beautiful ward of the old man. The climax comes in a thrilling twist terminated in a romantic scene between Toodles and Mitchell who share equally in the solution of the sinister crimes.

A. P. EDITORS SELECT TEN BEST NEWS STORIES FOR 1933.

The greatest and most sustained news interest of the year has been centered on the Roosevelt administration, according to J. M. Kenrick, executive news editor of the Associated Press. There is every indication the same will hold true in 1934.

Under this heading should be included Franklin D. Roosevelt's inaugural address at the height of the critical banking situation; the bank holiday, the national recovery act, the agricultural adjustment act, the civil and public works programs, development of Muscle Shoals, Civilian Conservation Corps and other recovery measures; the legalization of beer, repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, the monetary program, recognition of Russia and the senate investigation of banking and securities houses.

The public's interest in economic and government is at its highest peak since the World war. The monetary policy and other recovery measures and the approaching session of congress, where the debate will continue over these and other steps, are the main reasons why this observer believes the main news interest will again center on Washington next year.

The second best news story of 1933 was the unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Roosevelt and the fatal wounding of Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago by Giuseppe Zangara at Miami, Fla., in February, followed by Zangara's execution March 20.

A strong emotional reaction swept the country and the attempt undoubtedly was a factor along with the seriousness of the financial situation, in solidifying support of Roosevelt when he took office and began his battle with the depression.

The crash of the dirigible Akron in the Atlantic ocean off the coast of New Jersey, April 4, is listed as the third outstanding story. Seventy-four persons, including Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics; commander Frank G. McCord, in charge of the ship, and Commander Frederick T. Berry of the Lakehurst naval air station were lost. The three survivors included Lieut. Commander H. V. Wiley, second in command of the Akron.

The thrilling solo flight around the world by Wiley Post in 7 days, 18 hours and 49 1/2 minutes, a record which surpassed the previous mark of 8 days 15 hours and 51 minutes set by Post and Harold Gatty in the same plane in 1931.

The California earthquake in March, killing approximately 116 persons, most of whom were residents of Long Beach, and causing property damage running into the millions largely at Long Beach and Los Angeles.

The lynching of John M. Holmes and Thomas A. Thurmond, charged with kidnaping and murdering Brooke Hart, at San Jose, November 26, followed by a nation-wide controversy caused by Gov. Rolph's statement approving the action and saying he would pardon anyone convicted of the crime. The lynchings in Maryland, Missouri and Tennessee may be listed with this story.

The Urchel, McMath, McElroy, O'Connell, Hamm and Factor kidnapings with the conviction and heavy sentences meted to the criminals in the first three cases as a result of a strong drive against kidnaping by the federal and state governments.

The sudden death of former President Calvin Coolidge at Northampton, Mass., January 5.

Hitler's rise to power in Germany and the world-wide controversy over his treatment of Jews, his withdrawal from the League of Nations and other policies.

Huey Long's pugilistic experience at Sands Point, Long Island, N. Y., because it was one of the funniest stories of the year, keeping the country chuckling for days, and even now figures in the political battle the senator is fighting in his home state, Louisiana.—The Publisher's Auxiliary.

COUNCIL WOULD ELIMINATE MONOPOLISTIC CONTROL ROADS

A. R. Roberts, a member of the state council of independent truck owners, received a bulletin from headquarters this week that urges him to continue to secure signers to the petition which will again refer the truck and bus bill to the people in the May election.

The bulletin, in part, says: "It was necessary, in order to place this on the May ballot, to pass a bill through the legislature, and it was our Senate Bill No. 111 that brought about this condition. You may have some understanding as to what this situation was when I state that every effort on the part of the council was put forth to secure the passage of this bill, and it was not until five minutes of midnight on Saturday, when the gavel dropped in the house creating this as a law, which makes it possible to have it placed before the people on the ballot in the primary election in May.

It is not our desire to repeal this law, leaving the state without adequate finances, nor is it our desire to create a law that would bring about injury to anyone, but it is our desire to eliminate the monopolistic control of the highways, and supply the state with the necessary funds. It will be the duty of this council to draft a bill covering this entire situation in order that it may be offered to the people in May.

