A MESSAGE TO EVERY MEMBER.

FARM BUREAU EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS OUTLINED.

Dr. Theo. Beletski, chairman of a committee appointed recently by the Umatilla Project Farm Bureau, to promote educational programs within the organization, announces that the first of these programs has been outlined and appears below. The date will be announced next week.

The educational part of the program will be mostly on bacteria. Dr. A. W. Christopherson, city health officer, will talk on cause and effect of infantile paralysis; Dr. W. L. Morgan on bacteria of the mouth; Dr. W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, will discuss contagious abortion bacteria, its cause, effect and relation to Malta fever; William A. Sawyer, assistant county agent, has not announced his topic but will appear on the program; H. K. Dean, superintendent of the Umatilla Experiment Station, will discuss bacteria of the soil, particularly that of legumes; N. R. Mueller, will discuss vitamins.

Dr. Beletski will discuss venereal organisms and the etiology of an egg.

Other entertainment for the evening will be a pie judging contest with a prize of a house apron awarded the woman baking the best looking pie. The best looking old couple will also be awarded a prize. Musical numbers will also appear on the program with readings, Mr. Beletski announced.

GREAT DROUGHT AFFECTS AAA PROGRAM FOR 1935.

The great drought, which has reduced grain and hay crops to record low levels, has started a country-wide discussion of the agricultural adjustment program and affected materially the agricultural refinancing program of the government, according to information received by the Oregon Agricultural extension service.

In answer to those who feel that agricultural adjustments are no longer necessary, Secretary Wallace of the United States department of agriculture says that undoubtedly the drought will make it necessary to change many of the agricultural programs for 1935.

Regardless of what revisions may be made, however, Secretary Wallace says there will not be any abandonment of the principle of government assistance to farmers establishing the necessary balance between supply and demand and giving just compensations for their cooperation.

Already nearly 4 million checks, amounting to approximately 300 million dollars, have been issued as rental and benefit payments to farmers. Payments on the corn-hog contracts for 1934 production are just getting well started, while the wheat, cotton and tobacco contracts already in effect run through the year 1935.

Owing to depreciated security, the farm refinancing program of the Farm Credit Administration is being slowed up in the drought areas, both as to mortgage loans and production loans, says the college extension service, but drought-stricken farmers are receiving some aid through special emergency drought relief loans as well as from the crop adjustment benefit checks. The cattle purchase program is also affording relief from the distress caused by the drought and plans are being made to purchase sheep in the drought areas.

WORK STARTS ON GREAT WINDBREAK PROJECT.

Additional facts regarding the recent announcement by Secretary Wallace and Chief Forester F. A. Wilcox that work would start immediately in connection with the President's order allocating funds for a 1,000 mile windbreak in the prairie states have been received here today by Regional Forester C. J. Buck.

By direction of the President, Secretary Wallace has authorized the Forest Service to make expenditures for the present of only $10,000,000 of the total sum of $15,000,000 provided in the executive order. The ultimate cost of the project is estimated at $75,000,000, of which over 90 per cent will go to farmers largely for labor for plowing, fencing, planting and caring for trees. It is expected that 25 per cent of the total expenditures can be made in the next 12 to 18 months.

Beginning at the Canadian border, this protection forest belt will stretch down through the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and into the Panhandle of Texas.

WHEAT MEASURING ENDING; CORN-HOG SOLUTION PENDING.

Rapid progress in measuring and computing the acreage under the wheat adjustment contracts indicates that by the middle of August the work will be practically completed in Oregon with most of the compliance forms on their way to Washington, says N. C. Donaldson, state supervisor of the wheat control program stationed at Oregon State college.

By the end of the first week in August all counties had finished measuring except Umatilla and Wasco where they are using airplanes and doing most of two years work at once, and in Walla where the committee got a late start. Crews of official checkers have checked the work on the required number of farms in each county as the measuring and computation was completed.

Submission of the compliance forms to Washington will clear the way for the second installment payment on the 1933 adjustment. Word from Washington is that as each county's forms are received the batch will be given a number and that issuance of checks will follow the order in which the forms were received.

Payment of 9 cents per bushel on allotments, less the cost of local administration, remains to be made on the first year's benefit payment. Following this, some time this fall, will be the first payment on the 1934 adjustment. Three years are covered under the present contracts but only two years of acreage adjustment must be made, one of which is now past.

Though 24 of the 48 states had received some first payments on corn-hog contracts by August 1, Oregon is still among those where no funds have been received. Difficulty in reconciling the state quota assigned with contract and local disposal totals has caused the long delay.

The first assistant in the corn-hog section at Washington came to Oregon the first week in August with authority to settle the matter and it is hoped by those in charge that speedy and satisfactory solution of the difficulty with early completion of the contracts for payment will follow.

PARASITES INTRODUCED TO WAGE WAR ON APPLE WORMS.

Hurried to their destination by fast airplane express, 3000 insect parasites of the codling moth are now at work in Oregon, after being liberated by Oregon State college entomologists in the Willamette valley, Hood River and southern Oregon.

These parasites, known technically as Ascoaster carpocapsae, were reared in the government laboratories in New Jersey, having been collected in western Asia, the original home of the apple. They lay their eggs in the eggs of the codling moth and these stay with the apple worms until they enter the pupal stage, after which the parasite emerges instead of the moth.

The scientists are not certain as to how much aid these will be in the control of the most serious apple pest, but will watch carefully for the next few years to see the results of their introduction.

