Black Widow Panic.

There is no need for anyone to don a suit of armor as protection against the "Black Widow" spider. The black spider has been in the sections reported for years, but has not been as numerous as this summer, by reason of the mild winter. This does not justify cause for panic, however.

Women shudder at the thought of the black spider, children are cautioned to stay away from buildings, housewives peer closely while plucking berries, and the man of the house steps lightly in the cellar for fear of disturbing the little black beast. Precaution is necessary and wise, but there is no cause for a panic. The spider and his home should be destroyed when discovered but it will not prey upon the human race; it limits its feeding ground to flies and insects.

The bite is poisonous and has proven fatal in some cases, but it is also true that the newspapers have attracted additional attention to these reports because they have the quality of unusual news.

Still—there is no need for a panic.

It is not probable that the engineers will construct the Bonneville dam as a monument to their profession, on shifting foundation, unless the obstacles found there can be overcome.

Wanted An Experienced Hand.

Our farmer friend came to town the other day and when we met him on the corner with our usual query of "Well, how are things down on the old homestead" he grabbed us by the lapels, marched us to a secluded spot and began a strange story.

"Say, you'd never know the place since Uncle Sam took an interest in us farmers. I've contracted the south 40 to the government and that field will lie idle this summer for the first time in ten years. I traded my threshing machine for an adding machine and am renting it out to the neighbors to figure up their acreage reductions. I had to borrow the baby's pink hair ribbon to tie on the tails of the pigs I'm going to sell to the government. The missus moved the cream separator into the back yard so we'd have room in the kitchen for a new shelf to hold those wheat allotment and corn-hog letters we've been getting. I put in nearly all of last week stepping off those two bottom fields to find out how many acres there were, so I could put it in writing—never had occasion to do that before in all my life. I let 'em put a seal on the corn crib door so I could get a loan on my corn—and say, every time my old bull spies that seal it makes him madder than a red shirt would. I got the plow shares sharpened the other day so as to be ready to plow under a couple more acres of wheat if they say so.

"Why, I even had to get myself one of those memo books like you city fellows keep, so I'd know when to go to these meetings we've been having. We butchered a hog last week and it took longer to figure out the processing tax than to cut up the whole hog. The well went bad the other day and when we pulled the pump we found the well wasn't dry at all—the trouble was somebody had hidden a bottle of home brew in the pipe. The missus had to warn the hens every day not to cackle so loud, for fear somebody will think they're over-producing. And to cap it all—our hired man who's been with us for 15 years up and quit this morning. He wants to get in this forestry work with the government so he can spend the summer in Minnesota. Now that reminds me what I came to town for. I want to run an ad in your paper for another hired hand."

"Oh, yes," we managed to chirp weakly, despite our amazement at this revelation of revolution down on the farm. "Probably you'd like to put in it 'Wanted: Farm hand experienced with horses, cattle, sheep and hogs and able to do general farm work."

"For Lord's sake, no!" shouted our farmer friend, with unusual vehemence for him. "Whatever would I want with a hand like that? Put it in—'Wanted: Man experienced with contracts, options, waivers and liens, and able to do all kinds of figuring, including long division.'—Ft. Collins Express-Courier.

"STATE FAIR" AT OASIS TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY.

"State Fair" boasts a cast including eight featured players—Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor, Norman Foster, Law Ayers, Louise Dresser, Frank Craven, Sally Eilers and Victor Jory. The story from a best-seller novel by Phil Strong, deals with an everyday American family and a romance that develops at a state fair to which the family brings a prize hog.

It has tender romances, youthful desires, mirth and excitement. State Fair is like life, it begins lustily and offers everything, and all too soon it's over.

Adults attending "State Fair" will receive a photograph of Janet Gaynor or Sally Eilers.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"God the Only Cause and Creator" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 10.

The Golden Text was, "Blessed be the Lord God, the God of Israel, who only doeth wondrous things" (Ps. 72:18).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Thy way, O God, is in the sanctuary: who is so great a God as our God?" (Ps. 77:13).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine Mind is the only cause or Principle of existence. Cause does not exist in matter, in mortal mind, or in physical forms. . . . Belief in a material basis, from which may be deduced all rationality, is slowly yielding to the idea of a metaphysical basis, looking away from matter to Mind as the cause of every effect" (pp. 262, 268).

Listen! Folks, the public is going to take no more interest in these organizations than we show ourselves. The summer is coming on, but that should not cool our interest, but rather "warm" us up to a greater zeal.

Some stay away because they have a farm and lots of stock; And therefore can not spare the time to mingle with God's flock. Some stay away because their power to domineer is lost; Some because they can not be a dictator or a boss.

Some stay away because their clothes are looking old and shabby; And some because their special type of piety is flabby.

Some stay away because their hat in the milliner's not finished; And some because their liking for the preacher has diminished.

Some stay at home to entertain, and some to get the dinner. Some because they're good enough, and some because they're sinners. Class yourself. Think it over, and be at church!
