COLMAN BACK—HE'S "DRUMMOND" AGAIN

"Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," in which Ronald Colman returns to the screen after a long absence, will be at the Oasis theatre Sunday and Monday.

In "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," Colman is again the gentlemanly English detective he portrayed in the original "Bulldog Drummond." Again he is the rescuer of beauty in distress, the beauty this time being portrayed by Loretta Young. The story is reported to be a happy combination of romance, mystery and melodrama.

MAYNARD OUTWITS GANGS

N PICTURE "GUN JUSTICE"

Brace yourself for a new set of thrills. The management of the Oasis theatre has booked the latest picture of the rip-roarin', hard-ridin', hard-shootin' Ken Maynard, king of cowboys, called "Gun Justice."

It will be seen here on Friday and Saturday.

In "Gun Justice" Ken outdoes his performance in "Strawberry Roan," and to be the best western picture made in the past few years.

Burning Stubble, Dusting, Pays.
OREGON CITY—An active check conducted by Berg Brothers of Barlow, who grow and deal in Austrian winter peas and hairy vetch, shows that with one or two small exceptions, those who burned the stubble of their Austrian winter peas and dusted this year produced seed of high germination which brought a fairly good price, while those who failed to do so generally had seed of low germination and failed to find a market. Approximately 1000 acres of these peas were dusted this year, a movement in which County Agent J. J. Inskip cooperated.