STATE FAIR VISITORS WILL SEE GROUNDS IMPROVEMENTS.

Salem, Oregon, August 8—One of the big features of the 73rd annual State Fair, starting Labor Day for six days, will be the poultry department. From a small department this important unit of the Fair has grown steadily under the direction of Edward Shearer of Estacada until this year it will occupy the largest building ever.

The old automobile pavilion has been converted into what is known as the Silver Palace Poultry Pavilion. A full acre of floor space has been utilized and nearly a mile of coops installed, all single deck, and all the same height on top. The inside of the pavilion glistens with many gallons of aluminum paint.

Other new features of this year's fair, housed in the poultry pavilion, will be the exhibits of the State Fish and Game Commission and United States Bureau of Fisheries. Twenty pens have been constructed to exhibit upland game. Various forms of fish life will be seen in sixteen specially-built aquariums of plate glass. Pens containing wild waterfowl will be housed in a new swimming pool, fifteen by fifty feet in size, in the pavilion.

The largest piece of new construction on the grounds is the concessions building, 370 feet in length, which forms an undercover walk from the stadium to the agricultural building. Another new structure is the two-story restaurant between the agricultural building and poultry pavilion. Meals will be served there on a roof garden.

Visitors on Labor day and other days of the fair will find nearly every building glistening with new paint. Forty-one buildings have received twelve and one-half tons of paint.

A federal exhibits building now occupies the narrow space between the 4-H club exhibits building and the agricultural building. There a number of government projects will be on display.

All in all, Mr. and Mrs. State Fair Visitor can now walk from the stadium building to the poultry pavilion under a protecting roof. One long promenade is afforded which completes the quadrangle of early-day fair planners.

Already everything glistens in readiness, with forty-one buildings having received twelve and one-half tons of paint.

KLAMATH FALLS—Some 25,000 turkeys ranging on the grasshopper infested areas of Klamath county are reported to be making remarkable growth, with very few losses, according to C. A. Henderson, county agent. In addition to the grasshopper diet, they are fed large quantities of grain, and on August 1 weighed from five to eight pounds each, depending upon date of hatch. Approximately 80 per cent of the hoppers were killed by poisoning, and the turkeys are expected to control the remaining 20 per cent. There is some talk of the various owners pooling their birds for marketing this fall, Mr. Henderson says.

The city of Freiburg, near the Black Forest, has at different times, belonged to Austria, France, Italy, Sweden and now Germany.

IRENE DUNNE AND RICHARD DIX PLAY LEADS AT OASIS.

"Stingaree," the RKO picture playing at the Oasis theatre Wednesday and Thursday, brings Richard Dix and Irene Dunne, the two stars of "Cimarron," together on the screen for the first time since their memorable success in that picture.

Dix plays the title role, that of a dashing Australian bandit, who oppresses the rich, helps the poor and spends his spare time composing music. The role gives Dix an opportunity to return to the adventurous roles he enacted in days of his early screen successes.

The story, by E. W. Hornung, author of "Raffles," deals with a great love between the two, born when Stingaree comes to rob the home where the girl occupies the position of humble relative and servant. He hears her sing, then kidnaps her and escapes to his romantic mountain lair, right through a cordon of mounted police sworn to kill him on sight. Eventually he starts her on her cherished road to fame by sacrificing his liberty.

The cast includes Mary Boland, Conway Tearle and Andy Devine.

Charlie Chan, portrayed by Warner Oland, solves another blood-chilling mystery in the Fox picture, "Charlie Chan's Courage."

Who threw the deadly knife that killed a faithful Chinese servant? Why did a pet parrot scream, "Help! Murder!?" Who killed the bird, silencing that scream forever? Who had been murdered at a millionaire's lonely desert mansion... and where was the body?

These are the questions bristling forth from the story by Earl Derr Biggers that have to be solved by the gigantic oriental detective created on the screen by Warner Oland. It is one of his most baffling mysteries.

On the stage "Frisco Frolics Revue" featuring Maurice Cash, presenting W.L.S. Merry Go Round as done in the radio station. Also little Betty Loranz singing and dancing.

TRACY AND OAKIE STAR IN PLAY SUNDAY AND MONDAY.

Spencer Tracy and Jack Oakie have some highly exciting adventures in danger, love and comedy in "Looking for Trouble," the film play which will play at the Oasis theatre Sunday and Monday.

The two telephone girls, who are their sweethearts, and incidentally the cause of many of their more humorous escapades, are played by Constance Cummings and Arline Judge.

Tracy and Oakie have a series of thrilling adventures as telephone linesmen when they run afoul of wiretappers and gangsters engaged in engineering a bank robbery. It is also a part of their job to keep the communication lines open during an earthquake when they find themselves perched precariously on tottering telephone poles amid a tangle of high-voltage wires, while sidewalks buckle and streets crack open beneath them.

"Looking for Trouble" was produced by Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck for United Artists release.

Mr. Paulson just returned from Denver where he attended the Western Regional Conference called by the Federal Service and reports that Oregon, besides winning a number of prizes, was successful in securing the Regional Conference for Oregon next year.

The following Vocational Rehabilitation students were successful in winning prizes in the contest held in conjunction with the conference: LeRoy Cincy, Portland, Oregon; first place in Drafting, winning an expensive set of drawing instruments. First place in mechanical drawing winning a $3 merchandise order.
