D. F. P. A. OFFERS CANDIDATE FOR NATIONAL COUNCILLOR.

At the recent quarterly meeting of the State Chapter of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, held in Portland, reports were given on the progress of their major projects. Some of these should enlist the interest and co-operation of the whole state, namely, the effort to inaugurate a tribute of some kind to honor George H. Himes, the noted pioneer and historian of pioneer times, who is still at work in his chosen field, as curator of the Oregon Historical Society, at 90 years of age; and the refurnishing of the McLoughlin House in Oregon City when it is restored. The D.F.P.A. has selected the Eloise Room, and furniture of the period has been found, here and there, one piece coming from old Fort Vancouver, itself, and another from an old and prominent home in Oregon City, but now in Baker and proffered by a descendant.

The society has presented a handsome book to the McLoughlin House for collecting the pictorial history of the grand old man and his mansion; and they also keep up a large and beautiful scrapbook compiled from their own continuing history. A charter member, Mrs. Willard Hart Chapin, is curator at the McLoughlin House.

A gift book has been opened by the chapter in which many choice presents have been recorded, two having been received that day: a state flag from Mrs. O. J. Goffin, one of many gifts from the same source, and a History of the National Society of Colonial Dames, from Mrs. William House, president of the Oregon State Society, who was an honor guest of the sister organization. Mrs. James Thorburn Ross, president, presided.

The most outstanding business was the enthusiastic and unanimous endorsement of Mrs. Goffin for the office of National Councillor. This carries with it attendance at General Court, held annually in Washington City, each of the three following years. As the real West has never been represented, the chapter has high hopes that its candidate may win. Mrs. Goffin was a charter member of Oregon D. F. P. A., has served as secretary, president, and now historian, and has been head of important committees, that on the Himes tribute being one. In many other ways she has fostered the best interests of the society and will be a worthy representative of Oregon in the eastern convention. Mrs. Goffin has been active in Oregon D. A. R. and C. A. R. organizations also.

Under supervision of the General Court a work of great national im-