This shall be done in ample time in order that copies may be forwarded to you so that they may be discussed in detail in your community, and that you may return same with your suggestions and corrections, which will certainly place the matter in such form that a law may be created that will be acceptable to the many thousands of truck operators, rather than one that may be acceptable to just a few hundred."

THIRTY OREGON COUNTIES NOW HAVE COUNTY AGENTS.

More counties in Oregon than ever before will have the services of county agents this year, reports F. A. Ballard, county agent leader, following completion of county budgets throughout the state. Thirty of the 36 counties have definitely arranged or agents, with Columbia county still endeavoring to raise the necessary match money by private subscription. Gilliam and Sherman counties have added agents, while Jefferson has joined with Crook in engaging one.

Because of the vital connection between the extension agents and the work of the Agricultural Adjustment administration, one or two other counties are contemplating engaging agents, following decision of the AAA not to continue the practice of supplying emergency agents as was done during the wheat campaign.

Partly because of the responsibility placed on the agricultural staff of the Oregon State college in bringing to Oregon the benefits under the various federal efforts in behalf of agriculture, the complete staff of the extension service, experiment stations and instructional division is holding a state wide conference at Corvallis this week.

Fears that the program of the AAA would bring an "army of federal agents" to put the plans into effect and enforce their provisions have not been borne out, largely because the national administration turned to the existing forces connected with the land grant colleges to meet the emergency. As a result, O.S.C. officials point out, much time has been and will be spent with these emergency projects by Oregon forces. First was the work in connection with getting emergency crop loans last spring, followed by subsistence garden projects, and then the wheat allotment campaign. Now the corn-hog control campaign is on, which in turn is expected to be followed by the dairy adjustment program.

Meanwhile the college forces have been called upon to direct three projects under the CWA, one concerned with surveying rural home building conditions; one with a survey of delinquent tax and mortgage foreclosure conditions, and a third with the past experience with subsistence homesteads in this state.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX RETURNS FOR YEAR 1933 RELEASED.

The 1933 Federal income tax returns were mailed on January 2nd, and should reach taxpayers within the week. The requirements for filing individual returns are the same as for the year 1932: i.e., each single person with a net income of $1000.00 or over and each married person with a net income of $2500 or over, or each person with a gross income of $5,000 or over must file an income tax return.

If separate returns are filed by husband and wife, the exemption may be taken by either or divided between them. In addition to the personal exemption, a credit of $400 may be claimed for each person (other than husband or wife) under 18 years of age, or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective, who receives his or her chief support from the taxpayer during the taxable year.

Before preparing the return, the taxpayer should assemble carefully all information; he also should make a study of the instructions on the form. When the return has been completed, all working papers should be held by the taxpayer for future reference.

The oath will be administered without charge by the Collector, any deputy collector or Internal Revenue Agent.

Although taxpayers have until March 15, 1934, in which to file returns, Collector J. W. Maloney wishes to impress upon each one the desirability of compiling his information and filing his return at an earlier date in order to avoid last minute rush. This early filing will permit all taxpayers to receive the full, courteous assistance Collector Maloney desires rendered by his corps of deputies.

Corporations and partnerships are required to file Federal income tax returns, regardless of the amount of net income.

COMMERCIAL CANNERS TO ATTEND O. S. C. CLASSES

Men interested in commercial canning, whether beginners or old timers at the business, are being invited for in plans just announced for the thirteenth annual canners' school offered by the division of horticultural products at Oregon State college February 5 to 17. This short course is distinctively an Oregon institution, and draws students each year from other states and even foreign lands.

This year the training course in handling canning machines will be held each afternoon right through the entire course. Forenoon for the first week will be devoted to fundamental work especially for beginners or those engaged in community canning operations, though much of interest to professionals will be included. The forenoons of the second week will be devoted to more advanced work in canning, with opportunity provided for additional conferences with other members of the college staff on any related subjects.
