Utilize Funds.

Several tracts of land on the Hermiston project are being considered by a committee of local citizens as being adaptable for the particular purpose of constructing a recreational park as a community enterprise with funds now available for such projects from the federal government.

A more worthwhile enterprise could not be undertaken to enhance values and make the project a more desirable place in which to live. Such a project can easily be accomplished by careful planning and complete cooperation of every organization in the city and community.

Work has progressed to the point where bids on desirable tracts will soon be received by the committee. Why let $15000 which can be utilized in our local community slip through our fingers?

Similar Projects.

A percent of the funds which were recently appropriated by the federal government for improvements needed within the city limits of towns in Oregon could be used in Hermiston to straighten the highway from the corner at Stewart's service station to come in direct line with the main artery highway on the corner of West Main, if Pendleton does not vote, on September 8, to extend her city limits to include the state hospital grounds.

If, and when this is done, the west approach to Pendleton will include the construction of a new bridge across the Umatilla river. The extension of the city limits is being urged by Pendleton business men and by E. B. Aldrich, member of the State Highway Commission, who resides in Pendleton and who is editor of the Pendleton East Oregonian.

The change in the highway at Hermiston, which will be impossible, if funds are used to change the west approach to Pendleton, would eliminate two left hand turns which slow up traffic and are a menace to highway travel.

Hermiston does not need to extend its city limits for the proposed work to come under this appropriation but the highway does not lead directly into Pendleton. Traffic hazards are even greater at this point on the Oregon Trail highway than at the west approach at Pendleton. There is little doubt that Pendleton people will vote to extend the city limits to provide for such a project when federal funds may be secured. Hope for an approval of the Hermiston project has been abandoned. In a talk before the Pendleton Kiwanis club recently, Mr. Aldrich said, "In event Pendleton people do not desire to have the proposed Oregon Trail west approach constructed it is possible that approval for a similar project at Hermiston can be obtained."

The odds are against approval of any similar project at Hermiston. Hermiston not only wears a sore toe on this point of construction but also on similar lack of approval of needed improvements on roads which have been made secondary highways and which carry farm traffic from heavily populated farming districts. Hermiston does not "oppose" the work at Pendleton but would like to see the approval of a "similar" project here.

"LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?" HAS STRONG SITUATIONS.

"Little Man, What Now," which will be at the Oasis theatre Sunday and Monday, is an unusually worthwhile and satisfying piece of screen entertainment, thoughtfully written, brilliantly directed and sincerely acted.

The writing is that of Hans Faldada, whose novel of the same title is the source of the story.

"Little Man, What Now," paints a vivid and arresting picture of our times, but it leaves audiences to answer as they will the question in the title. It is a question fraught with grave possibilities, as this picture makes clear.

The "little man" of the story is a crook's clerk. He asks nothing of life but the right to work and care for his loyal wife and prospective child. "I believe," he declares in one revealing speech, "that those who love peace should be allowed to have it." But peace and security for the "little men" are not to be had for the wishing. The times are troubled and there are injustices in the social order. How easy it would be for the "little man" pressed to the point of desperation, to rebel in violence is hinted on two occasions.

O'BRIEN DC'S GLOVES IN "EVER SINCE EVE"

We have long awaited the opportunity to see George O'Brien in other than a Western role. Now the wait is over, for O'Brien makes his appearance as a man-about-town in his latest film release, "Ever Since Eve," which comes to the screen of the Oasis theatre Friday and Saturday.

Shirley Temple in "Pardon My Paps" and the cartoon, "Three Bears," complete the program.

"MYSTIC CIRCUS" COMING TO HERMISTON WEDNESDAY.

"The Mystic Circus" is coming to Hermiston and is reported to have more thrills, shivers and rollicking fun than a five-ring circus. But the "Mystic Circus" will not be in a tent. Instead, it will be on the stage at the Oasis theatre. The date has been set for Wednesday, and the show is said to be a gala event.

Birds, animals and people will combine their efforts in the merry-making and spectacular thrills to present the banner stage offering of the season, according to press reports.

Virgil, premier international illusionist, heads the show and with his versatility and speed demonstrates consistently why his audiences hail him as king of entertainers in the illusion field. He doesn't overlook a single opportunity to create thrills and laughter. His show is estimated to have cost him $50,000 and to weigh over 20,000 pounds.

With him is Julie, the "woman without a middle." And there is Flora, the electric girl, and Abdul, the blunderer, and Sheila the noted African lion.

The show is being brought to this city at great expense because experience has proven that all people everywhere are hungry for clean exciting amusement with real people and animals that entertain.

On the screen is the new film "Bachelor Bait" with Stuart Erwin and Pert Kelton.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Mind" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 26.

The Golden Text was, "Who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counsellor? For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever" (Rom. 11:34, 36).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "To whom then will ye liken God? or what likeness will ye compare unto him?" (Isa. 40:18).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind is God . . . There can be but one God; and if mortals claimed no other Mind and accepted no other, sin would be unknown. We can have but one Mind, if that one is infinite" (p. 469).
